Phi Beta Kappa Key is Honor Most Coveted, Poll of Students Shows

By H. B. ALEXANDER

A recent poll of college students—upper classes mainly—requesting them to name the collegiate honor most coveted by them revealed the rather surprising fact that Phi Beta Kappa stood heavily first. This is surprising in view of the assumption, so general as to be commonplace, that athletic and student activity distinctions are those most valued, that these are the first aim of the normal student and scholarship only secondary. To those who believe that colleges are justified by their opportunities for work rather than play, this result is most gratifying, for it shows that students generally have a more level-headed sense of values than the public gives them credit for.

But what is this Phi Beta Kappa? It is the first of the Greek-letter societies; but it is not at all like the social fraternities which have taken over the Greek letters. Originally—and its origin goes back to Harvard in the

At Nine O'clock Monday Morning "Your" Cornhusker Will Be Out

"Your" Cornhusker will be out Monday.

The annual for 1923 will be distributed Monday morning beginning at nine o'clock from the office of the Cornhusker in the northwest corner of the basement of Administration building.

The book is said to be the biggest and best in the history of the University. A new departure in college annuals is in store for the readers of the Cornhusker. The cover of the annual done in the color process which is one of the latest things in annual composition, is a very attractive setting for the book.

The "Representative Nebraskans" whose pictures will be one of the main attractions, is also a new feature. This section takes the place of the beauty section which has aroused unfavorable comment in the past, and the editors feel that the question has been adequately solved in the substitution.

The staff began work on the book before the Christmas holidays, and the minutest care has been given every detail to make it an annual worthy of Nebraska. It is with pride that the staff now presents "your" Cornhusker to the University.

The remainder of the fee charged for the book will be collected at the time of distribution. Students are urged to have their money with them. A few extra copies have been ordered for the accommodation of those who did not secure theirs during the subscription campaign. These may be had at the time of circulation at the Cornhusker office.

ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTY APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE FOR 1923-24

Committee Votes to Turn Over Surplus of $100 to New Memorial Stadium.

As a grand finale to a successful season, the all-University Party committee voted to turn over $100, the amount made from the five mixers this year, to the Memorial Stadium. This is the second contribution made to the new athletic structure by the committee, more than $200 in liberty bonds having been given to the stadium early last fall.

Kenneth Cozier was elected to succeed J. Wilbur Wolfe as the general chairman of the committee for next year. Cozier has been a chairman of the reception committee this year, and was in charge of the freshman party last fall. Mr. Cozier is a junior in the college of business administration and is president of the University Commercial Club. He won his "N" in basketball this year.

Other appointments of joint chairmen of the various committees for the all-University Party committee for next year were:

Reception—Frances Weintz and Crawford Follmer.

Refreshment—Helen Kummer and Irwin I. Jetter.

Decoration—Mary Creekpaum and Welch Pogue.

Decoration—Eleanor Flattermensch and Laddimer Hubka.

Publicity—Beulah Butler and Chas. Warren.

Secretary—Pauline Gellatley.

Checking—Leicester Hyde (re-elected).

A tentative schedule for the all-University Parties for next year was adopted as follows:

September 29—Welcoming party.

October 20—Homecoming day, Kansas football game.

November 24—Syracuse football game.

December 15—University Christmas tree.

February 16—Valentine party.

March 22—Spring party.

The committee extended a vote of thanks to J. Wilbur Wolfe for his sincere work on the committee this year.

URGE STUDENTS TO MAKE PAYMENTS ON STADIUM PLEDGES

Association Will Be Saved Large Sum of Money if Installments Are Paid Now.

Payment of stadium pledges does not come due until next October, but the Nebraska Memorial Association now holds a $300,000 mortgage on the athletic structure, which sum is drawing a high rate of interest. Every cent that is out in pledges means just that much less money to put into the stadium and just that much more time must be lost before the final finishing touches can be made.

The situation in which the Memorial Association finds itself is best realized by the statement of Harold F. Holtz, the chairman, when he said Thursday that the committee "has nary a dime, not a sou, to spend."

Forty-two hundred stadium pledges are being held by students of the University. This represents more than $110,000. Approximately one-fifth of this amount or $26,000 has already been paid. The other $84,000 is still held in pledges. This $84,000 is drawing interest every day.

To the average student, the interest on $5 or even on $20 is little. Between now and October he will spend three months working and by next fall at least he will be able to pay off his entire stadium obligation. But between now and next fall, the Memorial Association must pay a high rate of interest on the money which it will collect eventually from the students, and every cent that is paid out in interest detracts from the amount that can be put into the structure.

