GIVES OBSERVATIONS OF BRITISH POLITICS

Will Owen Jones, Editor of Journal, Speaks to Class in Government.

Will Owen Jones, editor of the Nebraska State Journal, gave the third of a series of special talks to Prof. L. E. Aylesworth's classes in government last Friday, May 3. He gave some personal observations of the British political system based on his recent trip to England.

Freedom of speech seems to be the Englishman's most treasured possession according to Mr. Jones. The right to say what you please and to criticize the government at will is one of the prized liberties of the Englishman.

Mr. Jones described his visit to Hyde Park, where freedom of speech has its base in London. There he found men representing every type of opinion and advocating every possible social, economic and political change addressing the people from little stands very much like soap boxes. Each had his own little crowd about him which he was haranguing in the interests of his particular theory or idea. All this was done without any interference on the part of the police.

Might Criticize King.
In order to discover to what lengths a person might go in expressing his views in Hyde Park, Mr. Jones asked a policeman to make a speech criticizing the king and royal family and was told to go ahead and say what he pleased as long as he did not commit blasphemy.

Minneapolis Orchestra Directed by Verbrugghen Gives Concert May 14

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, directed by Henri Verbrugghen, will appear in Lincoln at the stadium the evening of May 14. The University chorus, assisted by four soloists specially secured for the occasion, will also take part in the program. Seats are now on sale at Ross P. Curtice for 50 cents, 75 cents and $1, and box seats for $2.

Mr. Verbrugghen has had an interesting career as a musician. He was born in Brussels, Belgium, and was the only son of a wealthy manufacturer. His father decided that Henri should be a doctor but the boy had ideas of his own. He was allowed to study the violin as a proper avocation and his talent became so apparent that it attracted the attention of Ysaye, the great Belgian violinist.

Makes Debut at Fourteen.

The boy became a pupil of Ysaye and at the age of fourteen was taken to London to make his debut. He won instant recognition in England as a great violinist and was a favorite in that country for five years.

Verbrugghen then decided that he did not wish to spend his life "with a violin tucked under his chin" and he deserted the concert stage to take a minor position in a great orchestra in Wales. Step by step, he worked his way up until he became the conductor.

After playing in a number of orchestras on the continent to gain experience, he was offered the post of assistant conductor of the famous Scottish Symphony orchestra of Glasgow, Scotland. Soon after accepting the offer, he was made the leader of this orchestra.

Conducts London Orchestra.

Serving as guest conductor for organizations in Russia, France, Belgium and Germany, he gained a reputation so great that he was chosen as conductor of the London Symphony orchestra for the famous Beethoven festival of 1914. A year later, he was recalled to direct the Beethoven-Brahms-Bach festival, and his reputation became established.

Next came a call from the State Conservatory in Sydney, Australia, and he organized and conducted the State Symphony orchestra of that city. The resignation of Emil Oberhoffer, who was for nineteen years the conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, gave the post to Verbrugghen.

His career was a strange one for a lad who was to be a doctor, but Verbrugghen has said "I am a doctor still. I treat men's souls with a time-tested remedy—music."

Fifteen hundred University faculty members and students are expected to attend the first annual all-University May-day breakfast to be held on the campus Saturday at 8:30. The W. S. G. A. is in charge and invites all men and women to be present.

The breakfast will be served cafeteria style, and no tables will be reserved.

The University band and a sorority sing will be features of the entertainment. The cup, which is to be given to the sorority winning the sing, is on display at Hallett's jewelry store. It is donated by the W. S. G. A.

This is to be the big farewell event of the year. The Tassels and the W. S. G. A. council will serve. The committee in charge is: Ruth Miller, chairman, Helen Tomson, Frances Mentzer.

ILLINOIS—"Serenading must stop!" Hundreds of complaints by townspeople who have been disturbed by music and songs of serenaders under sorority house windows have caused orders to be issued by the Champaign department to arrest all students, singing or playing instruments outside.

LABOR GOVERNMENT IS TOPIC AT CONVOCATION

Sidney Wicks, English Editor, Says Labor Party Not Same as Unions.

"The Significance of the Labor Government" was the subject of an address given by Sidney F. Wicks, one of the editors of the Manchester Weekly Guardian, to an audience that filled the Temple theater yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

"The labor party in England is much larger, much broader than the labor unions," Mr. Wicks said, in stressing that the labor party and the unions were not identical. He pointed out that the union merely represents class interests in an economic war, while the party has a political philosophy and a national aim.

"Few people in England today believe that the labor union represents the last word in industrial organization, but there are many who believe that it is essential to a healthy condition in industry," Mr. Wicks declared.

In dealing with the socialistic tendencies of the labor party, Mr. Wicks decried the attitude of those people, who "thrill with horror" when socialism is mentioned.

"All the members of the labor party are not socialists," Mr. Wicks explained. "I do not believe that the English people will ever give conscious assent to socialism."

