

Willie and Eugene Howard in "Passing Show of 1922" at the Orpheum Thursday night, September 27.

"The Bat" Is Flying This Way Again!

The first announcement, made a few days ago, that "The Bat", the great mystery play by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, would be presented by Wagenhals and Kemper at the Orpheum theatre on Saturday, Sept. 29th, matinee and night, was insufficient to create an instant demand for seats in the theatre on that particular day. Such is the reputation of "The Bat" among the theatre goers that there are few who are willing to risk the possibility of not seeing what is probably the most talked-of play ever produced in this country. And few who have seen it but want to see it again.

The fame of "The Bat" as the greatest thriller ever seen in any theatre was established long before it concluded its run of more than two years at the Morosco Theatre, New York. Thanks to the best of all advertising—word of mouth—news of "The Bat" traveled around and around the world. During its stay in New York, it was the one play everyone insisted on seeing. They might go to others—to many other plays—but "The Bat" was one that they would not miss, no matter what else might have to go by the boards.

"The Passing Show of 1922" at the Orpheum

The Winter Garden will present Willie and Eugene Howard in "The Passing Show of 1922" at the Orpheum, Thursday, September 27, one night only under the direction of the Messrs. Shubert. A large company is to support the stars, prominent among whom are Coletta Ryan, The Lockfords, Virginia Fisinger, Emily Miles, John Quinlan, Alfred Gilday, Flo. Sommerville, Wilbur DeRouge, Arthur Charmion, Michael Cavanaugh, Frances Winters. There will also be seen the famous Winter Garden beauty chorus. "The Passing Show of 1922" is the tenth of the "Passing Shows", the first having been produced at the Winter Garden on July 22, 1911. It is the thirty-fourth production made at the Winter Garden since it opened its doors on March 20th, 1911. The Messrs. Shubert determined to commemorate the "Passing Shows" by making the tenth of the series more elaborate than even the usually elaborate productions of this annual series. With this end in view, J. J. Shubert under whose personal direction the "Passing Show" is produced, made a trip to Europe la stupring and brought back with him many novelties. This tenth or anniversary "Passing Show," like many predecessors has book and lyrics by Harold Atteridge, the music is by Sigmund Romberg and Alfred Goodman. J. C. Huffman staged the production and Allan K. Foster out on the musical numbers and ballets. The entire production was staged under the personal direction of Mr. J. J. Shubert.
