MEN ACCUSED OF AUTO STEALING IMPOSE ON FRAT

Medical Students, After Stealing a Sedan in Omaha, Move In On Accacias Wednesday Morning.

POLICE SAY HAVE MADE CONFESSION

Varied Stories Arouse Suspicions of Fraternity Men, With Result That Students Are Held by Police.

Following an attempt to pass themselves on members of the Accacia fraternity as friends of a number of members of the same fraternity at another school, Albert Peterson, 33, and Marion Dorman, 22, both former medical students at the Loyola School of Medicine, were arrested Wednesday night by Detectives N. F. Schneible and Joe Rymer, and were held at police headquarters, where charges of auto theft will probably be placed against them, according to the police.

The two men drove to the Accacia house Wednesday morning, and, after telling the freshmen who answered the door, that they had a large number of friends who were members of that fraternity, asked permission to run their cars in the garage, and to wash up. Of course the request was granted.

However, like the proverbial camel, instead of merely cleaning up, they moved in two trunks and three suitcases, took possession of one of the rooms and gave every evidence of settling down for a long winter.

In talking to the various members of the chapter their stories varied, and the more active members became suspicious of their actions.

Their suspicions crystallized when, after telling them that the house was full, and they would be unable to accommodate them overnight, one offered to make a deposit, but was stopped by the other, who said, "Don't give them any money, that's all foolishness, and besides they don't doubt us."

Two detectives were called from police headquarters and upon arresting the men just as they were leaving the house, secured a confession that the new Ford coupe in which they had driven from Omaha, had been stolen in that city. The name of the owner was not learned.

Both men had driven to Omaha, intending to enter the Nebraska School of Medicine there, but had wrecked their automobile on the way, and, after stealing a car there, planned to return and enter a medical school at Chicago, police say.

Peterson carried a list of credits gained in another school.

It is expected that they will be returned to Omaha to face charges there, if any are filed.

FRESHMEN WHIPPING INTO GOOD FORM

Fifty Men Answer Roll Call at First Practice of Yearlings—Expect More.

With the first varsity game only a short two weeks distant, Freshman Coach Farley Young is rapidly whipping his yearlings into shape for scrimmage with the regulars. Yesterday's practice was cut short by the rain. Captain J. H. Hagan of the military department, who was quarterback on the 1915 University of Alabama team, is helping Coach Young in the backfield. Fifty first-year men, including a large number of high school stars, answered the first official roll call yesterday, while about twenty-five more are expected to turn out during the next two weeks, Coach Young stated.

NOTICE
Student Managers
sophomores who wish to try-out for Football Student Manager by applying this fall as Sophomore candidates should report to the Athletic office at once or to Jim Tyson, Student Manager, at the gymnasium.

Wearing of the Green

Green caps must be worn by all first year men. These caps must be worn at all times whether or not students are upon the University campus. The caps may be discarded after Olympics if the freshmen beat the sophomores in the annual classic. The Iron Sphinx will be in charge of the enforcement of the green cap rule and each sophomore man is appointed a committee of one to see to the enforcement of the wearing of the green caps.

TICKET PRICES FOR ATHLETICS NOT TO CHANGE

Campaign to Be Held Early in October, According to Announcement by Student Activities Office.

EFFORT TO BE MADE TO SELL FOUR THOUSAND

Tickets Admit Holders to All Athletic Events and Include Privileges of University Tennis Courts.

Student athletic tickets will be sold on the campus October 10, 11, and 12, according to announcement made from the office of the agent of student activities last night. On the three days preceding Nebraska's first home football game, students will be given an opportunity to buy a ticket admitting them to all football, basketball, track, baseball and wrestling events of the school year 1923-24. Tennis privileges are also included. The price will remain at $7.50, cash payment. Estimate Sale of 4,000.

Four thousand tickets, it is estimated, will be purchased by undergraduates the first day or two of the campaign. That number of seats will be set aside in the middle of the east-side bleachers in the stadium for students only. Booths on the campus will be erected from which the tickets may be obtained.

