A new page in the history of the University of Nebraska will be turned over when the new Memorial Stadium is dedicated this morning. This will be by far the biggest event that has happened at the University for many years.

The dedication exercises will be held immediately after the parade which is to start at Twelfth and R streets at 10:30. The parade will include all of the Nebraska students and faculty besides the Kansas followers who have come to see the game.

Dr. Charles Russ Richards, former dean of the College of Engineering of the University of Nebraska will deliver the main dedicatory address. Dr. Richards is now president of the Lehigh University at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

The order of march is: Nebraska University band, Nebraska R. O. T. C., Nebraska University service flag, with escort, Kansas University band, Kansas rosters, Nebraska faculty and students, by colleges in alphabetical order.

The parade will start at Twelfth and R streets. From there the course will be south to P street, east to Sixteenth street, south to O street, west to Eleventh street, north to P street, east to Twelfth street, and north to the east entrance of the stadium.

When the parade reaches the east gate of the stadium, the Nebraska and Kansas bands, the ex-service men's firing squad, the color squad and the bugle squad, will pass around the stadium to the northwest entrance. The rest of the parade will file into the stadium and occupy seats in the east stand.

After the crowd has been seated, the Nebraska band will enter from the northwest gate. The band will be followed by the three squads and the Kansas band.

The program will be as follows:

Both bands play America.

Introduction of President Richards by Chancellor Avery.

Dedicatory speech by President Richards.

Introduction of Senator Carney by Chancellor Avery.

P. L. Mellenbruch of Teachers College has been appointed to the chair of education and measurements in Wittenberg College, Springfield, O.

For the past two years Mr. Mellenbruch has been doing graduate work and assisting in the department of measurements and research, conducted by Dr. Charles Fordyce.

Prof. M. M. Fogg, director of the School of Journalism, and Chief Justice A. M. Morrissey of the supreme court, were guests at dinner Thursday evening, in his private car at Omaha, of Lord Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor of the British empire under the Lloyd George government.

Lord Birkenhead gave a lecture at the Hotel Fontanelle in the afternoon on "My Twenty Years in Parliament." They were invited to come to Omaha and renew acquaintances formed in war time.

The present Earl of Birkenhead, who was then Sir Frederick E. Smith, attorney-general of Great Britain, spoke at the war conference in Lincoln in 1918, arranged by Professor Fogg, who was state director for the United States committee on public information.

F. E. Smith, as college boy, did not have much money. He made his way through Oxford University largely by capturing scholarship prizes. He was president of the Oxford Union, the famous debating society. His rise in public life was rapid. He was the youngest lord high chancellor in England's history.

STUDENTS RALLY ON EVE OF GAME WITH K. U. TEAM

"Beat Kansas" Is Slogan of Pep Meeting Staged by Students on Drill Field Friday Evening.

CHEERS, SPEECHES AND MUSIC ARE ON PROGRAM

Kansas Graduate Tells of "Good Old Days" on Gridiron; Dawson Urges Students to Be Courteous.

"Beating Kansas will be a bigger task than was the building of the stadium," stated Chick Hartley, Captain of the 1922 grid machine, at the "pep rally" Friday evening. The practice of two new yells, speeches by Coach Fred Dawson, Captain Verne Lewellen, and C. T. Smith '99, Kansas, and the singing of the Cornhusker filled the rest of the program. A roaring bonfire blazed all during the rally.

The foot which kicked six goals against Nebraska in 1899 was introduced by Custin Tom Smith. This is the largest number of goals ever kicked in a Kansas-Nebraska game.

"Those were the good old days," stated Mr. Smith, in speaking of his football career, "when we played football and didn't play basketball. Kansas could stand the grind but could never learn the combination of ping pong and tiddely winks and basketball that is now called football."

Captain Verne Lewellen, called from the crowd to give a talk, said: "Last year we played Kansas on the day their stadium was dedicated. The score didn't please them. Saturday we play them on the occasion of the dedication of our own stadium. The score will not disappoint you."

The loyal students should stand back of the team with all their loyalty, but at the same time they should be courteous to the visitors, was the statement made by Head Coach Fred Dawson.

