AWAKEN STUDENTS, AWAKEN!

Syracuse, the pride of the east is coming. She started yesterday.

What does that mean to you? What is it if the football world is watching the Cornhuskers Saturday? Wake up—you have the spirit and you have three days to show that you have it.

From today onward, every class should open with a song, every meeting of students should open with songs, and there should be that tension of "fight, Nebraska, fight!" everywhere.

These are the days before the greatest intersectional game of the season—and students, you are dead! You are not showing the pep and enthusiasm that turned back Notre Dame. You are failing. These are rash accusations—but they are true!

Nebraska must fight Syracuse—or the Orange will return victorious. Syracuse is stinging from defeat. Nebraska is fresh from two victories.

The remaining days are short and there is lots of pep to be shown yet. Fight, Cornhuskers, fight!

TRINKETS

Trinkets, yes trinkets—and at five dollars apiece. That is what favors are at some representative fraternity and sorority parties.

Men and women go to parties. They know not the sacrifice that their host has made for them. They care not for the price of entertainment. It passes and is soon forgotten. Someone pays.

A bit of co-operation among organized bodies around the campus, a bit of common sense, and the foolish practice of expensive favors, corsages, and decorations would be superseded by simplicity and democracy.

INTELLECTUAL WEAKNESSES

Nebraska students have composed yells involving profane words in their content. At Ames, many expressed disapproval of their attitude—but do you not suppose that some of the Ames rooters expressed disapproval of the parody on the "Old Gray Mare"?

Using profane words in your songs or at any time indicates an intellectual weakness, an acknowledgment of the fact that your language is not big enough, or that you are not a master of it. The most common men on earth use profane language with a great degree of dexterity. You are University men and women. You are supposed to possess more than the average intelligence. If you do, why not compose yells that do not go outside of the language for material of composition? Pep is valuable—but there are plenty of words in the English language to use for yells and songs.

NOTRE DAME RESENTS

The Notre Dame Daily, official organ of that University, published an editorial last week in direct disgust of the manner in which, it was said, that the players were treated at Nebraska. Headed with the caption "To those who can read," the article takes a bitter stand—bitter and pointed.

Quoting from the editorial:

And then—we're saying this so that you may know it, Nebraska—those two thousand men, men who believe in doing one's best to take victory with modesty, and defeat without alibis, those two thousand men conquered pain in their hearts and gave a "Big U. N. D." for Nebraska. Their last cheer was for you, Nebraska, and if you did not hear it, it was not the fault of those defeated men who cheered you to the echo in your victory.

One week ago today—we are saying this to our team—you trudged off a foreign field with heads bowed down. But you had the greatest right to

RAG CARPET

Help! Help!

Along with Lloyd-George and Dean Swift, we have settled the "Irish" question, but our domestic duties remain undone—we must "peel" the Orange.

The Rag-Doll says that even a dumb waiter has gone up in the world.

Today's Popular Air

Call me early, mother dear, for I'm to go a-calling on the Dean.

Ha-ha!

Smatter!

I see where a circus lost an elephant and had everybody searched before they could leave.

"I didn't have to take that exam. The prof. didn't recognize me and wouldn't let me in.

Nebraska students are weeping with Syracuse—not merely from an undiluted spirit of love, but also because in technically defeating Syracuse, Colgate has given the Cornhuskers a statistical swift kick.

"Caught in the act" murmured the would-be Hamlet as they gave him the hook.

The Rag Carpet has been accused of being a low down affair. Heh! heh!

Many an otherwise good recitation has been ruined by lack of preparation.

Rural Father (seeing fatigue uniforms): "My, but a lot of mail men are going to the University."
Son: "Yea, they're working for their letters, you know."

The Rag Doll says that every dog has its day, but every hot dog has its mustard.

It is Nebraska's divine right to take wonder teams to a trimming. We resent Colgate's encroachment upon our prerogative.

NEBRASKA CO-EDS TAKE UP RIFLING

Seven Women to Represent University in Inter-Collegiate Match.

Rifling, the newest sport which Nebraska co-eds engage in, has the distinction of being the only inter-collegiate sport on the woman's calendar. By a process of elimination 7 out of 30 shooters, who have already been chosen from 131 aspirants, will display their skill in the national woman's rifle competition which is to be held during January, February and March.

Nebraska has challenged 131 schools at the same time the men challenged, and 14 have accepted. They are: Oregon Agricultural college, Corvallis, Ore.; University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Ripon college, Ripon, Wis.; University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.; University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kas.; Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, Conn.; University of Montana, Missoula, Mont.; Oklahoma A. and M. college, Stillwater, Okla.; DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind.; University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz.; University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore.; Denison university, Granville, O.; Pomona college, Claremont, Cal.

The girls practice in Nebraska hall every day at 4 o'clock under the direction of Captain V. C. Huskea of the military department. Prone position only is used.

Started Last Semester.

Girls at Nebraska first began work in learning to shoot last semester. They managed to gain enough experience and skill last spring to form a dependable basis for glory this year. Some of the shooters have attained the rank of experts. Katherine Kidwell heads the list with a score of 50-49-48-47. Other members of the first team are Irene Faulkner, Jessie Hiett, Luella Reckmeyer, Mary McCarthy, Della Marie Clark, Louise Branstead.