The committee of students in charge of the campaign is urging freshmen and upperclassmen to keep the dates of the campaign in mind and be ready for the canvassers. The tickets are now printed and ready for distribution, according to the office of student activities.

Following the custom of past years when the athletic tickets have been offered to students at the low price, buttons will be given to those who purchase the tickets. The button to be used this fall is a red

REPRESENT NEBRASKA AT ANNUAL CONCLAVE

Co-eds Attend Y. W. C. A. Convention in Estes Park; Emily Ross Elected

Fourteen Y. W. C. A. girls represented Nebraska university at the annual Rocky Mountain student conference at Estes Park, Colorado, August 14 to 24.

Erma Appleby, secretary of the organization, Grace Spacht, president, and Mary Creeppaum, undergraduate representative, were the official representatives. The other girls who attended were Frances Mentzer, Margaret Hager, Esther Swanson, Desma Renner, Gertrude Strong, Ruth Carpenter, Agnes Kessler, Millicent Jacke, and Arvilla Johnson.

Emily Ross was elected regional editor for the Woman's Press, official Y. W. C. A. magazine.

Group study and discussion, and platform addresses worked out the aim of the conference—"the exploration and experience of the way of Jesus for one's own life and for the life of the world." The conference speakers were:

Rev. Harris Franklin Hall, D. D., Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., and Prof. Edmund D. Soper, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

FIRST ALL-UNI PARTY WILL BE HELD SEPT. 29

Committee Plans Series of Entertainments Through University School Year, Chairman Says.

FRESHMAN RECEPTION IS FIRST EVENT SCHEDULED

Program as Announced Will Consist Only of Dancing; To Be Held in Armory, Now Remodeled.

A reception for all freshmen of the university on Saturday, September 29, will open a series of six parties which are to be given this year by the all-university party committee.

The first party of the year will consist of a program of dancing, and refreshments will be served. At parties later in the year added entertainment will be provided for those who do not dance but because of the crowd which is expected at the first party dancing only has been arranged. The parties will all be held in the Armory, which, since its enlargement, is estimated to be able to accommodate 1,500 persons.

Final plans for the year's schedule will be worked out at a meeting of the committee which has been called by Chairman Kenneth Cozier for Friday at 5 p. m., at Ellen Smith hall. All committee chairmen will be present and it is expected that they will select their committeemen at that time.

Arrangements have been made for the following parties during the year:

- September 29, Freshmen party.
- October 20, All University dance.
- November 24, All University party.
- December 15, All University Christmas party.
- February 15, All University Valentine party.
- March 15, All University party.

Kenneth Cozier, chairman, points out that all of the entertainments, and the first in particular, are excellent opportunities for the new students at the university to become acquainted. He says: "friends are one of the greatest assets acquired during the school term." A reception committee at the party will assist the strangers in getting acquainted.

The party committee chairmen are as follows:

Chairman, Kenneth Cozier; secretary, Pauline Gellatly; publicity, Chuck Warren and Beulah Butler; reception, Frances Wientz and Crawford K. Follmer; entertainment, Mary Creeppaum and Welch Pogue; refreshment, Helen Kummer and Irvin Jetter; checking, Leicester Hyde; decoration, Elnor Flattermush and Laddimer Hubka.

Fighting Cornhuskers Face First Real Scrimmage Early Next Week

Nebraska's fighting Cornhuskers will have their first real scrimmage the first of next week, according to reports Wednesday afternoon. The practice will be given on the new stadium field, when the warriors will face the task of whipping into shape for the Illinois game, at Urbana, October 5.

A heavy shower Wednesday afternoon halted the Cornhusker football practice, and with the exception of a squad to run signals, the men were all sent to the shower.

The squad was divided in different groups during the practice, each being given instruction in their particular line.

"Chick" Hartley, assistant coach, varsity captain last year, took charge of the new backfield material, and, after giving them instructions in fundamentals, put them through a course of side-stepping and carrying the ball.