If every student in the University would make it a point to make his second payment of $5 on each $25, or the second fifth of his pledge, before the end of school next week, the stadium committee would be saved between $850 and $1,500. The interest on these forty-two hundred five dollar pledges represented by the second stadium payments represents at 4 per cent interest $960, and at 6 per cent interest, $1,260. Not only will the committee save this amount in interest but it would be able to reduce the entire principal approximately $20,000 and so would be able to go ahead very soon with the plans for replacing the $150,000 worth of items which have tentatively been left out of the stadium.

Payment of the late installments of the stadium pledges, while they are not due until next October, may be paid in the Alumni office, room 106, Law building, at any time. Students should make these later payments as a voluntary contribution to the success of the greatest building ever attempted at the University.

Kappa Sigs Victor Over Sig Alph Nine

In the third round of the Inter-fraternity baseball tournament the Kappa Sigs defeated the Sig Alph nine at the Rock Island ball park Thursday afternoon. Swanson and Dewitz hurled the pellet for the S. A. E.'s while Snider pitched steady ball for the Kappa Sigs. The Sig Alps were leading 6 to 3 up until the sixth inning when the Capitol Sigs let loose for nine runs which places them in the semi-finals.

Still, the age of miracles produced few things more awe-inspiring than a successful steal of home.

ARTS AND SCIENCE COLLEGE DAY IS NEXT WEDNESDAY

Students Will Be Excused from Eleven O'clock Classes for Special Convocation.

BANQUET IS IN EVENING

Centurions and Vestals Are in Charge of Big Program—Many Novel Stunts Planned.

Arts and Science College Day has been set for next Wednesday, May 23, and will be the biggest in the history of the college, according to plans announced last night by students in charge of preparations.

In addition to a convocation at eleven in the morning when all students of the mother college are excused from classes, there will be a college banquet at the Chamber of Commerce in the evening. The program is in charge of the Centurions and Vestals, honorary Arts and Sciences student organizations. New members for these organizations will be chosen soon and announced at the banquet.

On the program of the evening are already listed talks by Judge James Stuart Dales, first graduate of the College of Arts and Sciences, and by Dean Philo M. Buck of the college. Dean Buck has been saving many of the accounts of his experiences in India this winter to tell for the first time at the college banquet.

Musical numbers which are novel and will be enjoyed by the students are being booked and a student orchestra will play during the first part of the evening. Definite announcement of the ticket sale for the banquet will be made tomorrow and the students of the College of Arts and Sciences may obtain them from students in the Centurion and Vestal organizations.

Regent George N. Seymour, of Elgin, will make a special trip to Lincoln to speak at the convocation Wednesday morning. His subject has not yet been announced. Dean Buck will probably preside at the convocation.

Arts and Science College day was started last spring with a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce by several hundred students. Students and members of the faculty of the college were listed on the program and it was decided to hold a college banquet each spring. No arrangements were made for the "day" this spring until the return of Dean Buck from his exchange professorship abroad.

The initiation ceremonies for the charter member of the Vestals of the Lamp, women's organization and the Centurions, men's organization, were held after the banquet in conjunction with a part of the Arts and Sciences pageant. This pageant was written by Dr. H. B. Alexander of the Department of Philosophy and was presented as a part of the college exercises during the Roundup Week celebration last June. The pageant will not be given at the banquet this year.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO HOLD FINAL MEETING

All Plans for Activities of the Board at Beginning of Next Year Are Discussed.

The final meeting of the Student Council will be held at five o'clock Friday afternoon in Social Science 107. It is especially important that all members be present, as plans for the activities of the Council at the beginning of the year will be made, and the constitution will be examined with regard to the powers of the Council.

The president will report on the constitution, and talks on the strength of the Council will be made by several faculty members, including Dean F. D. Dawson. Since several of the newly-elected members of the Council were not present at the last meeting, the president requests that everyone attend tonight's meeting, so that the people who will be working together may become acquainted with one another.

The Student Council this year has had charge of student elections, and of campus drives for funds.

As we understand the ruling, it is illegal to break the law until you get three miles from home.

DR. ALEXANDER MEIKELJOHN

NOTED AMERICAN COLLEGE LEADER TO GIVE ORATION

Dr. Alexander Meikeljohn, President of Amherst College, to Deliver Annual Address.

SOCIETIES ARE SPONSORS

"Democracy and Excellence" to Be Subject of Talk to Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Alexander Meikeljohn, president of Amherst College, will deliver the annual oration of the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi societies Saturday evening at 8:00 in the Social Science auditorium. President Meikeljohn is a recognized leader of American collegiate education and has been in demand for addresses before learned societies.

