

GIVE CAGESTERS STIFF PRACTICE

Varsity Scrimmage with Second String Quintet Is on Program.

OVER MONTH REMAINS BEFORE FIRST GAME

Work on plays and some scrimmage was the program for Varsity basketball practice yesterday afternoon. Coach Kline put his men through practice plays against the second-string men for the early part of the workout and followed that with stiff scrimmage.

Among Kline's Varsity men in the red suits were Captain Volz, Usher, and Goodson. Rough edges showed all over the squad and there are many points to be improved. The practice on plays showed prominent defects in the makeup of the team, the seconds breaking up formations time after time.

Scrimmage grew stiffer as the workout progressed, but was not as fast as mid-season practice. Over a month remains before the first game, to be played at Manhattan, Kansas, against the Kansas Aggies. The season will open with a trip to the Aggies and to Oklahoma, at Norman.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY—The 1925 track team will be seriously weakened by the absence of Allan and Brooks, '26. These two men are making a trip around the world.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON—The president of the freshman class has been replaced by an executive council. It is thought that this plan has many advantages over the old one.

Declares That New and Insidious Disease Is Attacking Universities

A new disease has attacked the universities of the country, and according to the Daily Kansan, "It is more insidious than halitosis, more deadly than female hate, more catching than mumps, and more time-snatching than a semester theme."

Even the professors are not immune to this dread plague that is sweeping our schools for at Princeton a professor has offered a prize for the person that shall produce the problem with two solutions and another professor has offered to make his English class a class in this work if someone can produce a product that will be hard enough for the final examination in—the cross-word puzzle.

"Cross-word puzzleitis" is especially prevalent in our universities and the groups of students to be seen sprawling all over every available dictionary are not engaged in solving the meaning of some lengthy word like "umbrageous," but are frantically looking for a ten-lettered word or a three-lettered synonym for a football field. Professors in the English departments lose three pounds of weight and three days of work looking for a word to fill the seven-lettered space that means "cow." Play rehearsals are delayed hours because the leading lady hasn't solved the latest. The Websters are deteriorating at an alarming rate while synonym books are selling at a premium.

For selling ten cakes of castle soap, you no longer get a chance to win a shiny new Ford, but receive a book of cross-word puzzles.

According to the Daily Kansan, "Statistics show that the scholastic averages of the eastern universities has dropped four per cent. Ditch diggers delve in the quotations of Shakespeare, strikers fail to strike, diplomats fail to diplomat, and students fail to date.

It's a joy to put on a clean shirt that has been laundered Evansway. Missing buttons are replaced and the shirt has the body and feel of one brand new. A small amount of sizing makes them stay clean longer and wash easier next time.

For Young Men There is nothing like a STETSON

MOST young men today know the importance of looking fit. Good appearance counts much in the game of life. The young man who dresses with taste has a decided advantage.

But—it is surprising how little thought the average man gives to his hat. It is his crown, yet he seems to stop dressing at the neck.

Be careful in your selection of your headwear. When you buy a hat, select a Stetson. Its style is right, its quality means long wear.