Assistant Coach Scherer took the wing men to one corner of the field giving them a drill on feinting, pass

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE PLACED AGAINST DRIVER

Ernest Grainger Pleads Not Guilty When Arraigned in Justice Stephen's Court Wednesday Afternoon.

PRELIMINARY HEARING SET FOR OCTOBER FIRST

County Attorney Matson Says Official Investigation Proves Nothing Irregular at the Rush Party.

A complaint charging Ernest Grainger with manslaughter was filed in Justice W. H. Stevens court Wednesday noon by County Attorney Charles Matson.

Grainger was driving the car wrecked while attempting to take a turn at high speed eight miles south of Lincoln Saturday morning, costing the lives of Edna Boorman and Carl Springer, prominent university students.

Grainger stood mute to the charge and a verdict of not guilty was entered by Justice Stevens. He made no comment.

Preliminary hearing was set for October 1 and Grainger was released on $5,000 bond given by W. E. Barkley.

The complaint charges that while driving at an unlawful and excessive speed, recklessly and carelessly, Grainger did unintentionally, but unlawfully and feloniously, kill Carl Springer and Edna Boorman.

The coroner's jury which investigated the deaths of the two victims, returned a verdict Tuesday afternoon placing the responsibility for the tragedy upon Grainger.

The following explanation of the circumstances leading to the tragedy was issued Wednesday by County Attorney Matson.

"It is due the memories of the beautiful girl and splendid young man who lost their lives through the 'unlawful, reckless and careless driving' of Ernest Grainger as the coroner's jury found, that I should say that after the complete official investigation that could be made in the time available, not one word was developed that cast any reflection in the remotest degree upon either of them or upon Miss Stott, the third member of the party or the sorority to which the girls belonged.

"There was nothing improper or irregular in seven of this sorority's members accepting an invitation to assist in serving luncheon to this group of fraternity boys at the Grainger home, the home one of the oldest and most socially prominent families in the city, where they were chaperoned by the married Grainger daughter, Mrs. Fullerton. There was nothing improper or irregular in the seven girls with Mrs. Fullerton, the chaperon, playing two tables of bridge upstairs by themselves until 11 o'clock while the boys entertained themselves downstairs.

"There was nothing improper or irregular in them assisting their chaperon in serving sandwiches, (Continued on Page 4)

Drop in Your Penny

When you step into the library and find that, as usual, your fountain pen is dry and there is an assignment that must be written up, just step right over to that little machine, drop a penny in the slot and give the pen a drink. The machine supercedes the good-hearted persons who used to set a bottle out for thirsty pens, much as cities used to construct fountains on the corner for thirsty horses.

This is novel, economical and a great aid to those who were negligent in watching for the comfort of their fountain pens.

PROBE STANDING OF FRATERNITY PLEDGES

Committee to Investigate High School Activities of Plebes; Rumor Secret Societies Operating Under Cover.

Omaha and Lincoln fraternity pledges will be announced as soon after Saturday as all sworn affidavits concerning high school activities have been turned in by the pledges to Prof. R. D. Scott, head of the committee. After that, determined investigation will be made of the high school fraternities, and any student found to have sworn out false affidavits will be immediately expelled.

"The only place where positive evidence of high school fraternities has been discovered is at Omaha," Professor Scott stated, "but some may be under cover at Lincoln and activities there will be thoroughly investigated."

Though the committee's investigation last year lasted for two or three weeks, it is expected to take a much shorter amount of time this year, both on account of more information, and because of a fewer number of illegitimate organizations.

When first the movement at the university against high school students of bad standing was begun five or six years ago, fraternities were known to have been organized at Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Hastings and possibly at York.

Some of these have been stamped out as the state law provides, and at Lincoln last year, a number of students were condemned for belonging to one. Attempts have been made to reorganize, but on the other hand, some of the fraternities have broken off national affiliations and converted themselves into literary societies.

