PHARMACY WEEK.

This week the annual celebration of the College of Pharmacy will be held. The Druggists will attend a convocation Wednesday, and will throw open their building for the inspection of the public Thursday night. Window displays have been arranged in downtown stores, showing the work of the pharmacy students, and bringing home to the public the value of their training in a practical way.

The great cry of critics of the modern educational system is that it does not place enough emphasis on the practical phases of businesses and professions. These exhibits of the Druggists show in a concrete way the training the students are getting. They make the work of the University more evident than much fine rhetoric.

Anything that benefits one of the colleges of the University benefits the University as a whole, and that is where the greatest value of these college "weeks" and celebrations lies. College spirit, which these affairs help to develop, may be a commendable thing, but it should not be emphasized more than loyalty to the University.

Students in the College of Pharmacy should have the approbation of all students for anything they do to help the institution as a whole.

WHAT ABOUT THE PLEDGES?

The Nebraska Memorial association is being badly hampered in its work by the failure of many students to make the second payment on their stadium pledges.

Many of the students do not realize that the failure to pay these pledges results in serious financial loss to the stadium association. To get badly need money, the association has found it necessary to borrow funds. Interest must be paid on these loans and money for the interest payments can come only from the money paid on pledges.

These pledges were made by students in the excitement and enthusiasm of the stadium campaign. The same loyalty which inspired the making of the pledges should command the students to make his payments on them. The most elementary kind of business honor demands making of these payments and the fact that they were pledges not only of money, but of loyalty to the school, makes their fulfillment doubly binding.

CO-EDS RISE IN WRATH TO A "FRATERNITY MAN."

Since you have found it necessary to criticize and thus condemn the seemingly numerous unappreciative sorority girls, I have, therefore, felt called upon to enlighten you upon the fallacies in your reasoning.

First, we grant that you will find many so-called unappreciative girls upon this campus or that of any other university or college. However, there are men who are classified here also. You seem to think that the dating proposition is merely a one-sided affair with the men doing some girl the favor of taking her to a place of amusement. But, remember, when favors are being passed around, the girl is favoring the man by going with him. There again, the girl who sincerely thanks the man for her pleasant evening has felt that he has been sincere in his attempt to give her such an evening. This is a fifty-fifty proposition and the man who

APPROPRIATE REMARKS FOR SORORITY GIRLS AFTER A DATE:

1. Words are inadequate when I try to express how wonderful you have been to me tonight.
2. My dear boy, please accept my undying gratitude and lifelong devotion for so magnanimously walking me to the dance.
3. I certainly wish to thank you for the perfect evening. The street car ride was simply love-ly.
4. Ah, do not leave me until you are perfectly assured that this has been the most wonderful evening of my life.

Second co-ed: Poor fish!
Boss: Did the foreman give you any instructions?
New Help: Yes, he told me to wake him up when you appeared.

meets a girl on that basis and does not over-step his privileges will get sincere thanks for his trouble.

Now this little matter of "line-handing." We, the co-eds, decline the title of "professionals." We regret to inform you, fraternity men, that that profession is now filled to overflowing by members of your own groups. Many are the men who have won name and fame through their ability to hand a "line!" Men, considering that there are exceptions to every rule, you will find if you talk "sense" to the girl, she will talk sense to you! Try it and see. Pity the poor men who have already hung themselves on their lines.

Certainly the way men have treated the girls has much to do with the spoiling them. But who started renting Fords, anyway? The men! And now you men have established a precedent. Why blame your own foolishness on the girls?

Personally, I think all of us, including fraternity men, prefer to ride in cars, but how many times have you men tried to take a girl to a dance on a street car? You know very well you hate to have her think you can't rent a mere Ford. What about your own sentiment in the matter? Fraternity man, are you as big or as little as your words?

Men have been known to break dates too. Fraternity Man, haven't you ever been guilty of it?

And remember that all dumb creature are not girls!

E. H. P.

MEN, HIDE YOUR FACES!

To the Editor:
Poor mistreated men! They are neither understood nor appreciated. In how many cases does a man truly merit so much appreciation and thanks? Are they such perfect gentlemen and of such high character that they should criticize the actions of the girls? Ah! if they only were.

"It used to be that a man favored a girl by taking her to a dance." Quite right. But this world is ever improving and with improvement has come progress. Are we always to bow to them as lords of creation begging for such favors to be conferred upon us? In these modern times of independence and quality, "tis eye for eye and tooth for tooth."

Speaking of "line-handers," reflect and ponder on this aspect of lines. If all the vain professions of love handed to the fair sex were taken seriously, we would find ourselves in a sea of matrimony. Naturally there must be a comeback. It is commonly known as a line. — Are we, as girls and the mothers of the coming generation any more responsible as to our conduct and scholarly standing than the boys, who as the fathers of the future virtually hold the progress of the world in their hands?

What, fraternity man, is your aim in this University? Are not the majority of delinquents and failed students of your sex? There is a constant cry for the good old-fashioned girl, but where, forsooth, is the gallant Sir Galahad of today?

But we also in our defense have strayed from the topic of appreciation. You state, "They will express their appreciation even by more than mere words, just for the pleasant evening which the man has shown the girl." I take it that you believe that "action speaks louder than words." Mere words, indeed! What more do you want? Girls, have a heart for the poor mistreated University youth. Let him walk with you, tell him you enjoy it, don't give him a line, don't be dumb, and finally don't tell him in mere words, his kindness in spending an evening with you.
