Professor Henry Johnson of the Teachers College of Columbia University will give four lectures at the annual meeting of the Nebraska history teachers association, May 8 to 10. Professor Johnson is a recognized speaker on the teaching of history and is well recommended by faculty members of the University. Rev. Walter Aitkin of Lincoln also recommends him as a "substantial and very fine man, a good speaker, and one of the best history teachers in this country."

The first lecture will be given on "Webster's Reply to Haynes," by Professor Johnson in the Temple theater at 11 o'clock Friday, May 9. At 8:30 he will speak at the Whittier junior high school auditorium on "A Course in History for American Schools."

"Old and New Conceptions of History for Schools," will be the subject of his address at the annual dinner of the association at Ellen Smith hall, at 6 o'clock. His last lecture will be given Saturday at 10 o'clock in the Social Science auditorium, on the "Literature of American History for the High School."

Miss L. B. Pfeiffer of the history department advises that all history students who expect to become history teachers attend the addresses as they will find Professor Johnson "an inspired speaker."

CADETS TO PARADE IN HONOR OF CHANCELLOR

Company Sponsors Will Make Their First Official Visit to Men.

Company sponsors will see their companies officially for the first time this evening at 5:00 at the parade and review in honor of Chancellor Avery. The regimental, battalion, and company sponsors will each have a cadet lieutenant detailed to them as escort of honor, and will be at the reviewing stand with the Chancellor.

The company sponsors will distribute booklets containing the story of the flag and the national anthem to the men in their companies just before the command, "pass in review" is given by the cadet colonel. The booklets are the gift of E. H. Long of the college book store. About 1200 copies will be given to the regiment.

Cadet staff officers and company commanders will carry sabers for the first time this year in the review. The sabers have been carried for several weeks in regular drill periods.

The parade this evening is the next to the last before the final review at 10 o'clock on May 24. The next parade will be Wednesday May 14, in honor of the deans of the various colleges.

The companies have been drilling on lines especially hard this week in preparation for the competition which is only two weeks off, and the competition for first, second and third places in lines in the parade today will be keen. Company A, Harold Spencer, captain, was the first in the parade last time, and will be color company this evening.

Postpone Cadet Track Contest Until May 17

Major Sidney Erickson announced yesterday that the intercompany track meet which had been scheduled to begin at 3:30 p. m. would be postponed until May 17, at 9 o'clock because of the cold weather, following a suggestion by Coach Schulte.

Weather Forecast

Thursday—Fair and warmer.

ANNUAL TOURNEY COMES SATURDAY

Coach Schulte Expects High School Men to Break Many Records.

TRACK WILL BE IN PERFECT CONDITION

"Nebraska will witness the greatest high school track meet in its history Saturday," said Coach H. F. Schulte, late yesterday. "The number of contestants is greater than ever before and they are faster. The track, although new will be one of the fastest in America on that day. It is in perfect shape and there will be many records broken."

The entry list is larger than last year by eight schools. Forty-eight teams composed of several hundred athletes will compete in the stadium Saturday morning and afternoon. Several more towns are expected to enter before the meet.

The new track which has been in preparation for several weeks will be used for the tournament. The cinders are in perfect shape and will be ready for record-breaking if the weather is good.

The meet will be speeded up by a program of events formed by Coach Schulte. All preliminary field events will be run off Saturday morning, narrowing the number of contestants in these events to five who will compete in the afternoon when the track events are held. A large number of officials will be on the field to help the handling of the affair.

Seventeen teams are entered in Group III, including Omaha Central, Hastings, Lincoln, Omaha Tech., Fremont, Scottsbluff, Grand Island and Kearney. All of these teams are well balanced and will offer strong competition. Several teams seem to be outstanding in Group II, Cambridge, Geneva, Gothenburg, and Aurora appear as favorites in this class although some dark horse may spring a surprise. In Group I the race for first place will be close with Arlington, Dewitt, Superior and Arnold appearing as probable winners.

The teams entered in the meet up to date Thursday were:

FIRST INTERFRAT BANQUET IS HELD

Fifteen Plaques Awarded to Fraternities of Fewest
Delinquencies.

BALLARD DUNN MAKES PRINCIPAL ADDRESS

Eight hundred fraternity men assembled at the Scottish Rite Temple last night for the first annual interfraternity banquet. Fifteen plaques were awarded to the fraternities having a percentage of delinquent hours in the last two semesters less than the average per cent for all fraternities. Ballard Dunn, editor of the Omaha Bee, gave the main address of the evening.

The following is the alphabetical list of the fraternities which carried home plaques:

- Acacia
- Alpha Gamma Rho
- Alpha Sigma Phi
- Alpha Tau Omega
- Alpha Theta Chi
- Beta Theta Pi
- Delta Tau Delta
- Farm House
- Kappa Sigma
- Lambda Chi Alpha
- Phi Delta Chi
- Pi Kappa Alpha
- Sigma Nu
- Silver Lynx
- Zeta Beta Tau

Mr. Dunn gave several of the great problems of the day which the coming generation will have to solve in his address to the assemblage. In the introduction of Mr. Dunn, Chancellor Avery told of his great success in Omaha in connection with the Omaha Bee.

