ASSOCIATION BY COMPETITION.

On May 24 the annual Missouri Valley track meet will be held in Lincoln. Representatives from all Valley schools will be present. Such an event as this brings to mind one advantage of intercollegiate athletics which is too little emphasized.

This advantage arises from the broadening influence that association with other schools has on a university. A university that lived for itself, with little contact with other schools and little knowledge of the activities and ideas of students other than its own, would be a school deprived of a great opportunity. The outlook of its students would be narrow and its ability to cooperate would be small.

This situation is reversed, however, among modern colleges, and the intercollegiate athletic contest is, in part at least, responsible for this fact. At these contests the students of one school come in contact with the students of another. A healthy rivalry between schools results.

The students of one school become interested in the activities of the other. Their outlook is broadened and they begin to develop that intangible thing, school spirit, which results from the belief that their school is just a shade better than the other schools in the same region. It may seem that this contact with other schools has no real advantage, but its absence would soon convince that it has, for without it we develop a provincialism which would be narrowing in its effect.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

Music lovers of Lincoln and Nebraska are to be given an opportunity, May 14, to hear one of the finest musical programs ever presented here. On that date the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will appear in an outdoor concert featuring "The Messiah," with the University chorus, and a number of celebrated soloists accompanying.

This program only goes to show another possibility of the Nebraska Memorial Stadium. Built primarily for the football games, the stadium has provided headquarters for the track team, with an indoor track and an outdoor track, and a large space that can be used for training purposes during bad weather. The stores department has established headquarters under the stands and thousands of feet of floor space have been made available at a good saving to the state. Thus every part of the stadium has been utilized and put to work for the University.

With the announcement that the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is coming to Lincoln and that a concert will be held in the stadium, another use for this structure has been found. It should be a fine concert with unlimited possibilities for attendance, with 40,000 seats available.

The University chorus, directed by Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, will be assisted by four distinguished soloists: Leonara Sparks, soprano; Mabel Beddoe, contralto; Walter Wheatley, tenor, and Bernard Ferguson, baritone.

Music lovers should plan to attend this program. It is a rare opportunity.

A GLORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT.

Last Saturday the Cornhusker track team scored a notable victory at the Kansas relays in the first outdoor meet of the 1924 season. The Huskers rolled up an impressive total of points in the various events, and again squelched that laughable Jayhawker squawk, "We own the Valley!"

Next Saturday, April 26, the Scarlet and Cream athletes will compete at the Drake relays, where the greatest athletes from all over the country will assemble to vie with one another for honors in this great annual classic. Coach Schulte has been working under great handicaps in developing his track team this spring. The indoor track was not ready when he needed it, the outdoor track was not finished when the time came to use it, star athletes have been ineligible, but the Husker mentor has gone ahead, impervious to these obstacles, and developed a great track team which bids fair to win a fourth valley track title.

Now at last the outdoor Husker track equipment is ready. The new cinder path, providing a touch of red to the gray monotone of the stadium, stands invitingly ready for all Cornhusker men wishing to take a fling at track. For the first time in the history of the school, facilities are completed to take care of all men who desire to turn out for track. Coach Schulte is ready to handle each candidate.

Track and field athletics, the sport of nations, has come into its own at Nebraska. Nebraska has a great track team, a great track coach, and one of the best tracks in the country. Let the Husker school get the spirit of this great activity, and strive to heighten the achievements of its athletes on the cinder path.

HONORING THE SCHOLAR.
(Daily Illini.)

Scholarships on the campus will be given due honor in the first annual University Honors day, according to an announcement made by the Senate committee on educational policy. The board of trustees has already sanctioned the general tentative plans that have been drawn for the occasion.

As outlined by the committee, the present program promises a special day in the calendar of the University. A general convocation will be called, it is planned, at which time all those undergraduates, who have distinguished themselves scholastically during the previous year, will be announced. Efforts are being made to secure a distinguished speaker for the occasion. Also, as a special feature, the names of organized groups whose grades are above average, and the winners of the various trophies offered for scholarship will be honored. A tablet is to be erected to bear the names of those seniors who have received honors in any but their freshman year.

That a day should be set aside for a purpose such as this is most worthwhile, for, notwithstanding the numerous cups and other awards made in recognition of high grades, scholastic attainment is not appreciated or looked up to as much as is ability in other directions.

We feel that Honors Day will prove successful in every way. The program, if carried out as originally planned by the Senate committee, promises to provide an event that should become an annual occasion. The honor thus shown successful students should prove an added incentive to better grades. It will mean that learning—fundamental aim of attendance at a university—will assume its rightful place ahead of other interests.

Phi Delta Kappa Sends Out First News Letter

The first news letter of Omicron chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national society of men interested in the scientific study of education, was distributed last week by its editor, G. W. Rosenlof of Teachers College. This first number contains greetings from Pres. A. R. Congdon of the department of mathematics; a brief history of the Nebraska chapter; appreciative remarks on the work of the founders of the organization; a history of Teachers College at the University; the report of the tenth national council of Phi Delta Kappa, and matters of general interest. It is planned to issue the next number about the middle of June.

SENDS DELEGATES TO NATIONAL CONVENTION

Sigma Gamma Epsilon Is Represented at Colorado School of Mines Meeting.

Prof. E. F. Schramm and Claire Clark of the geology department returned Monday from a national convention of Sigma Gamma Epsilon held April 18 and 19 at the Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo. Professor Schramm attended the convention as a member of the grand council and Mr. Clark as a representative of Delta chapter at Nebraska.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon is a national professional geological fraternity open only to professional geologists. The convention elected Professor Schramm vice-president of the fraternity and also re-elected him a member of the grand council. The next convention will be held in two years at the University of Michigan.

Following the convention the delegates were taken on an excursion trip through the Idaho Springs mining district and the ore mill operated by the Colorado School of Mines. While at Golden, Professor Schramm made arrangements with the Colorado School of Mines for an exchange collection of minerals and fossils.

Big business needs big men

There is room and need for capable men in all the allied activities of big business. But nowhere is there greater need or greater opportunity than in that very essential service to all business—Insurance (Fire, Marine and Casualty).

Insurance, as a profession, affords contact with the most vital activities of the commercial and industrial world.

The Insurance Company of North America, the oldest American Fire and Marine Insurance Company, has been an integral part of big business since 1792 and the earliest beginning of national affairs. Out of this long experience it urges those who are about to choose a calling to consider the world-wide influence of the insurance field.
