

CLASSES HOLD ELECTIONS FOR MINOR OFFICES

Unusually Large Attendance Result of Holding Meetings at Same Time.

FOUR GROUPS LAY PLANS FOR YEAR

Elections of minor officers of the four classes in the University were held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. Due to the arrangement whereby all the classes met at the same hour, an unusually large number of students attended the class meetings. Plans for the coming year were also discussed by the classes.

The senior class, of which H. Stephen King is president, met in the Social Science auditorium. Minor officers were elected as follows: Vice president, Raymond Wood; secretary, John Anderson; treasurer, Lorna Plimpton; sergeant-at-arms, Dave Noble. Plans for the junior-senior prom were discussed, and a committee will be named soon to take charge of the affair. About sixty seniors attended. President King announced that the list of class committees would not be out for a week or two.

In a meeting presided over by its president, Philip Lewis, the juniors held the election of minor class officers. The following were elected: Vice president, Roland Estabrook; secretary, Madge Morrison; treasurer, Francis Sperry; sergeant-at-arms, Victor Anderson. Plans for the year were also discussed.

The meeting of the sophomore class, held in Law 101, was presided over by Marion Woodard, class president. The following minor class officers were chosen: Vice president, Ted Froge; secretary, Raymond Hall; treasurer, Ward Lindley; sergeant-at-arms, Gerald Davis. The question of the annual Olympics was discussed by the second-year students. Green caps and buttons and stadium pledges were also given consideration.

The following minor class officers were elected at the meeting of the freshmen in the Temple: Vice president, Elizabeth Tracy; secretary, Joe Weir; treasurer, Harold Grosshans. Plans for the clash with the sophomores in the Olympics were discussed. Class committees were given out yesterday afternoon by President Jere Mickel, but are withheld from publication until O. K'd by Dean C. C. Engberg. President Mickel was chairman of the yearling meeting.

GRID-GRAPH LEASED FOR MISSOURI GAME

N Club Secures Board at Student Request; 3,000 Can Be Accommodated.

Three thousand students will be able to see a play-by-play reproduction of the Missouri-Nebraska game Saturday in the Armory at 2 o'clock. The N club, in response to requests of students present at the showing of the Grid-graph at the Illinois game, has again leased the board.

Attendance at the last showing of the board was poor, and it was only on the promise of support from the students that the N club decided to contract for the return of the graph. The hand will be out in full force, and yells and songs will be practiced between the halves.

A glazed glass, five by ten feet, marked off as a representation of a playing field is the foundation of the graph. Reports come in over a special wire, and an electric light is moved around over the glass to show the position of the ball. Simultaneously a light flashes to show the player who makes the play and the play made.

Ten electric lights representing yards gained are flashed on when a first down is made, and as the team pushes the ball down the field, the lights are switched off, showing at any time the distance to go for a first down.

Varsity Football Squad Entertained by Lincoln Elks

The University of Nebraska varsity football squad and their coaches were guests at the regular weekly dinner party of the local Elks club last night. The team and coaches were welcomed by the exalted ruler of the lodge and were given a warm toast by Dr. Wharton. "Cy" Sherman, then acting as toastmaster, introduced Head Coach Dawson, Line Coach Schulte, and the assistants, Frank, Day, Hartley, and Captain Lewellen.

Coach Dawson in a short talk thanked the Elks for their excellent entertainment and the fine way in which they backed Nebraska's team. Captain Lewellen introduced the members of the squad and then made a few remarks concerning the prospects for the Missouri game Saturday. During the dinner the guests were ably entertained by the University quartet and Koby Sirinsky with his violin.

TOMORROW SET FOR ISSUE OF NEW DIRECTORY

1923-24 Volume Has New Sections on College of Medicine and Presidents.

OUT MONTH EARLIER THAN EVER BEFORE

The 1923-24 University student and faculty directory will make its appearance on the campus Thursday morning. While the book is being placed on sale almost a month earlier than in any previous year, it will be larger than usual and will contain two new sections. One of these is devoted to the College of Medicine at Omaha, giving complete information regarding both students and faculty. The other gives the names of all campus organizations with their presidents.

As in other years the directory will contain the addresses, telephone numbers, titles and degrees of faculty members, and the affiliations, colleges, addresses, and phone numbers of all students. All towns represented in the University will have the names of all students listed alphabetically.

The early appearance of the book this year is credited by the editors to the excellent co-operation of the joint Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. committees in gathering and compiling the necessary data. A force of about twenty people were kept busy for several days filing, typing, checking and rechecking, and reading copy. The book is larger and much more convenient to use. The new binding is designed to prevent the cover from tearing easily.