Address Has Two Parts.
The main address of the evening was started with two quotations, "I will study and prepare myself, and some day my chance will come." The other was found in the log-book of Columbus's flag ship. It was, "Today we sailed westward because that was our course."

After telling of the completeness and rapidity of the development of our country, Mr. Dunn said, "From 1828 to 1870 the people suddenly spread out over the country because of the development of transportation." He told of the growth of industry and the responsibility of its problems which rest on the shoulders of the coming generation.

"The question of politics as well must be solved," continued the editor of the Bee. "There have arisen problems in both industry and politics, and they cannot be solved thru the glasses of old age."

Explains Credit System.

He then told of the complex modern system of credit and industry and traced the work of salesmen showing that our whole system is based on credit. He said, "The fellow who is the keystone to this whole arch is the least informed."

He makes a mistake—he cannot sell his goods, and the long system of credit behind him is crushed. This too is one of the great problems of the day. From somewhere there must come the brains and the men to solve this. Is the business cycle absolutely necessary or can it be straightened out?"

"With the development of industry came the development of machinery and finally the automatic machines which do all the artistry of industry, the love of labor. The tendency of those running the machines is toward radicalism," declared Mr. Dunn.

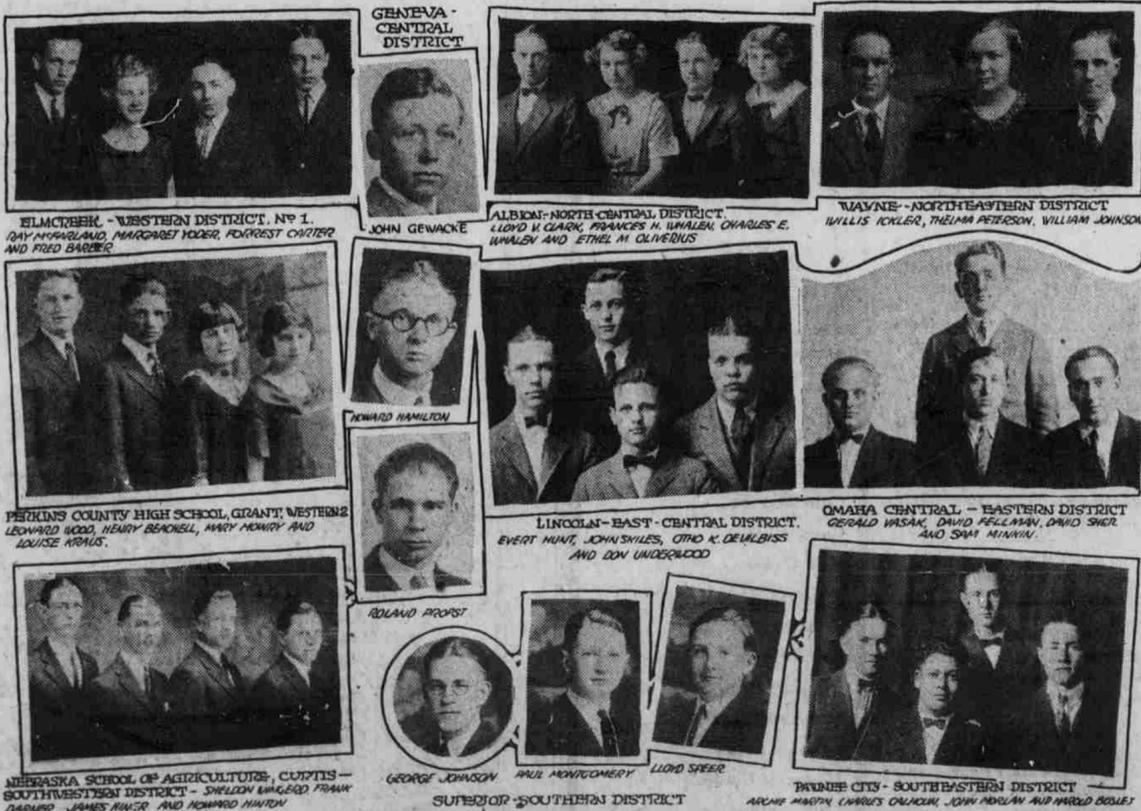

Considers Labor Problem.

"The laborer has now leisure time and we have nothing for him to do. That is a problem for education to solve," he said. Taking up the quotations which he gave early in his address, he said, "The chance always comes to the fellow who is prepared. When you have left school here, you have just really begun. Keep always on the course, for if you change your course, you will not accomplish much."

Mr. Dunn closed his address with the following quotation: "One ship sails east and another west, with self-same winds that blow; it's the set of the sails, and not the gales, that determines the way they go."

Woodward's Candy Kids and Clyde Davis furnished some excellent entertainment for the affair. Prof. R. D. Scott was toastmaster, while Dr. Adams awarded the plaques.
