HUSKER CAGERS SHOW UP WELL

Prospects Are Excellent for a Strong Team. This Year.

FIRST SCRIMMAGE IS STAGED BY VETERANS

Basketball in the Cornhusker Camp is in full swing and the indicators are all pointing to a big season for the sport. Over forty men were on deck for Monday's workout and all of them were sent through a stiff scrimmage.
 Six different combinations were sent through the line of scrimmage and all of them showed real indications of future cage artists. The first scrimmage was staged by the letter men, consisting of Captain Usher and Cozier as forwards, and Volz and Tipton as guards, these letter men were ably assisted by Bun Black at the pivot position. Their opposition was Ravitz and Berkle, forwards, Goodson center, Hill and Wyant, guards. The basket shooting of the former team was easily the feature of the evening's practise. Before the season is over Volz and Tipton will be a combination of guards that will lower any forward's basket average, while Usher and Cozier are hitting the cords with equal regularity.

Centers Are Good

Goodson and Black are best bets for the pivot positions. Black is a clever floor man, and Goodson, a former Lincoln High star, is a good jumper and a keen basket shooter. He is especially dangerous under the basket, and by his speed he carries the ball down the floor at a fast pace.
 Berkle, Andrews, Schroeder, Bernard, and Ravitz are all showing up at the forward jobs and it will be a hard task for Coach Kline to pick his squad. Competition is keen on the team and that is the chief prerequisite for a good team. The guarding positions are being filled by such veterans at the cage sport as Voltz, Tipton, Hill, Wyant, Olds, Close, Johnson and Ekstrom.

Other scrimmages staged at intervals during the workouts were put on by Close, Andrews, Wostoupal, Bernard and Olds vs. Davis, Dana, Battey, Lang and Ekstrom, and Schroeder, Norton, Johnson, Srb and Linn, vs. R. Dewitz, Reese, Popelar, Manlin, and Fairchild. Each battle lasted for about fifteen minutes and spurts of team work was staged that reminded one of mid-season work.

Bulletin of Short Courses Is Printed

Five thousand copies of the College of Agriculture, 1924 bulletin of winter courses, have been published by the University of Nebraska.
 The bulletin offers short courses of four weeks duration in general agriculture and in autos and tractors. It also offers one week short courses in poultry husbandry and in ice cream making. These courses begin on January 7 and will continue until March 1.
 The courses are open to all persons and are designed for busy men who cannot spend more than a few weeks away from their homes.
 These bulletins are sent out to all bankers and county agents throughout the state. They are also sent in answer to all inquiries of prospective students of these courses.

Cosmopolitan Club Holds Open Meeting

The University of Nebraska Cosmopolitan Club, reorganized by the foreign students, held the first open meeting Sunday. Earl Smith, president of the club, spoke of the objects of the club and its aim, before he introduced the speaker, Dr. E. L. Hinman.
 Dr. Hinman spoke on "The Theistic Development of Buddhism" in comparison with Christianity. Students from India and Japan and China gave their opinions about Christianity, in comparison with Buddhism.

Harold McGlasson, '22, recently returned from Mexico, where he has been employed the past year by one of the largest oil companies operating in southern Mexico, gave a series of very interesting and instructive talks to members of the advanced classes in the Geology department. Mr. McGlasson explained in detail the geography and geology of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, where he was working, and also described the health conditions under which geologists must work there. An interesting part of his talk was a description of the methods used in sampling oil wells. Mr. McGlasson has had considerable experience in this kind of work and was able to give a great deal of first hand information. Several Nebraska men are employed by the same company.

L. W. Petrie, alumnus of the Geology department, has returned from South America where he has been employed as geologist by the Gulf interests. Mr. Petrie first went to Ecuador with Professor Bengston, but has since done work in Venezuela and Salvador. Tuesday morning Mr. Petrie told some of his experiences in Latin America and described some of the oil fields of Venezuela and Ecuador.

The annual Christmas party, given by Dr. Winifred Hyde, psychology instructor, will be held the evening of December 19, in the psychology laboratories, in Social Science. Ruth Miller has been appointed general chairman and Dietrich Dirks chairman of the entertainment committee. Frances Sperry is in charge of decorating.

MINNESOTA: Co-eds have given a composite view of the ideal mate. Now men may learn where their weaknesses lie. The ideal mate, according to the views of forty girls in a class of sociology, is a man moderately good looking, athletically inclined, morally clean, respectful toward religion, healthy, appreciative of the good and beautiful things of life, well trained socially, optimistic, good natured, jolly, chivalrous.

KANSAS: Subscriptions for the Stadium-Union pledged during the "Kick that goal" campaign, amounted to $21,962. "Some of the finest provided by the Union building," said a professor who made a thorough inspection of the Michigan Union last summer.