"I would define the intellectually educated man as one who can bring a unified interpretation of the world to bear on the problems of human experience, and who also appreciates how thought has achieved those results which have made his interpretation possible." So was the ideal product of the education of a college of Arts and Sciences characterized by Alexander Meikeljohn of Amherst College, who is the annual orator of the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi societies Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the Social Science auditorium.

In his inaugural address at Amherst, a document which has been "generally recognized as one of the classic statements of the claims of liberal learning," Dr. Meikeljohn has discriminated between the task of the liberal college and that of the technical or professional school as follows:

"In the technical school pupils are prepared for a special work and are kept for the most part on the plane of 'pep' and 'band'. In the professional school students are properly within the realm of ideas and principles, but they are still limited to a specific human interest with which alone their understanding is concerned. But the college is called liberal as against both of these because the instruction is dominated by no special interest, is limited to no single task, but is intended to take human activities as a whole, to understand human endeavors not in their isolation but in their relations to one another and to the total experience which we call the life of our people. And just as we believe that the building of ships has become more successful as men have come to a knowledge of the principles involved in their construction; just as the practice of medicine has become more successful as men have come to a knowledge of the human body, of the conditions within it and the influences without—just so the teacher in the liberal college believes that life as a total enterprise, life as it presents itself to each one of us in his career as an individual—human living—will be more successful insofar as men come to understand it and to know it as they attempt to carry it on. To give boys an intellectual grasp on human experience—this it seems to me is the teacher's conception of the chief function of the liberal college."

Dr. Meikeljohn's subject Saturday will be "Democracy and Excellence."

REGISTRATION FOR NEXT YEAR PROGRESSES FAST

Deans in Various Colleges Report Enrollment Proceeding Satisfactorily.

Reports from the Deans of the Colleges yesterday showed that registration was progressing at a rather rapid rate. The registration which began Monday will close Saturday afternoon. Students not registered by that time will be compelled to pay a late fee.

Although no definite count has been made in the Arts and Sciences college, Dean Buck stated yesterday that registration was very satisfactory. In speaking of the work of the advisors in the Arts and Sciences College Dean Buck said: "The work of the advisors is uncommonly carefully done. I find very little to criticize. Their work has been done most carefully."

Between 36 and 40 have registered in the College of Pharmacy according to reports yesterday from Dean Lyman's office. This compares favorably with the number registered last year at this time, according to Dean Lyman.

Dean Seacock's office reports that 85 had registered in the Teachers' College up to Thursday noon. Registration in the Law College Thursday was rather heavy, according to Dean Seavey's office. In the Engineering College, Dean Ferguson reports that 166 had registered up to Thursday morning.

Professor Cochran Talks to Omaha Club

Professor Roy E. Cochran, who was instrumental in the founding of the Omaha club, spoke at the final dinner of the club for the year last night. The dinner was held at the C. M. C. A., and a short business meeting at which officers for the coming year were elected, following the meal. Alex McKine was elected president to succeed Harry Phelps, who will not be back next year. John Madden was elected treasurer to succeed Frank Jacobs. Arville Johnson, present secretary, and Erma Wiltse, vice-president, will continue to hold their offices until the second semester of next year. Professor Cochran talked on the purposes and possibilities of the Omaha club.

National Scientific Honor Society Was Founded at Cornell in 1865

By RAYMOND J. POOL

The national scientific honor society of Sigma Xi was founded at Cornell University in 1865 by a group of scientific men who were desirous of perpetuating a spirit of mutual interest and brotherly comradeship among American men and women of science. The founders also sought to stimulate greater interest among college students of the sciences, and a wider understanding of the fundamental nature and cultural values of a scientific education. There are now forty chapters of the national organization, closely linked together by wholesome bonds, in as many different institutions in the United States and Canada. In the past few years the society has really taken on an international aspect. There are now more than 18,000 members of the society. This large group of specially trained men and women are engaged in scientific work of great variety in all parts of the world. Many of our most prominent men of science in the professions and the industries are members of Sigma Xi, while the faculties of many of the prominent colleges and universities in the United States show long rolls of members.

The Nebraska chapter was founded in 1898, with a number of prominent professors of that time as charter members. Of the original members, Professors Barbour, Bruner, Candy, and Swezey are still in the service of the University. During the intervening years several hundred members have been elected to membership in the local chapter.

In the early years of the society undergraduates, who had shown promise of research ability along the lines of extending scientific knowledge were selected for membership whether they had actually done any research work or not. As the years have passed most of the chapters have decided to elect to active membership only those un-
