VOL. XXII—NO. 143.

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1923.

NEBRASKA TO BE HOST SATURDAY

High School Pupils from Over the State Will Be Here as Guests of the University.

TO BE HIGH SCHOOL DAY

State Debate Tournament, State High School Track Meet and Editors' Meeting to Be Here.

When the University of Nebraska hosts to the high school pupils who are coming to Lincoln for High School Fete Day, Saturday, May 12, the program will include the twenty-first annual Nebraska Interscholastic Track and Field Meet, the sixteenth state debate tournament of the Nebraska High School Debating League, the Convention of Nebraska High School Editors, and the Interscholastic Academic Contests.

High School Debating League

In the sixteenth annual state debate of the Nebraska High School Debating League (with 90 members) at the University of Nebraska, May 12-13 will compete for the state championship picked students of argumentation and oral discussion who have won the championships of the eleven districts into which the League is divided. Through the tournament of ten debates beginning with five Thursday evening and ending with the final, state-championship contest in Memorial Hall Saturday morning, the contestants will go for the honor which in 1922 was awarded to North Platte.

To the tournament the contestants will come with an all-round knowledge of the League questions for the year. "Resolved, That Nebraska should adopt the Kansas industrial-court system"—prepared on short notice to put up the case for either side, as the lot-drawing may assign the terms.

The purpose of this state-wide organization, organized in 1908 by Prof. M. M. Fogg with a membership of 30 schools, is to promote straight thinking and effective oral statements of ideas in preparation for future vocation and for the intelligent discharge of the duties of good citizenship.

High scholarship in general prevails among the members of these eleven delegations. In many cases these debaters are the best students in their classes. The list includes six valedictorians and three salutatorians.

Three newcomers at the state debate are included in the list this year: Brady (Western District 1) and Perkins County High School, Grant (Western District II), which are new members of the League; and Battle Creek (North-Central District).

The Nebraska chapter of Delta Sigma Rho—intercollegiate debaters' national honorary society—will assist in managing the tournament—well.

WORK UNDER WAY FOR NEW STADIUM

Excavations Being Rapidly Completed—Concrete Stands to Be Poured in Three Months.

PLEDGES PAYABLE NOW

Cornerstone Will Be Laid June 1 While Alumni Are Attending Round-up Week.

With work on the Memorial Stadium well under way, with the contract let, and the assurance made that the 1923 football schedule will be played in the new athletic field, Stadium supporters have let out a sigh of relief. The anxiety which was felt throughout the campaign for funds has disappeared, and students and alumni are now watching with interest the progress of the actual construction work on the old Nebraska field.

Excavation for the new stadium is rapidly being completed. Daily, tons of dirt are hauled away from the old field and before long the entire ground will be dug out, and the contractor will start laying the concrete foundations. Within a short three months the concrete stands will all be poured and within a month after that the wooden seats will be in and the first game will be played.

The contract calls for the completion within 120 days of the west and eaststands, the combined bleachers being capable of seating nearly 40,000 people. Temporarily, the colonades on the north and the south will be left off, but as soon as enough money is available they will be added. That may be before the football season starts, and it may not be for another year.

Money toward the construction of the stadium has been secured through bonds, upon which the stadium committee is paying the usual high rate of interest. Every cent the committee can collect ahead of time will mean a saving of that much in money borrowed and interest paid.

Payments of the last four installments on the stadium pledges are not due until next fall, but subscribers toward the stadium may pay their later installments now if they wish. The payment of the late installments of the pledges now will save the committee much expense and will assure the stadium of more athletic equipment because of those savings. Some forty-two hundred student subscriptions mean quite a sum, and every dollar that is collected early on those subscriptions mean a saving not only in interest on bonds, but also a saving in bookkeeping and collecting expenses. Keeping the stadium records clear is a huge task, and students who wish to do so can help the stadium committee considerably by making their advance payments now and thus allowing the committee to make their payments at least a closed account. The amount saved on one pledge is comparatively slight, but on the more than 4,000 pledges it is an enormous sum.

Laying of the cornerstone for the Memorial Stadium will be a part of the program for Roundup week this spring. The stadium ceremonies will be held on Friday, June 1, the second day of the Roundup, when nearly two thousand alumni who return for the class reunions and celebrations will be present. Students will do well to plan now to stay over for the ceremonies on that day.

Dedication of the stadium is to be a part of the program for football homecoming day next fall, the day when Kansas meets Nebraska in the annual football contest. A dedication ceremony and program will be arranged for that day equal to any event ever held on the campus.

The stadium is progressing rapidly, and each load of dirt, each mixer of concrete, that is poured into the structure will be watched closely by Nebraska students, realizing as they do that each step brings their dream of a huge Memorial Stadium closer to actuality than it ever was before.

PLAYERS WILL STAGE ORIGINAL PRODUCTION

"An Adventure for Two" to Be Presented by University Players.

