

ENGINEERS FORM NEW SOCIETY

Technicals Withdraw from National Association; Vote Almost Unanimous.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO DRAFT CONSTITUTION

Students in the College of Engineering severed all connections with the American Association of Engineers, national organization of engineers, in a special convocation in Mechanical Engineering building yesterday morning. A committee was appointed to form a constitution for a new local society.

The executive committee of the local chapter of the A. A. E. drew up a resolution some time ago in which they recommended the dissolution of the local chapter and the formation of a local society. The official vote taken yesterday morning was almost unanimous.

"We do not feel that the American Association of Engineers is an organization particularly well adapted to the needs of a student society, for, in view of the rather heavy dues given to the national organization, little is returned to the student which will interest him in his college activities," said the committee in its report.

The belief has been expressed by many that a local society will bring the students of the college closer together and will save a considerable amount of money to the students. The money which was taken up during the campaign this fall was not turned in to the national headquarters, so that any sum over the amount of the dues in the new society will be returned.

The local organization will have the same officers that were elected in the fall by the members of the A. A. E. Henry Sargent is president, Frank Ellermer, vice president, and Judson Meier, secretary-treasurer.

The following are the members of the committee which is to submit a plan for the new organization: Judson Meier, chairman, Roy Randolph, James Marshall, Warren Pillsbury, Max Shostak, Orve Heddon, Robert Slaymaker.

SAYS TEACHER SHOULD TEACH ENGLISH FIRST

Miss Bullock Urges Definite Expression of Thought in All Subjects.

"Every teacher a teacher of English," was the topic of Miss Flora Bullock's address to the University Extension division readers and office force at their monthly business luncheon Thursday noon. Prof. A. A. Reed presided as chairman of the meeting.

"The full, definite, and concrete expression of ideas, that is what every teacher desires to secure from the students. This may differ in different courses, but the underlying principle is always present. The teacher of philosophy, the teacher of history, the teacher of education, all want the same sort of response. We do not want vague generalizations, unreasoned statements, unproved conclusions. We abhor mere 'yes' and 'no' answers. We want the expression that shows that the student has indeed given thought to the matter and has his own ideas about it," declared Miss Bullock in her appeal for better English.

Teaching Style Changes.
"In the old days when I was in the eighth grade we used to sit in open-mouthed amazement and listen to one boy, now a prominent citizen of Lincoln, reel off word for word the pages of the lesson in Barnes' History of the United States. We thought that was great memory work. Styles in pedagogy have changed since that time, even in the grades. I am told that in one university the correspondence courses are made with the definite purpose of making it impossible for students to answer from the book.

"These two things, I believe, are worth while when we think of ourselves as teachers of expression in English. First, let us give such directions for the work of each course that the student will be trained to observe more, think more, and then express more. Second, let us devise means to wean him from his dependence upon the book, encourage him to think for himself and express himself in all his work."

Knows Students' Shortcomings.
Miss Bullock concluded with the statement that there will be real teaching in these methods, real teaching not only of subject matter, but teaching of the mother tongue as a means of self expression.

As head of the English department in the University Extension division and as a writer herself, Miss Bullock has ample opportunity to know the shortcomings of the modern student and teacher.

A few moments were given before the dinner to a general good time. This was the third luncheon of the extension division held in the last semester.

Bengtson Addresses Ag College Meeting

Prof. N. A. Bengtson of the geography department spoke at the Agricultural College convocation Thursday morning on "South America." He centralized his talk on the Santa Elena peninsula of Ecuador. He had recently visited this region, which is noted for its production of oil, and for the methods employed in this industry.

Slides, which illustrated his talk, were shown. He depicted life in the peninsula, the mode of living, topography, and agriculture. He especially created the people on their progress, which is well illustrated by pictures of the chief town, Guayaquil.

OHIO: Ohio State University is making use of the movie screen in the classroom as a means of visual education. The moving pictures used deal mostly with agricultural subjects.

"SMILIN' THRU" NEXT OFFERING OF PLAYERS

Allen Martin's Comedy to Be Presented at Temple February 7, 8 and 9.

"Smilin' Thru," the great comedy success of Allan Langdon Martin, originally produced in New York with Jane Cowell in the leading role, has been selected by the University Players as their fourth offering to the public this year. The comedy will be presented at the Temple theater, February 7, 8, and 9, with a Saturday matinee.

After a surprising prologue, the play opens in the garden of a crusty old man with a delightful wisp of an Irish girl possessing all the charm of the central figure in "Peg O' My Heart," as a ward. When the old man discovers that she has fallen in love with the son of the man who had won the woman he loved, he becomes furious and swears that they shall never marry.

Here enters the quaintness of the play. Back through the hazy film of years that have passed comes memory visualized. The years that he could not forget are lived over again and he learns that his happiness can be brought about only thru his permitting union of the lovers. The skill with which the characters are drawn is probably the most attractive feature of this play.

JUNIOR PHOTOS MUST BE TAKEN THIS WEEK

Tomorrow Last Day Third-year Students May Have Pictures Taken.

Tomorrow is the last day for members of the junior class to have their pictures taken for the Cornhusker. According to Junior Editor Charles Adams, positively no junior pictures will be taken after that day. This order, caused by the rush in class pictures, is made so that work may begin Monday on the senior pictures.

Those juniors who have been to the studio but who have not returned the proofs, must get those back by Monday night. Work on the mounting of the pictures will begin Tuesday. If proofs are not returned Monday by the students, the Cornhusker staff will be compelled to make the selections to go in the book. If juniors wish to make their own selection of their picture, they should return them to Dole's sometime Monday.

The record for the number of junior pictures taken has been broken already. Over 400 have been taken and many more will fill appointments in the next two days. Between five and six hundred junior pictures will appear in the section.