LINCOLN MEN GUESTS OF LORD BIRKENHEAD

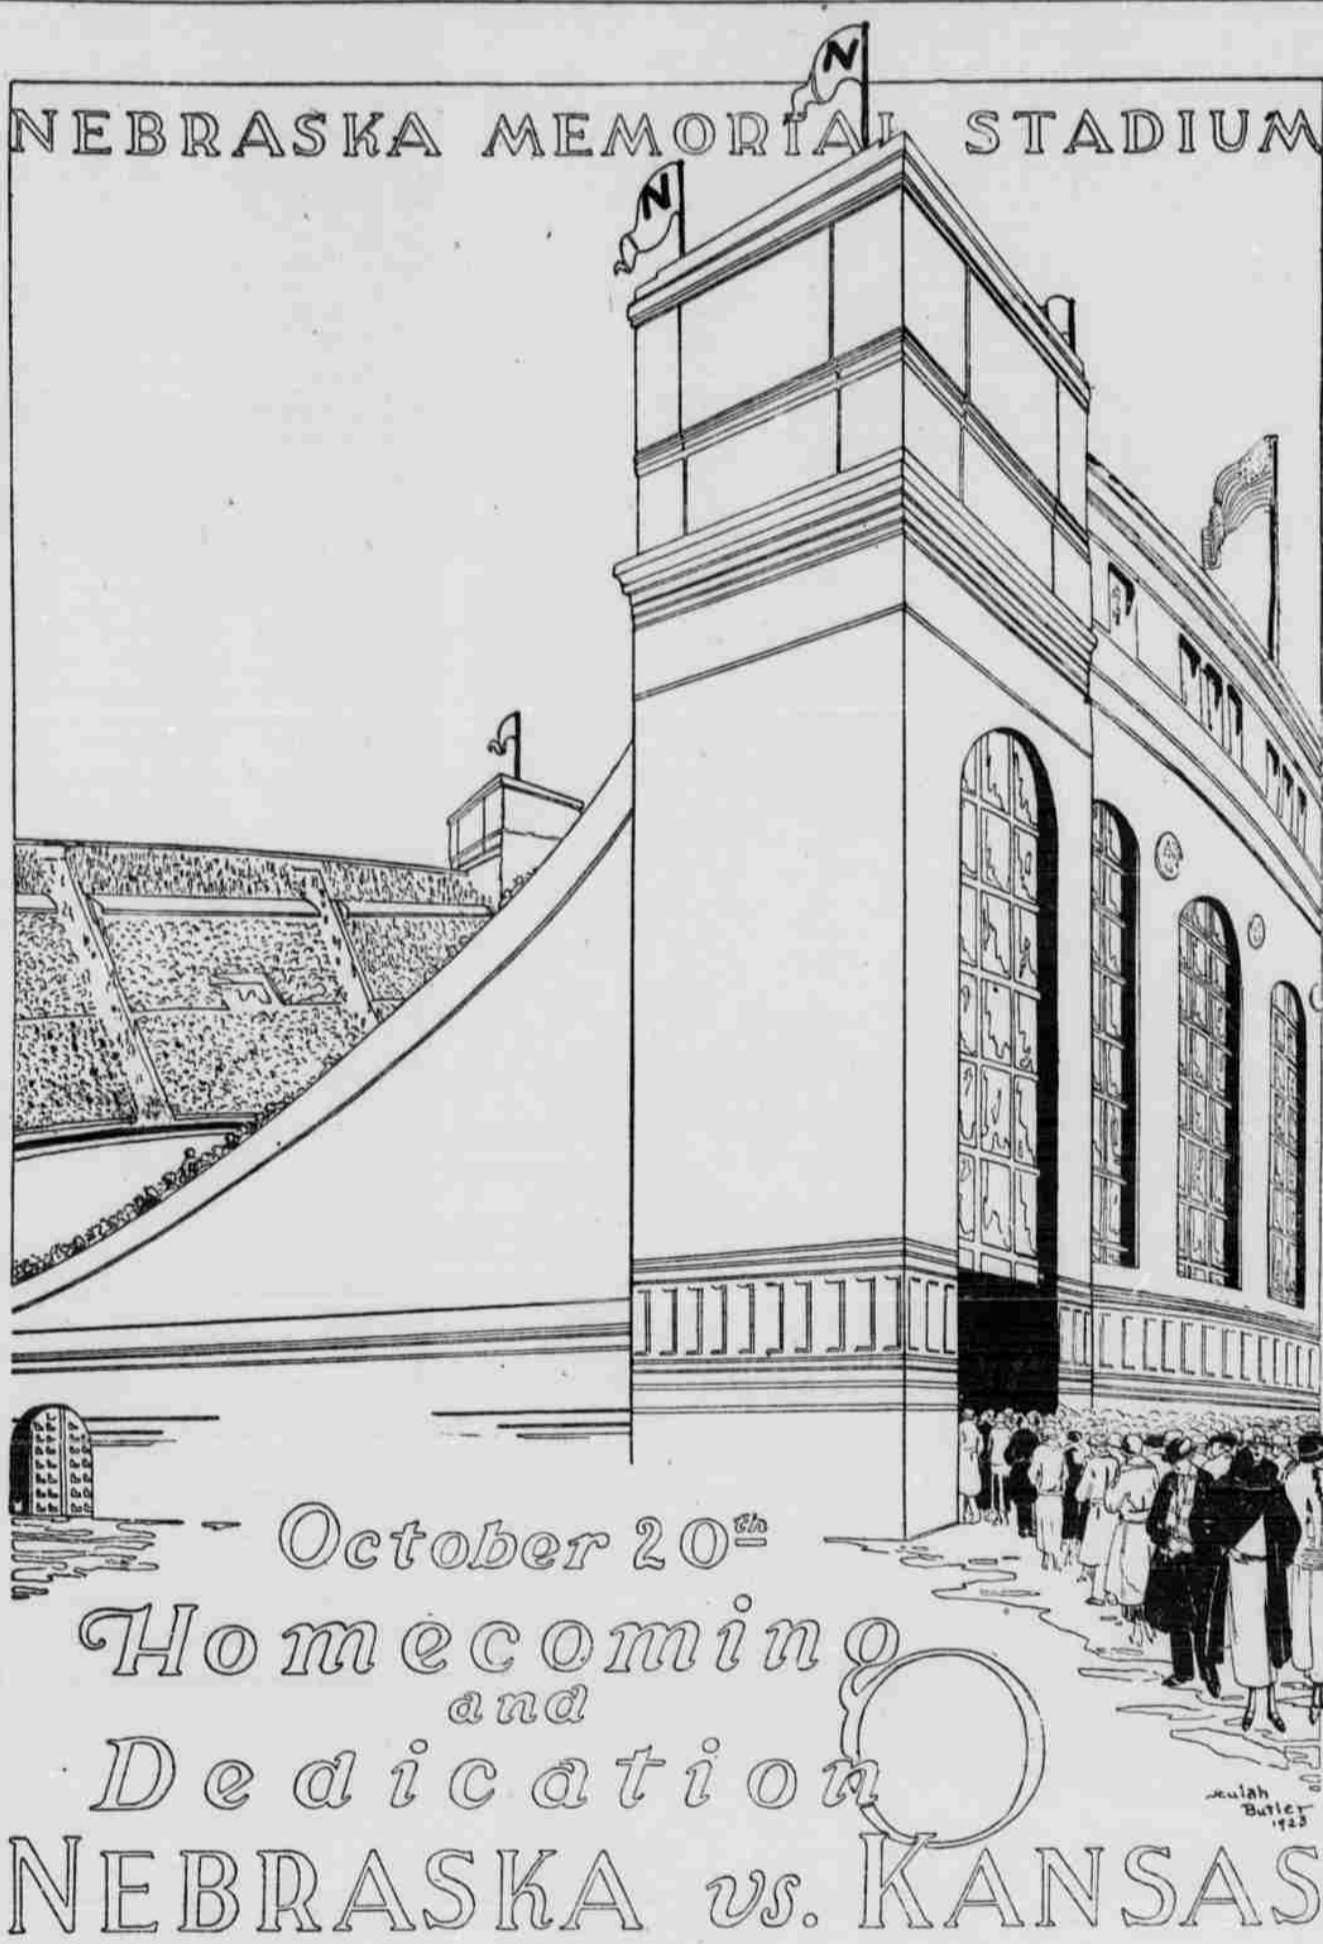

Prof. M. M. Fogg and Chief Justice Morrissey Dine With British Notable.

NEBRASKA MEETS JAYHAWKS TODAY IN NEW STADIUM

Scarlet and Cream Warriors Have Advantage in Weight But Kansas Gridmen Are More Experienced.

