Be at the baseball parade at 3 o'clock and watch the opening game of the 1923 home season at Rock Island Park an hour later.

Engineers' Night celebrated last evening is important for the college, for the University, and for the University community. Its annual appearance is always welcome for it is interesting and worthwhile.

It serves to build a spirit of closer co-operation between the different branches of the Engineering College; it serves the University by bringing it into closer relationship with the people of the state, and it serves the people of the community not only as an instructive exhibit but as a substantial example of the progress of the University and of its contribution to the welfare of Nebraska.

The Engineers deserve congratulations for the success of their efforts to make their "Night" truly successful. While they are celebrating the close of their festive week today, they have the satisfaction of having accomplished something beneficial to their college and their University.

The results of the selection of editors and managers for the 1924 Cornhusker will be watched with a great deal of interest by the students. Two changes have been made in the Cornhusker management since last spring. No longer are the editors elected by popular student vote and no longer do the editors receive all the profits from the annual.

The Student Publication Board of faculty and students, by its own action, now chooses the editor, the managing editor, and the business manager and his assistant. It has established definite regulations for the division of the profits from the year book. It has, in fact, taken over a great responsibility and has a fine opportunity to guide the Cornhusker management along lines which will be beneficial to the book and to the students. The success of the new system of election will be judged in a large measure on the results of the choice of editors this spring.

A "greater day for Nebraska" was opened yesterday when the first ground was turned under on the new stadium site, with Chancellor Avery, the W. A. A., and the "N" Club taking an active part. Speeches were made during a drizzling rain, while Nebraska men and women alike paid their silent tribute to the "absent heroes."

For years Nebraska has looked with admiration upon the stadiums of other schools. For years we have wished that Nebraska, too, might have a stadium—and the thought has always been—"tomorrow, maybe."

For years Nebraska men have filed through the battered bleacher aisles of the "old field"—have played their games; won their victories or met their defeats,—in clouds of dust or pools of water. They have been diamonds in a nickel setting.

Today, "tomorrow" has been realized; the diamonds will be set in a platinum setting; a greater day for Nebraska has been opened; the construction of the great Memorial Stadium has begun.

Fitting indeed that this stadium should be dedicated as the Memorial Stadium, to those Nebraska men who sacrificed their lives in the great war. Forty-five Nebraska played their last game with credit in the great world war Stadium. Their death was a challenge to Nebraska to "carry on."

Nebraska students, faculty, and alumni alike met the final challenge when they made possible through great sacrifice, the erection of this monument—the Stadium—to the living dead.

We owe to these dead a debt that can be paid only by continued untarnished achievement. When we play our games in the Memorial Stadium of school or in the Memorial Stadium of life—we are bound to play it in but one way—in the staunch, unselfish way THEY played it. That done we will truly have witnessed the dawning of a "greater day for Nebraska."

PRINT GUIDEBOOKS FOR FARMER'S FAIR

Students of College of Agriculture Are Completing Plans for Gala Day.

Students of the College of Agriculture are planning all details of the Farmers' Fair, scheduled for May 5. Twenty-five page guidebooks, dedicated to the stadium, are being printed for the Fair. The events of the day, including side shows, dances, and the ball game, a list of all committee members, educational exhibit departments together with a list of all the prizes offered, are included in the programs. A page of jokes especially intended for the seniors is also a part of the book.

The girls of the Home Economics department have announced their plan for an exhibit at the Fair. "This is the time to get some ideas of applied design, costume designing, home furnishing, and the like. Girls of the Town Campus," says a bulletin from the "Ag" campus. "The clothing and textile exhibits will certainly interest you, and you can probably find out why your bank balance and Dad's don't tally at the home management department. If you are reducing or vice versa, stop and notice the foods and dietetics exhibits before you go to the Tea Room on the first floor. Plan to see everything from the bottom to the top of Home Ec. Hall," the notice continues.

RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED BY BOARD OF REGENTS

Professor Stepanek Is Given a Year's Leave of Absence at Meeting Thursday.

The Board of Regents met in the office of the Chancellor at 11 and attended the ground-breaking exercises in a body. The meeting was resumed in the afternoon with all members present except Regent Seymour.

The following resignations were accepted: R. W. Dawson, professor of Entomology; Charles T. Corman, state extension agent (Poultry Husbandry).

The following changes in title without change in work or salary were approved:

M. J. Blish, Professor of Agr. Chemistry and Chemist of Experiment Station, to Professor of Agr. Chem. in the Experiment Station.

R. W. Coss, Asst. Prof. of Plant Pathology and Associate Plant Pathologist in Experiment Station, to Assistant Professor of Plant Pathology in the Experiment Station.

T. A. Kieselbach, Professor of Agronomy, to Professor of Agronomy in the Experiment Station.

H. M. Martin, Asst. Prof. of Animal Pathology and Hygiene, to Asst. Prof. of Animal Pathology and Hygiene in the Experiment Station.

G. L. Peltier, Prof. of Plant Pathology and Plant Pathologist of Experiment Station, to Prof. of Plant Pathology in the Experiment Station.

Everett E. Wehr, Instructor in Entomology, to Instructor in Entomology in the Experiment Station.

Harvey O. Werner, Horticulturist, to Associate Professor of Horticulture.

The ad interim acts of the special committee in connection with the stadium were approved.

The College of Dentistry was given permission to grant the degree of Bachelor of Science in Dentistry to those students who complete the appropriate course of study.

Assistant Professor Stepanek was given a year's leave of absence to fit himself for extending the work in Bohemian language and literature. On his return he becomes an Associate Professor in the Department of Modern Languages. His time not devoted to the teaching of the Bohemian language and literature will be given to work in the Department of English as at present.

one who conceived the idea of erecting a stadium.

Fifty years ago two posts on the campus supporting a horizontal bar constituted the entire athletic equipment of the University of Michigan. Mr. Webster began. Today, he pointed out, Michigan has gymnasiums, a stadium, and other equipment, and every institution in the country is seeking to excel in this department.

"Why this remarkable change from the past?" he questioned. We now believe that physical training is more important than drilling in calculus and irregular Greek verbs, he stated. Regent Webster then outlined the lessons to be taken from the building of the stadium.

"There is no royal road to success in life. It is only hard work that will get you there.

"Every one of us is made up of passions, likes, dislikes, and desires. You can't surrender to your appetites if you are to be a captain in life.

"Our boys here learn that they must play the game according to rules. They learn that there is something more important than to win the game—sportsmanship.

"Sometimes when things are going against you, get a vision of our boys at Chatien Thierry as they stood there adamant."

"Two things impress me at these ceremonies," said Governor Bryan, who spoke next. "First, we are here to show honor to the men who will go down in history as the heroes of the University. Second, we are here to break ground for a stadium that is to fit men and women to take their places in the walks of life. We owe a debt of gratitude to the faculty, to the students, to the alumni of the University for the success you have achieved thus far."

With heads bared to the drizzle, students and guests on the platform covered with rain-soaked fading bunting, sang the "Chant" and the "Cornhusker," lead by the band, and the ceremonies were over.

THE days of seeing how fast you can chase a shaving cream cap down the drain pipe are past. For here is a cap that can't get lost. It's hinged on. Think what a lot of minutes it will save. No matter how carelessly you handle your shaving apparatus, the cap is on to stay.

With a convenience like this cap you might be tempted to use Williams' Shaving Cream whether you cared much for the cream or not. But once you use Williams' you'll like it as well as you do the cap. For Williams' breaks all records for fast softening of the beard. And more, it is good for the skin—soothes it, keeps it in good condition always.

Test a tube of Williams' by judging it on every point you can think of—speed, lather, comfort. See if you don't think it's noticeably better.