Twenty-three hundred copies will be placed on sale at different places on the campus Thursday and Friday, according to Frank F. Fry, business manager of the book. A greater demand is expected this year on account of early appearance and the new features and the management expects that most of the books will be sold the first day of the sale. When the supply is exhausted no more will be available from the printers.

Fifty girls from the Y.W.C.A. will sell to the students from booths on the campus. All girls on the sales committee should report at 8 o'clock Thursday and Friday morning to their chairman at the building designated.

Varsity Basketball Aspirants Work Out

Every eligible man who is interested in varsity basketball is urged to come out for practice on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons from 5 to 6 o'clock. No intensive workouts will be held, but just enough to open shooting eyes and loosen joints. Student Manager Carl Krueger wants everyone out Wednesday night in suit to report to him before leaving the court.

Pledges May Be Paid at "Stadium Builders' Home" on Campus Corner

Today is stadium pledge payment day.

About twelve months ago the campaign to raise a half million dollars for the Nebraska memorial stadium was started with a big rally in the Lincoln city auditorium. Forty-five hundred of Nebraska's students responded to the call, and signed pledges to the memorial association, paying one-fifth of the pledge at the time they signed, and agreeing to pay the second one-fifth six months after the signing of the contract, and each of the other three-fifths in three installments falling due six months apart.

Last April 24, the memorial association fulfilled its part of the pledge by signing a contract with the Parsons Construction company of Omaha for the erection of the new stadium. Today that stadium stands well past the half-way mark of completion, and the call for payment of the second one-fifth of the stadium pledge is sounded.

Campus Booth.

On the corner of 12th and R streets there stands today a little white house, "Stadium Builders' Home" it might well be called. Anyway that is the place where the 4500 students who made stadium pledges a year ago are expected to meet their stadium pledge, all of it or as much of it as they can, but at least to clear up two-fifths of the total pledge.

For one week the little white house will stand on the corner of the campus. From 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening representatives of the Nebraska memorial association will be placed in the little structure to receive the pledges of the students. Today is the first day, next Tuesday is the last. At least as many pledges should be paid up today as original pledges were made on the first day of that memorable campaign twelve months ago.

You remember also the tremendous amount of work which the members of your stadium building committee went through that week. How they met every night to check up on results, how they made a special effort to give those who had not subscribed a final chance, and how on the last day of the campaign, the day before thousands of graduates returned for the last homecoming day football to be played on old Nebraska field when Nebraska walked over the Missouri Tigers to the tune of 48 to 0, the goal of $90,000 was passed and $15,000 in pledges was added to it for good measure.

HUSKERS TO ATTEMPT TWISTING TIGER'S TAIL

Varsity vs. Frosh in Stiff Scrimmage Is Preparation for Missouri Battle.

Only three days remain before the annual gridiron contest comes off in which the Nebraska Cornhuskers attempt to twist the Tigers tail. This year the twisting exhibition is scheduled for Columbia, Mo., Saturday, October 27.

In preparation for the big show the Cornhuskers have been going through a heavy workout every night. A stiff scrimmage with Coach Farley Young's yearlings has been the main event in the training camp. The scrimmage uses up the best part of two hours and in that time many varsity candidates and freshman as well as their turn in the headgear battle.

New plays, trick formations, and forward passing as well as elementary fundamentals are employed by both squads. Each team, benefitting by previous practices and games, is rapidly ironing out the rough spots.

The scrimmage Tuesday found Rhodes and Meyers at ends, Weir and McGlasson tackles, Berquist and Hubka at the guards, Hutchison center, Rufus Dewitz and Gately, quarter, Herb Dewitz and Dave Noble at halves, and Ced Hartman fullback. This aggregation completed many passes and pounded the frosh line severely. The freshmen turned in some gains when they had a chance at the ball but their gains were short and seldom were they able to make first downs by hitting the line or skirting the ends. A heavy scrimmage is on the bill for Wednesday as the team leaves Lincoln at 1 o'clock Thursday, arriving in Columbia Friday morning at 8 o'clock.

AMY MARTIN CHOSEN CLASS-SECTION EDITOR

Applications for Positions on Her Staff to Be Received Today.

Amy Martin has been appointed editor of the classes section of the Cornhusker by Robert F. Craig, editor-in-chief. Applications for positions on the staff of this section, which is the largest in the book, will be received today.

Twenty students will be required, and their work will consist of handling photographs and copy from the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman classes. The class editors will be chosen from those who apply today.

Announcements will be made in the near future of the time when the senior and junior classes can have their individual pictures taken for the Cornhusker. No studio has yet been selected where the pictures (Continued on Page 3)

Forty Peru Alumni Organize at Banquet

Forty former Peru students and faculty members attended the Peru banquet which was held at the Lincoln hotel at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. Officers for a permanent organization of Peru students were elected as follows: Donald Blankenship, president; Della Weatherhogg, vice president, and Olie Hoffman, secretary-treasurer.