HUSKERS MAY PLAY WITHOUT LEWELLEN

Absence of Punter to Tell on Husker Machine — Patsy Clark to Give Kansas Workout This Morning.

With the stage all set, for one of the biggest homecoming games in the history of the school, and all the actors except one in the best of condition, the fighting Cornhuskers are ready to play their part. Their rehearsals this week have been very satisfactory and a good game is in evidence.

Kansas is here stronger this year than they have been for a long time. They have letter men for every position on the team with the exception to two backfield men, Collier and G. Smith.

Head Coach Dawson has been drilling the Huskers hard this week in new plays and formations and the Jayhawkers are going to witness a few surprises in today's conflict. The varsity have been spilling the freshman in every practise this week during the daily scrimmages in which the first-year men use the Kansas U. plays.

Coach Patsy Clark and Kansas mentor believes he has a combination that will spell defeat for the Huskers when they meet in their annual pigskin encounter this afternoon. He hasn't an injury on the team and his squad is in perfect condition, all of which makes him stronger in his belief.

With Captain Lewellen out of the contest the Nebraska squad is handicapped for lack of the regular punter. Lewellen's punting has always been a feature of every game. Rufus Dewitz who has been working in at Lew's place will no doubt be directing the line of fire in today's contest. Gip Locke will take charge of the booting end of the game.

Friday's workout consisted of a sharp signal practice against the freshman for both team "A" and team "B." No heavy scrimmage was entered into for various reasons.

The Kansas team will go on the field this morning for a short workout, to loosen up and to better acquaint themselves with the playing field.

Buying Peanuts From W.A.A. Girls Helps Pay Stadium Bill

Do you realize that every time you buy candy, peanuts, apples, or anything sold by the W. A. A. girls you are helping to pay for another bag of cement or another plank in the new stadium?

The Women's Athletic Association is under contract for three years to pay 50 per cent of the net proceeds to the Memorial Association.

Every girl who carries the "stadium builder" basket is doing as much toward the completion of the stadium as the workman who is doing the actual labor, and for the girls there is no remuneration. The spirit of these girls is the spirit that will bring our stadium to early completion.

"Who Owns the Valley?" is Cry Now Heard Upon Campus

"Who owns the Valley?" is the cry now heard in every corner of the campus. The upperclassmen strike the note, freshmen strike the air and alumni join in on the chorus.

Today ample proof of an unbroken bond of loyalty is being manifested as the sons and daughters of Nebraska meet together for the dedication of the Memorial Stadium, paying homage to Nebraska and her soldier dead.

From far cities, from villages and farms the Old Grad comes to join the jubilee. Reminiscences of days long gone come for a fleeting moment as they gaze over the campus, and perhaps just a slight heartache comes with the memories. The Old Grad is home.

Some can remember when Old U hall was all of Nebraska's university. Some have not visited the school since the newer buildings were added, and as they now look upon the scene of their college days, marvel at the changes.

The old iron fence has gone; the campus extends over many more

When you buy from the "Stadium Builder" girls, you are deriving double satisfaction from your money. You too, will be a stadium builder. Remember that the more you buy, the more you are helping to complete and pay for Nebraska's Memorial Stadium.

Emily Ross Returns From Y.W.C.A. Meet

Emily Ross, regional editor of the "Campus Forum" for the Woman's Press, returned from the Rocky Mountain regional council of the Y. W. C. A. held at Manhattan, Kan. Joint meetings were held with the Y.M.C.A. representatives.

Thirty men and women attended the discussion of the student volunteer movement, student volunteer convention and the student friendship fund on the first day.

blocks than in the days they cut across the grass.

But let us go with the Old Grad a bit farther.

Since he has arrived he has heard much of the new stadium, but possibly hasn't seen it.

The old wooden bleachers are gone, and in their stead is a massive concrete "bowl", with a perfectly constructed playing field. The meaning of his stadium pledge becomes more clear, and the knowledge that he has a share in the building of the stadium, adds a personal touch to the feeling of pride and possession.

Here, in the afternoon, old and young will sit together to sing Nebraska's songs and cheer for Nebraska's team, and sometimes for her opponents.

But the spirit will be the same. That characteristic never leaves a Cornhusker.

All student houses will be decorated and the festival will close with a mixer at the Armory when students and alumni will sing together praises to their Alma Mater.
