AWGWAN ENDORSED.

Awgwan, University of Nebraska humorous publication, has at last regained the recognition of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce as an advertising medium. This approval assures the success of the revival of the publication. Before, with the prospect of only enough advertising for two or three issues, it was problematical whether the magazine would be able to continue even after the final success of Sigma Delta Chi's struggle to secure the recognition of the Student Publication Board of the University.

The value of Awgwan to the Lincoln merchants and the University as an advertising medium can hardly be over-estimated. One of the reasons for its endorsement by the Advertising Censorship Committee of the Chamber of Commerce was given by that body as the expressed desire of several large advertisers that Awgwan return to the advertising field. Many of the advertisers in the men's wear line, at the meeting of the committee last June when Awgwan's application was refused, had said that they considered the field fully covered by The Daily Nebraskan. But this opinion was probably biased, it was admitted at the second gathering.

The year 1924 would be the thirtieth of its publication if Awgwan had been issued last year. In the eleven years the magazine was published—a comparatively short time—it gained a nation-wide recognition. Awgwan was quoted by such humor publications as "Judge" and "Life." An alumnus reported that he read a clipping from Awgwan in an Australian newspaper.

This broad field which the Awgwan covered could not be well reached by The Daily Nebraskan, with its news purely of local University interest, or by the Cornhusker, of even greater purely local interest. From this it is clear that the possible field is not covered by The Daily Nebraskan, as the Lincoln retailers at first held.

On its wanderings, Awgwan must inevitably carry the name of the University of Nebraska with it, and the names of many of the students who contribute to the writing and the artwork it contains. This advertising increases the prestige of the University as an institution which trains active, alert minds, and so draws students from the older colleges. This influx of students seeking the best training must raise the intellectual average of the student population at Nebraska.

The fact that a man is a graduate of a certain college or university often works for him or against him when he is considered for an important position in the business or professional world which he serves. If the University of Nebraska is advertised by Awgwan as an institution which develops keen minds, the prestige of the institution in these other fields will also be increased.

And not the least of the good that Awgwan does is to provide a definite goal for art students and young writers—that of having their output accepted for publication in a widely circulated magazine.

The Student Publication Board was an active advocate of the endorsement of the magazine by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce committee. The chairman wrote several letters to the business men. Chancellor Avery, too, helped materially in writing to the committee.

The fact that Awgwan was placed under the supervision of the Student Publication Board led the Lincoln retailers finally to give their endorsement to the publication on the condition that the board secure a strict accounting of expenditures and profits.

The announcement by the board that it would limit salaries paid those who handled the magazine to reasonable amounts and require the remainder of the profits, if there was any, to be used for such purposes as scholarships, also increased the confidence of the Lincoln business men in Awgwan as an advertising medium.

This solid foundation given University publications by the Student Publication Board through its direct and strict supervision is an invaluable aid to the financial success of those publications.

After all Awgwan's troubles, the students are glad to learn that the magazine has surmounted the last obstacle and is ready to resume publication as the official humor magazine of the University.

Five Years Ago

Coach Schulte put every one of his varsity candidates into the two-hour scrimmage with the freshmen. He had just been in Lincoln for two weeks and was getting acquainted with the men rapidly.

The "Sunshine Girl," Miss Betty Blodgett, conducted a meeting of a Y. W. C. A. committee to lay plans for a drive for the Salvation Army. She told of her experiences with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

Freshman convocation was scheduled as the most important event of the morning. The men met in the Armory and the women in the Temple.

Ten Years Ago

The men held a rally on the campus in the evening. Freshmen took a prominent part in the program.

Jack Best advised his "boys" to cut out smoking, chewing and keeping late hours.

"The boy who can dance all night and play a great game of football the next day is looked upon as a kind of hero, but he isn't," Jack is quoted by The Daily Nebraskan. "He's more of a fool, and the chances are that he won't be worth his railroad fare the rest of the season."

Notice of a general election of the four class presidents was given in The Daily Nebraskan. Each candidate was required to file his name with the Registrar, and no one was entitled to vote unless his name was printed on the ballot. It was announced by the Registrar that there should be no soliciting of votes by cards or otherwise near the polls.
