per, or put the business side above the news side of the work; to make a newspaper a tail to some other kite, or using it as a mean of propaganda; and consolidation of many newspapers spread throughout the country.

Speed and accuracy are by-words in all newspaper offices, declared Professor Fogg. Charges of inaccuracy, triviality, vulgarity, suppression of news and coloring of news are launched against newspapers, and few people give them credit for the fine work that they do.

law firm of Elihu Root."
 "The University of Nebraska has a welcome ready for every member of the honor class.

Judge J. H. Broady thinks curiosity as well as enthusiasm should bring the '04 members back to their alma mater. He says:

"It doesn't seem twenty years this coming June since we were all graduated; but it is, and I'd think all who survive of '04 would come home, if for no other reason that just to see which is the baldest, grayest, gayest, or coldest. And, too, I think suitable prizes should be awarded to the various winners in such contests. Also, to him or her who least needs a radio broadcaster. Of course, I shall attend the reunion."

Crawford Has Articles In Current Magazines

Prof. R. P. Crawford of the College of Agriculture and School of Journalism has a number of articles in current magazines. In the April number of "Business," he has an article on "How Penney Invests in Partners." In the April number of "Farm and Fireside" he has an interview on "How We Cut Our Local Taxes." In Collier's for April 26, he has a short article on "$75,000 at Sixty-two—a Plan for a Young Man." He also had the leading article in Forbes Magazine for March 1. The article in "Farm and Fireside" attracted a great deal of attention. It was reproduced in the Literary Digest and editorialized in a big list of newspapers, headed by the New York Times. The Western Newspaper Union also sent it to 4300 newspapers.

That's how you spell "electrical industry"

The electrical industry must have trained engineers, but its needs have broadened out beyond one group. Today this industry offers opportunity to men or virtually all professions.

Whatever the course you are now pursuing, whatever the degree you take and whether you go on to graduate study, you will find a market for your training in this field with its vast manufacturing and commercial activities.

But what will impress you even more than this diversity of opportunity is the golden promise for the future of electricity. Great now, it will be greater tomorrow—as great as you men choose to make it.

Think of this as still an industry for young men, with much of its potential development uncharted. If you like to build, electricity is your field. From now till graduation we suggest it will be worth your while to investigate its possibilities.

Published in the interest of Electrical Development by an Institution that will be helped by whatever helps the industry.

Chances Come to Well-Dressed Men

Not because they have any more ability than men who are careless about clothes. The well-dressed man looks as tho he has more ability—that's all.

Here at this store you'll find clothes that do you and your talents justice. They're as good as clothes can be made; they don't cost much; they have to satisfy—or money back.
