

FARMERS' FAIR IS RIOT OF FUN FOR EVERYONE

dancing on the coliseum floor and the floor in the Ag. Engineering Building. The Home Economics Pageant of Conservation drew a larger crowd than any other one attraction. It was presented but the once.

The Guide Book printed for the Farmers' Fair contained with the program of the day, a list of all the committees working on the plans, a list of all the prizes to be given the cast of characters for the Pageant, a resume of the side-shows, and particulars as to where on the campus there would be refreshments. "Yellow Dog" and the Doughnut Stand were perhaps the most popular ones of the list. The last two pages of the Book were given over to cracks on the seniors. "Hobb" Turner was in charge of the Book.

HONOR SOCIETIES OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Nebraska's Agricultural College supports three honorary societies to reward its worthy students. These are Alpha Zeta, Omicron Nu, and Gamma Sigma Delta. The two former have active chapters of undergraduate students, while election to the latter comes in the second semester of the senior year.

Alpha Zeta is the men's professional agricultural fraternity and to which election is considered one of the highest honors of the College. Election is based upon scholarship, leadership, interest in agriculture and school activities, and personality. The members are selected from the juniors and seniors who class in the upper two-fifths in grades. Alpha Zeta is quite prominent in school activities. At present there are thirty-three chapters.

Omicron Nu is the women's honor society corresponding to Alpha Zeta. At a convocation each semester students elected to membership are announced. Members are selected for scholarship, personality, leadership, and interest in Home Economics. Omicron Nu and Alpha Zeta work in conjunction in Agricultural College activities.

Gamma Sigma Delta is a national fraternity which corresponds to Phi Beta Kappa and selects its members primarily for scholarship. Because of the mathematics and language requirements for Phi Beta Kappa very few Ag men ever qualify. To reward the worthy students Gamma Sigma Delta was organized.

Several of the women students are elected to Phi Beta Kappa each year and occasionally some of the men. Many of the men are elected to Sigma Xi, the honorary scientific fraternity.

Dr. Tracy A. Pierce, of the department of Mathematics, has accepted an invitation to teach in the University of California summer session.
