Twin Brothers Play Football and Coach Can't Tell Which is Which
 "If twin brothers are good football players they are an asset to any team," says the coach at Beloit college, "but," he added, "they are a good deal of worry."
 Carl and Bob Brolin are the twin brothers in quest and so nearly do they resemble each other, that the coach cannot be sure whether he has one or the other in the lineup. The situation is made more intricate by the fact that Bob is a freshman and plays with the freshman squad, and Carl is on the varsity squad.
 When Bob was pledged to the fraternity to which his brother Carl already belonged, the boys gave Carl their congratulations when he appeared wearing his brother's tie and pledge button.
 They should make a great pair for the Beloit coach next year.

PLAYERS PRESENT THREE-ACT COMEDY
"Rollo's Wild Oat" Plays To a Full House at Opening Thursday Night.

Attended by a riot of laughter and unanimous approval of a full house, "Rollo's Wild Oat" last night opened the season of the University Players at the Temple Theater. The three-act play was presented in a manner which, judging from its reception, promised much for presentations to come.
 The leading role of Rollo Webster was played by Dwight Merriam. Rollo was possessed with a great desire to play Hamlet in a new and modern manner, and his trials and troubles in producing the play are the basis of the plot.
 As his director he found Mr. Stein, who brought with him Goldie MacDuff, a musical comedy actress looking for a position. The part of Goldie, the leading feminine role, was portrayed by Martha Dudley, who brought out all the characteristics of an Ophelia with no experience and much stage fright. Harold Sumption as Mr. Stein produced many laughs by his able representation of a money-grasping producer.
 Miss Pauline Gellately played the part of Lydia, and ever-intruding and stage-struck younger sister of Rollo. Her affection for another member of the Shakespearean company, George Lucas, complicates matters. Edward Taylor as Hewston, Rollo's valet, must be given credit for many of the laughs by his display of utter lack of knowledge and general uselessness in promoting Rollo's affairs.
 Members of the company who assisted Rollo were secured by Mr. Stein and were experienced Shakespearean actors. George Lucas, a handsome, passionate young lover, was played by Darrell Starnes. The other actors in Hamlet were Mrs. Park-Gales, played by Ruth Schrank; Whortley Camperdown, by Bernard Maxey; and Thomas Skitterling, played by Henry Ley.
 One of Rollo's greatest difficulties in the production of his play was keeping the secret from his aged grandfather, Horatio Webster. Rollo's Aunt Lane, however, was interested, and planned to assist him in his work. The part of Horatio Webster was played exceedingly well by Harte Jenks, who showed fine character work in it. Dolores Bosse played the part of Aunt Lane. Bella, the maid at Horatio Webster's home, was played by Lillian Shim-mick.
 This is the tenth annual season of the University Players and with but two exceptions all the plays of the year will be first run presentations. The management believes itself fortunate in obtaining "Whispering Wires," a "gripping, thrilling, rapid-moving mystery play," in place of "Thank U." "Whispering Wires" will be presented November 20, 21, and 22.
 "Rollo's Wild Oat" will be presented again tonight and Saturday afternoon and evening.