"An Adventure for Two," is the title of the anonymous play to be given Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12, by the University Players. The piece was written by one of the members of the producing organization. The play will be staged at the Temple Theatre. Tickets are now on sale at the Ross P. Curtice Company. A Saturday matinee will be given for the benefit of University students.

The leading characters in the play are taken by Neil Brown and Irma McLowan. Other parts in the production are taken by Herbert Yenne, Maria Richardson, Viola Loosbrock, Harold Pelton, and Helen Wiggins. A special set of scenery is being constructed for the production, and the members of the cast are expending every effort to make this one of the best productions of the year.

A comedy in three acts, the majority of the characters for which are seniors and graduates, the production promises one of the most entertaining plays presented this year by the company, according to the management of the University players.

Newens Will Speak at Convocation Thursday

"The Culture Value of an Education" will be the subject of a lecture given by Adrian M. Newens, director of the University School of Music, at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at the Temple Theatre. Teachers college classes will be excused during this hour, and students of other colleges are invited to come.

This is the fourth of a series of lectures given under the auspices of the Teachers college.

Girls Will Wear Green Badges

Green buttons bearing the numerals of their class will be worn by all girls of the freshman class, according to plans being made by the members of the fire class honorary societies for women: Mystic Fish, Xi Delta, Silver Serpent, Mortar Board, and Valkyrite.

It has often been mentioned that the men of the first-year class have to bear the brunt of the "hazing" on the campus. The plan of the buttons for girls is not so much to let the girls take their share of the unpleasantness, as to help the members of the incoming class to become acquainted with one another.

The badges will be green celluloid disks about one and a half inches in diameter, with the class figures in white upon them. This year they will be furnished by Rudge and Guenzel, and will be distributed the second week of school in the fall, from a booth in the store of the donors, which will be in charge of the girls in the upper classes. A record will be kept of the names of all the freshman girls who secure their pins, so that lists of freshman girls may be checked and all girls on the campus will be wearing the pins.

At the beginning of this year, when plan was first suggested, it was thought that scarfs of the Irish hue would be proper thing for the girls to adopt as their symbols of the class to which they belonged. But due to the fact that the vogue for colored scarfs is rapidly passing, this spring it was thought advisable to use buttons of the class color instead. Accordingly, the promise of the buttons was secured from Rudge and Guenzel, and plans are now under way as to ways and means.

Because of the coarse pins which are used on the buttons, it was decided by the members of the sponsoring organizations, that the freshman co-eds shall be required to wear their badges at all times except on even-ings dates, when the marks of the pins might disfigure their dainty gowns.

On Olympic days, if the men are allowed to burn their verdant headgear on the pyre, the girls will add fuel to the fire in the celluloid pins. If the sophomores win the annual contest, however, the girls will not discard their buttons until the men are freed from the necessity of wearing the emerald caps.

It is hoped by the members of the class honoraries that the wearing of the green buttons may become as established a custom among the girls as the green caps are among the men. To this end there will be an effort to enforce the ruling, by means of a special committee for the purpose.

A Bit of My Romantic Experience

Khanta Bala Rai, of Calcutta, India, a student in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Nebraska, has written the following article telling of her trip to this country. Miss Rai plans to return to India in the latter part of June.

BY KHANTA BALA RAI

"In the horizon of my childhood imagination, one of the things in which my soul found great delight was the thought of crossing the ocean—not so much of crossing only, but being on the middle of the ocean, where as far as my eyes reached, I would see nothing but waters; and to watch the union of the blue sky above and the blue water below! What a charming power has imagination! What a soothing quality it possesses! Imagination is like a golden shadow of reality.

"However, the star of my fortune favored me with her blessing and lo behold, my imagination turned into actuality! Yes, to my heart's content I drank in the beauty of the marvelousness of the Ocean. And to my great surprise, I found one after another, all my ideas and fancies began to turn into actuality.

"But I was not going to make my tale long. It was my romantic experience that I was going to tell.

"My experiences are numerous and fascinating, but I shall only tell you the important ones. My first association with America was when I was in the primary school, reading the story of George Washington and his cherry tree—little knowing that I should ever visit his home and see for myself the very spot. I was quite thrilled to visit the place and see the relics thereof. Then later on, when I was in high school, studying world's geography, I learned the names of several places by heart: New York, Boston, Philadelphia—and so on. But the name that fascinated me, was the Niagara Falls. And when I actually saw the Falls, I was spell-bound—I realized that our fanes contain a different sort of truth than reality itself. My third and most thrilling association was when I studied the European history in college in Calcutta and read about the war of the American independence. How well I remember that lecture—how I stood up for the then American people; admired their brave spirit of standing up for their own rights at the Battle of Bunker Hill. And when I saw 'Bunker Hill' itself in Boston, I could hardly believe myself awake!

"Another opportunity which I count most glorious was my visit with President and Mrs. Harding at the White House. I can yet feel the thrill that went through me at the time.
