BASEBALL TEAM OFF FOR ST. LOUIS TODAY

Coach Dye Taking Fourteen Men to Combat Washington Pikers Friday and Saturday.

Fourteen Cornhusker diamond artists, accompanied by Coach Scott Dye, entrain at 1:50 this afternoon for St. Louis, where they will engage Washington University in a pair of games Friday and Saturday.

Following the practice Wednesday afternoon Coach Dye reported that his men were in the best of condition and that the batting stride which they hit at Missouri last week was continuing. Extensive batting practice this week has corrected many defects, and Washington outfielders are to have a hard time in the contests. Custer, Omaha, and Lincoln, reported to the baseball squad yesterday afternoon and displayed his wares, and Coach Dye regards him as a strong acquisition to the hurling squad. Captain Carman is back in condition and he will probably be used in one of the contests at Washington.

Little dope exists regarding the contests or the ability of the Washington team, but the Huskers, on the strength of their showing last week are expected to cop handily. The St. Louis team has an average of 500 per cent in the conference, but it has played only two games, winning one and losing one.

The men who will make the trip are: Captain Carman, Omaha, Vols, Gibbs, Russell, Lewellen, Hubka, Petty, Dolezal, Peterson, Tipton, Collins and Janda.

A widow who has money to burn soon finds old flames to help burn it.

Correct this sentence: "I tell you," cried the profiteer, "we must count it a great privilege to pay for a war so nobly fought and won."

It seems strange that some genius doesn't give us a touching ballad entitled: "I didn't raise my boy to be a taxpayer."

The Sport Circle

Dr. Clapp has asked that all men interested in a handicap wrestling meet leave their names at his office. If sufficient interest is shown a series of matches with the Varsity squad will be arranged. So that the members of the team will not have too great an advantage they will be placed under handicaps.

Another name has been added to the list of sports writers produced by the University of Nebraska. Charles Massey, a sophomore, is now assistant sports editor of the State Journal. John Bentley, sports editor, was a former student at the University, as was his predecessor, Leonard Cowley. Gregg McBride is assistant sports editor of The Star.

Football candidates Wednesday evening went through their first spring scrimmage of the season. Two teams were formed and each given a chance to take the ball down the field.

The number of men turning out for spring football has increased greatly during the past few days. Wednesday there were twenty-five prospective gridsters at practice—an increase of ten over the daily run last week.

Coach Owen Grank, who sustained a fractured jaw when he collided with a member of the football squad during practice Tuesday evening, was much improved Wednesday.

Dates on which the Iowa State baseball team will play the Cornhuskers in Lincoln has been changed to May 11 and 12. Nebraska will meet the Ames aggregation on its home ground later.

BALLPLAYERS AND FOOD A BIG TOPIC

Ping Bodie used to be one of the "eatnest" ball players in the big leagues when he was playing the outfield and clowning with the New York Yankees. His talent at the table once led a humorist among the baseball writers to propose a spaghetti eating contest, in which he would back Ping against all comers.

Ping heard about it after he had left the big leagues and was playing out on the Pacific coast and his warm Latin blood boiled with indignation.

"I eat less than anyone on our ball club. Ask Essick (the manager). He allows me three bucks a day for grub and I only spend one."

If the price of spaghetti is not higher in California that it is around Little Italy in New York, Ping could get enough yards of the dish for a buck to founder a couple of less ravenous appetites.

Many ball players have been known to eat themselves out of fast company taking on too much food and getting out of condition. On the other hand, the desire to make something out of the club's meal allowance on the road has kept some of the thrifty players from eating enough.

Connie Mack had a lot of slim youngsters on his Athletic team last year and when some New York writers began to refer to the club as the "Skeletons," Mack protested vigorously against the inference that the club was tight and he emitted words to the effect that you can give a player bread jack, but you can't make him eat.

Peace doesn't cramp the style of the orator. He just substitutes "Wall Street" for "the Kaiser" and uses the same old line.

Cake Eater
—model of 1900

He was called dude and dandy then, but you recognize the type.

He majored in haberdashery and took his degree with honors in soxology.

As if that were not enough, he evolved some variations on the cake walk which made them stare.

He even found time to develop a remarkable proficiency on the tandem bicycle, and on Saturday nights he was good enough to bring pleasure into Another's life by wheeling away to the "Ten-Twent-Thirt."

To crowd all this into four short years would seem enough for any mortal. Yet in spite of his attainments there are times, in after life, when our hero wonders.

The glory of his waistcoats has long since faded, while his books are still fresh and clean. Did he perchance put too much thought into the selection of his hats and too little in what went under them?
