ONE DAY GONE.

The first day of the drive for the sale of student tickets has been more than gratifying. Men and women on the campus responded readily to the requests. Nearly every upperclassman on the campus is now wearing a button. If he isn't he will probably be doing so by tonight.

Freshmen are realizing the opportunity and buying after a bit of salesmanship on the part of the solicitors.

Nebraska's school spirit is going up. Nebraska is finding its place. You are a Nebraskan. Buy a ticket today.

GET INTO ACTIVITIES.

The first of the year is the time for you to get into University activities. Begin now. Someone has to keep things going. You are one of the students. Try to get into something. It will help you make friends and it will give you a closer association with University life.

WHAT YOU GET.

There isn't a sport fan in America that wouldn't give half the price of an athletic ticket to see any game on the Cornhusker schedule.

You will realize when you see the scramble for tickets at the Notre Dame, Syracuse, and Kansas Aggie game that you were fortunate to be able to buy a ticket for $7.50.

Besides seeing every football game, you will have a pass that will admit you to every other athletic event. Is there any reason why you should not buy a ticket?

THE STADIUM A MEMORIAL.

The first football game to be played in Nebraska's new memorial stadium will be played Saturday. On that day the student body will have its first opportunity to really inspect the new stadium. Because Nebraska has so long looked forward to having the stadium, its informal presentation will be of great interest.

While admiring the splendid structure which fills a need so long felt, do not forget that the stadium embodies more than a practical end. The stadium is a memorial. It is a monument to the soldiers and sailors of the Scarlet and Cream who went into their country's service during the World War. That has been raised to the memory of those who failed to return.

This monument has been given the form of a stadium because, in these days, it is considered fitting that memorials be made to serve a permanent, practical purpose. Do not forget, when you inspect the edifice Saturday, the sentiment that is connected with it.

Help the man on the sign make a touchdown. Give the chant—"we want a touchdown."

A good example of college organization is shown by the Bizads. Copy them and every college will have done its share towards the campaign.

Oklahoma is here Saturday. Buy a ticket and see the first game.

Merely Opinion

Dean Cutter of the College of Medicine at Omaha is attracting international attention by merit of his work in the University of Nebraska. The board of regents, appreciating his ability, voted him a sum of money that will enable him to attend the International Medical meeting at London.

This is important to the state from the viewpoint of the value to the science and valuable to the University from the viewpoint of Dean Cutter's contributions to medicine and eventually to the students taking the course at that college.

Plan are being made for the dedication of the stadium. But a year ago the old stands were being used to seat the thousands of people who saw the greatest football team that ever represented Nebraska. This year a ponderous and magnificent structure will seat many thousands more who again will watch a great team representing a great institution. What a University this is!

Nebraska meets Oklahoma Saturday. This will be the first opportunity for students to see the Scarlet and Cream in action.

If you have not already bought an athletic ticket—try to plan on buying one.

Approximately three hundred and fifty students will be allowed to see the football games free of charge. On the basis of cost of athletic tickets, this is done at the cost or at the loss of nearly $3,000.

Those getting in free are: The band, Corncobs, freshmen football squad, letter men, and ushers. The military science department will furnish the ushers. All will be in uniform so that they can be spotted easily.

The staff of the Daily Nebraskan is now complete and definite steps can now be taken. Two appointments by the Publication Board were enough to complete the staff. Reporters should come every afternoon for assignments.

COLLEGE CLOTHES
High Class But Not High Priced.

The freshmen and sophomore girls might stage a hair pulling contest. And then again they might not.

One of our professors wrote on his absence report "The millenium must be approaching as there were no absences this week." His pupils must be expecting some sort of an earthly demise.

By a careful count taken Tuesday, October 9, only one person out of every four and one-half emerged from the Temple at noon with a toothpick in his mouth.

Boston frosh weekly letter: "A circular covering unadorned with a brim, tinted to the color of blooming verdure and surmounted by a crimson knob, having the capacity of one-sixteenth of the surface of a normal cranium may be seen upon the apex of each freshman."

Some of us went home over the week end and it struck us that there should be a law prohibiting the eating of oranges on trains as their fragrance is unbearable, especially on the 6 o'clock train headed for home.

Coming home I met a farmer who has a son in college. I asked what profession he was going to follow. "Well," the old fellow said, "I'm going to educate him to be lawyer. He's naturally argumentative and bent on mixin' into other people's troubles and he might jes as well get paid for his time."

Eng. Prof.: "It is nearly the end of the hour. As I call your name, come up and get your themes and pass on out."

One of ours: "Yeah, we'll all pass out when we get them."

Kitty: You know, Miss Blank hasn't any manners. Why, while I was talking to her this morning she yawned seven times.

Cat: Perhaps, my dear, she wasn't yawning—she might have wanted to say something.