All former Peru students and faculty members who are in the University of Nebraska are active members. All Lincoln alumni of Peru are honorary members of the organization.

RALLY THURSDAY TO SEND SQUAD AGAINST TIGERS

Missouri Contest Last Conference Game Before Huskers Meet Ames.

MARCH TO BURLINGTON STATION; FORM AT 1:00

The third big rally of the year will be held Thursday noon at 1 o'clock when the "fighting Cornhuskers" leave for Columbia to meet the Missouri Tigers in the third game of the season. This will be Nebraska's last contest away from home until the Ames battle, November 17.

The University band will furnish music for the parade and the line of march will be virtually the same as when the team left for Illinois. The line is to form at 1 o'clock in front of the Armory to march to the Burlington station where the team will leave on the 1:30 train for Omaha. They will take the Wabash from there to Columbia.

The Corncobs will be in charge of the parade and yell leaders will be stationed at intervals along the line of march to lead the cheering. The Missouri contest is the third Missouri valley game for the Nebraska eleven and will be one of the most important Valley games Saturday.

Every student who does not have a 1 o'clock class tomorrow is urged to get in line at 12th and R streets and cheer the team as the men leave for the southland. A number of students are expecting to drive to Columbia for the game to show their Nebraska spirit.

"It is very important that we have a big turnout for the rally tomorrow and every loyal Cornhusker student who does not have classes should be there when the train pulls out for Omaha. If the students will not get out and show they are behind the team they cannot expect the team to fight its best so let's have everyone out," was the comment of Coach Dawson yesterday.

"Missouri is our hardest opponent, next to Kansas, in the Valley and Missouri would rather beat Nebraska than any other team on her schedule. Nebraska has the stuff to show the Tigers what football is but to bring out that stuff the students have got to show that they are interested in the team and I will be very much disappointed if we don't have an even larger delegation at the station tomorrow than when we left for Illinois two weeks ago," was Coach Schulte's statement.

The personnel of the squad will not be announced until tomorrow night or Thursday morning.

INSTALLMENTS ON STADIUM PLEDGES FALL DUE TODAY

Campaign for One Week for Money to Continue Work on Edifice.

$2100, ONE-FIFTH OF TOTAL, PAYABLE NOW

At 8 o'clock this morning the first call for the payment of the second one-fifth of the pledges made by students a year ago to the Nebraska Memorial Association was sounded. For one week the association will make an effort to secure the payments of the second installment of the stadium pledges.

Forty-five hundred of these pledges made by students fall due today. The amount due the association from the students is $21,000, one-fifth of the total.

The stadium pledges of students read:

"In consideration of my interest in the erection of a memorial stadium on the athletic field of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, Nebraska, and of the pledges made by others for the same purpose, and for value received, I hereby pay $..... to the Nebraska Memorial Association, receipt of which is hereby acknowledged and which constitutes me a member of said association, and I promise to pay the further sum of $....., payable in four semi-annual installments, the first installment being due and payable six months after contract is made and entered into by the Nebraska Memorial Association for the erection of an athletic stadium on the premises of the University of Nebraska."

Student Payments Due. Today is the date for the payment of the second installment. The contract was let April 24, 1923, and today, October 24, 1923, is just six months "after contract is made and entered into by the Nebraska Memorial Association."

When Nebraska students made their pledges a year ago, the stadium was an "air castle."

Today the promised stadium stands three-fourths completed. It is dedicated. It has been the scene of two thrilling football games between Nebraska and opposing Missouri Valley teams. It stands ready to welcome all Nebraska opponents, undoubtedly the finest stadium west of the Mississippi river and east of the Rocky mountains. Except in size, it compares most favorably with the famous Yale Bowl, and even in that respect the necessary temporary seats could be installed to bring the seating capacity of Nebraska's stadium to within 6,000 of the famous football field in New Haven.

PRESENT AGE DISEASE-FREE SAYS CUTTER

Declares Valiant Few Gave Time and Lives to Rid World of Plagues.

OMAHA DEAN SPEAKS AT FRESHMAN LECTURE

We are living in a practically disease-free age, Dean Irving S. Cutter of the College of Medicine told the freshmen lecture students of the College of Arts and Sciences, Monday evening and Tuesday morning, in Social Science auditorium. This condition has not come through chance; someone has done the work. It is because a few valiant men have given their time and frequently their lives that we do not know the devastating diseases which were so common twenty-five years ago.

Science has known the sources of such diseases as yellow fever, bubonic plague, Asiatic cholera, diphtheria, malaria, and typhus fever, or how to combat them only during the last twenty-five to fifty years. Before then an illness such as diphtheria meant almost certain death, and the plague and cholera wiped out large portions of the populations of (Continued on Page 3)