Work on the senior section will begin next Monday. More than 100 pictures were taken before the holidays, and it is expected that every senior will have his picture in.

"Too bad we don't have all seniors represented in their section," said Harold Holtz, alumni secretary, yesterday. "Occasionally we want to look up some one who was in school and the first place we look is in the yearbook published when he was a senior. They should all be there as a permanent record of their college days."

Seniors should take advantage of examination week, and make appointments for sitting. Adams said yesterday. No list will be published next week and there will not be the usual rush for appointments. By using next week many more can be accommodated at later dates.

CHORUS NEEDS 100 ABLE-VOICED MEN

More Male Singers Necessary for Presentation of "The Elijah" in Spring.

In order that the presentation of "The Elijah" in the stadium next spring will be a credit to the state and to the University, Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, director of the music, requests that a hundred or more able-voiced men tryout for the chorus. There is a decided scarcity of male singers in the chorus, Mrs. Raymond stated, but she believed that there was plenty of talent in the University if it could only be found.

Because the stadium is so large, Mrs. Raymond stated that it would be quite essential for a large number of men to participate to lend force and volume to the singing. She also stressed the unusual nature of the event and expressed her opinion that all singers should be interested in the opportunity of taking part in it.

PI BETA PHI LOSES $250 BY ROBBERY

Thieves Enter House Early in Morning and Escape with Jewelry and Money.

Robbers entered the Pi Beta Phi sorority house early yesterday morning and made away with jewelry and money valued at about $250. Miss Ruth Gnam of Carroll, Ia., and Miss Emily Ross of Omaha were the victims of the thieves. Miss Gnam lost her sorority pin, a diamond ring, and some cash. Miss Ross lost two diamonds and two pearl rings and a bracelet. Both girls' coats were taken but were found a short distance outside of the door.

It is thought that the robbers entered through the back door, which was unlocked. No one saw them but a noise was heard at about 4 a. m. It was thought at the time it was the nurse who is attending Miss Hope Maynard who is ill with diphtheria. The room that was robbed is on the second floor of the house.

RIFLE TEAM WINS IN THREE MATCHES

Rhode Island State Only Eastern School of Four to Beat Nebraska.

Reports received yesterday from four of the six eastern colleges that fired against Nebraska last week, brought news of three victories for the Nebraska marksmen, and one defeat. The schools beaten by Nebraska were Yale, New Hampshire University, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Rhode Island State was the lone competitor that beat Nebraska by the narrow margin of 85 points.

The scores made in the matches were 3424 by Nebraska, 3238 by New Hampshire, 2697 by Yale, 3509 by Rhode Island, and 1244 by Massachusetts, which had a five man team. Nebraska made 727 more points than Yale, 532 more than Massachusetts, and 186 more than New Hampshire.

The Nebraska rifle team got off to a good start in the initial week's firing, and made a better record than in any one week during the entire season last year. The shooting so far this week indicates that last week's mark will be exceeded by a hundred or more points. Some especially high individual scores have been made this week.

The University of Porto Rico is numbered among the six schools on the slate for this week's shooting. Other schools firing against Nebraska are Syracuse, Michigan Aggies, College of the City of New York, New York University, University of Delaware.

In addition to the Nebraska schedule of intercollegiate rifle team shooting, the rifle team is firing in the corps area matches which include all colleges in the seventh corps area R. O. T. C.

NEBRASKA LOSES FIRST CAGE GAME

Kansas Aggies Win by Score of 26 to 23 in Spectacular Floor Battle.

FARMERS LEAD FROM START OF CONTEST

(Special to Nebraskan)
In what was called the most spectacular battle ever played on the Kansas Aggie court, the Manhattan farmers triumphed over the invading Cornhuskers by a 26 to 23 score. It was the first game that the Huskers have lost in the Valley.

Gaining a lead from the very start, the Aggies maintained the lead with the exception of the first of the second half when the Huskers tied and forged ahead for a 22-16 score. Substitutions on the Aggie five set the Farmers on a scoring whirl again and the game ended with the Huskers on the short end.

Goodson High-Point Man

Goodson, center on the Husker team, was high-point man, getting five field goals and two free throws. His work under the basket was brilliant and kept the Aggie guards on his trail during the entire game. Usher played a fast game at forward, getting one field goal and three free throws. Black at forward played a clever game. Volz and Tipton at guards kept the decks clear around the Aggie goal and forced the Farmers to take long chances at the hoop. Beerkle, Cozier, Tomes and Dewitz were substituted during the game.

The first half ended with the Aggies holding a one point lead, the score 15-16. By cove guarding and by exhibiting a brilliant offensive, the Huskers came from behind for the only time during the game. After getting within one point of the final score, Nebraska was unable to maintain her lead and was forced to suffer her first Valley defeat. Tebow, in for Doolen in the latter part of the game, was credited with giving the Aggies the necessary momentum to pass the fast Huskers and win the game for the Aggies.

Two More Games on Trip.

With two more Valley games on their southern trip, the team has a chance to meet the best in the conference. Oklahoma, the team that nearly broke the long-distance record for the Jayhawkers, are on the schedule for Saturday night, while the Kansans, winners of the title last year, will be met tonight.

SPELLING LIST SENT TO NEBRASKA HIGHS

Extension Division Mails Test to Determine National Standing of Schools.

The University Extension division has mailed to Nebraska high school principals a list of words to be given to high school students as a spelling test in order to ascertain their relative excellence in spelling as compared to high schools of other states, and to the national average.

A year ago, when a similar test was made, Nebraska high schools as a whole were from 4 to 6 per cent below the national average. However, several of the larger city schools of Nebraska, notably those in which special attention has been given to the study of English, equalled or surpassed this national average.

The list of words used is one standardized and used throughout the country. The words, with one (Continued on Page 4)