The examining committee at the university is composed of Professor Scott, O. J. Fee, and Eugene Holland. A few pledge lists have already been turned in, and the committee is at work.

JAYHAWKER TEAM HAS UNUSUAL PROSPECTS

Must Find Backfield Men, However, Capable of Playing Varsity Football.

Sixty men turned out for football at Kansas university Monday at the first real practice of the season. Captain Charlie Black, who has been switched from end to quarter, is back, with ten letter men as a nucleus for the 1923 machine. This is the largest turnout since Head Coach "Potsy" Clark took over Jayhawker football in 1921.

Kansas has a good foundation for a winning team this year and with the large number of sophomores and veterans returned should fill the vacant positions with ease.

Nebraska meets the Jayhawkers October 20, in Lincoln. The Cornhuskers face their hardest problem in turning out a sturdy line. Kansas, on the other hand, must find two backs capable of filling the varsity places.

Max Krueger, a back last year, has been sent to end to fill the hole left by the shifting of Captain Black to the pilot position. This leaves Harold Burt as the only veteran in the backfield.

The team will probably average about 175 pounds, according to Coach Clark. This is considerably heavier than any of the K. U. elevens of the past few seasons. Kansas will have her first real

TO START SALE OF GREEN CAPS NEXT TUESDAY

To Sell Tickets on Campus Which Will Entitle Bearer to Cap if Presented at Clothing Store.

SPHINX TO ENFORCE NEBRASKA TRADITION

First Year Men Expected to Be Adorned With Emerald Headgear by Morning of September 28.

The sale of green caps to freshmen boys will start Tuesday morning, September 25. The caps will be sold at the Magee Clothing company, at 12th and O streets. Tickets will be sold on the campus which if presented at Magee's will entitle the bearer to a cap.

The sale will be under the auspices of the Innocents and in charge of the Iron Sphinx. By Friday morning, September 28 every freshman boy will be expected to have provided himself with a green cap. It is planned to make the enforcement of this Nebraska tradition strict this year and it is expected that every freshman will adorn himself with one of the emerald head pieces.

The Magee Clothing company has been able to sell the caps at cost which will be 75 cents. The freshmen will wear the caps from now until notified otherwise by the school authorities unless the freshmen win the annual Olympics. The Iron Sphinx will have charge of the enforcement of the wearing and they plan to see that every first year man provides himself with one of the verdant caps.

For many years it has been a tradition for the first year men at the University of Nebraska to wear green caps. To the uninitiated this may seem a hardship, but rather than a thoughtless hazing stunt it was originated for several reasons.

In the first place the yearlings of today will be thrown together, more or less, during their four year stay at Nebraska. It is essential that they become acquainted with each other and that a strong feeling of friendship be established among them so that when they are upperclassmen, they will have the right kind of Nebraska spirit and in the best manner possible promote enterprises for the good of the Cornhusker school. The bond of friendship through wearing the green, makes it possible to create real spirit in the freshman class.

SORORITIES WILL PLEDGE SATURDAY

Sorority pledging will be done according to the usual system this year, and pledges are to be announced late Saturday afternoon, so that a complete list will be published in the Nebraskan Sunday morning. Preferences by girls who have been rushed and by the sororities themselves will be dropped in a locked box which a committee of non-sorority women opens at noon. The preferences of the girls and of the sororities being matched, a "motor corps" of Pan-Hellenic members carries invitations to the favored girls, who call at their sorority houses at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Although all formal rushing parties have been cancelled this year on account of the deaths of Edna Boorman and Carl Springer, quiet "at homes" have taken their place, and the usual review of proposed members has been possible.

Nebraskan Reporters Needed.

Students wishing to report for The Daily Nebraskan during the coming semester should see the Acting Managing Editor as soon as possible at The Daily Nebraskan office in the northwest corner of the basement of University Hall.

Upperclassmen with previous experience on college, high school, or city newspapers are especially urged to enter this form of student activity.