The conditions giving rise to the labor movement were depicted by Mr. Wicks. These industrial conditions lead the working classes to desert the organized, orthodox religion and to expend their religious feeling in work for social reform.

Paying a high tribute to Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Wicks declared that he stood "like Atlas with the burden of Europe on his shoulders."

Mr. Wicks closed with a plea for understanding and friendship between the United States and England.

Prof. P. H. Grumann presided and introduced Chancellor S. Avery who presented the speaker.

TWENTY-SEVEN TEAMS IN HIGH SCHOOL MEET

Coaches Expect to Break Records on New Track in Saturday Contest.

Up to closing time yesterday, twenty-seven high schools had made entries in the annual track and field meet to be held on the memorial stadium track Saturday May 10. The meet will be the first meet to be conducted on the new Nebraska track. New state high track records are expected to be set up this year as the new track is the faster than the old one on which the former records were established.

A new program of events being worked out by Coach "Indian" Schulte will speed up the afternoon program of the meet. The preliminaries will be run off in the morning for the most part instead of in the afternoon as heretofore.

A survey of high school track teams indicates that expectations of new records are likely to be realized. Jones of Central high, running in Council Bluffs last Saturday equalled the state record of 10 1-5 in the 100-yard dash. Garvin of Alliance duplicated the performance the same day at the Western Nebraska Scholastic meet at Mitchell.

Central Has Strong Team.

Central high of Omaha will come to the meet as usual with a formidable aggregation. The Purple and White tracksters won first with flying colors at the Council Bluffs relay last Saturday. The other Omaha teams and teams from Iowa were in the meet. So far Central with nineteen entries has one of the largest teams in the meet. Central (Continued on Page 4.)

Howard Buffett was appointed junior manager of the 1924 track squad. Ward Kelley was elected to the baseball managership by the committee. These men will automatically become senior managers next year.

Harold P. Stebbins and Robert Scouler were appointed to serve as junior managers in basketball. During the 1925 basketball season one of the two will be chosen as the permanent manager.

RAY AND WATSON APPEARS IN MEET

Famous Middle-distance Runners of Illinois Athletic Club in Match Race.

WILL BE FEATURE OF VALLEY TRACK MEET

Joeie Ray champion middle distance runner, and Ray Watson, Illinois Athletic club star, will run in a special race at the Missouri Valley conference track and field meet May 24 at Lincoln on the new Nebraska memorial stadium field. This is one of the special events being arranged for the Valley classic by Coach Henry F. Schulte.

"The greatest athletic event in the history of the University and greater than the Notre Dame game," says Coach Schulte when talking about the Missouri Valley meet. With the new stadium completed and the cinder track in excellent shape, Nebraska is prepared to take care of the visiting conference athletes as never before.

Special attractions in the way of military demonstrations by United States regulars from Fort Riley, Kan., and the University R.O.T.C. will be some of added events to make it the most spectacular event ever staged at Nebraska.

Coach Schulte hopes to fill the memorial stadium from one end to the other Saturday, May 24, when the cream of the Missouri Valley will be pitted against each other in track and field competition.

Says Has Fine Team.

"Cornhusker followers should come from far and wide for this wonderful display of athletic skill. Nebraska has won the Valley championship three times in succession and the 1924 track team is one of the finest I have ever had the opportunity of coaching. Nebraska is not confident of winning the fourth consecutive championship but we are going to give all the schools a real run for their money," is the way the "Indian" expresses himself.

Winners in the Missouri Valley Conference Championships will have the privilege of going to Boston to compete in the finals of the Olympic tryouts for the United States Olympic team. Records are expected to fall fast and furiously when the stars of the conference school start burning up the cinders in the conference championships.

Tigers Are Strong.

Little has been heard of Coach Bob Simpson's "Show Me" Missourians except when they copped the Indoor Championships at Kansas City this spring. The Tigers are considered as one of the strongest contenders in the Valley for Championship honors. Coach Simpson has a galaxy of stars wearing the Tiger colors and is certain to make a strong bid for first place honors May 24.

Kansas failed to make a spectacular showing at the Drake Relays but this is no evidence that the Jayhawkers will not come to Lincoln with the expectations of carrying home the majority of the blue ribbons.

INTERCOMPANY TRACK MEET IS WEDNESDAY

Outdoor Interfraternity Competition Scheduled for Today Called Off.

The outdoor interfraternity track meet scheduled for this afternoon has been called off because it would interfere too much with the other meets scheduled for this week. The intercompany meet will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock as scheduled. The other two meets this week are the dual meet Thursday with Kansas and the state high school meet Saturday.

Seven companies have all ready made entries in the intercompany meet, and the remaining five companies will have to file their entries by this evening at the military office. The companies entered so far are A, B, C, E, I, L and M.

There will be fourteen events in the meet. Every company will have to enter three men in each event. The schedule of events for the meet will be printed in the Nebraskan Wednesday.
