

FRESHMAN GIRLS GIVEN WELCOME

Big Sisters Start Year's Work By Writing More Than Five Hundred Letters

PARTY PLANNED FOR FIRST-YEAR WOMEN

To welcome freshmen women and assist them in making arrangements for college life, Big Sisters have the past few weeks carried out a program devised to give helpful information. Under the direction of the Senior Advisory Board, 250 upperclasswomen have written letters of welcome to more than 500 freshmen, and in many cases met trains and helped them to find homes and to register. The board has maintained headquarters in the Social Science building during registration and has kept open a friendship corner for the convenience of big and little sisters in Ellen Smith Hall.

The Big Sisters were sent the names of the women they were to aid and were given suggestions by the board as to points to include in their letters. Means of finding rooms, information as to women's organizations, and invitations to organization parties were included. The women were sent red and white ribbons which they might wear at the stations if they wished to be welcomed by board members. Special effort was made to have Big Sisters to meet late trains and women who had not found rooms were taken to the city Y. W. C. A.

At the booth in the Social Science building secured names and addresses of all women who registered and distributed tickets for green buttons and N books. The buttons may be had this week at Rudge & Guenzel's store and the N books will be ready for distribution from Miss Appleby's office in Ellen Smith Hall soon. Invitations were also given out for the Husks' "kid" party and the Kernels' hard-times party which will be given September 27 under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Freshmen may attend which ever party they choose. The friendship booth in Ellen Smith Hall was kept open so that Big and Little Sisters might arrange to meet each other or get information. Several hundred girls visited the corner registration week.

A large party for all Big and Little Sisters will be given in the Armory within a few weeks. Big Sisters, which were chosen by board members last spring, are organized so that each member has charge of a group of big sisters. Upperclasswomen interested in helping freshmen should leave their names in Ellen Smith Hall.
