

THREE TEAMS LEAD VALLEY

Tight Race on Between Nebraska, Kansas and Washington for Title.

JAYHAWKERS FACING TEST OF ENDURANCE

THIS WEEK'S BASKETBALL.
Monday—Nebraska, 35; Grinnell, 29. Kansas, 33; Ames, 18. Missouri, 28; Kansas Aggies, 24.
Tuesday—Grinnell at Kansas Aggies. Missouri at Oklahoma.
Wednesday—Grinnell at Kansas.

Thursday—Oklahoma at Drake. Friday—Kansas Aggies at Nebraska. Oklahoma at Grinnell. Kansas at Washington. Saturday—Oklahoma at Ames. Kansas at Missouri.

The Missouri Valley basketball race has evolved at least for the present into a match between the Kansas, Nebraska and Washington cagers. The three top-placers drew further away from the crowd as the result of last week's games and will probably retain their positions there for a time.

Washington fell from a tie in first place to a tie in second place after Kansas defeated Ames. The Jayhawks stepped out a few points in front but have three games this week which will test their fitness for the position. They meet Grinnell, Washington, and Missouri.

Nebraska has one remaining game this week before starting on a trip, which includes Kansas, Washington, and Missouri, the three leading contenders for the title. The jaunt will be a stiff one and the standings after that will be interesting to note.

The Kansas Jayhawks, leading the conference, won from Ames with little trouble Monday night, 33 to 18. The leaders are slated to meet Grinnell tonight, Washington Friday, and Missouri Saturday. The Washington team will stack up against them on their home court in a game which will probably decide whether Washington will remain in the race or not. At present the Pikers and the Cornhuskers are on even terms.

Washington has a week of rest between two hard games, Kansas and Nebraska. They stand third in offensive and second in defensive work and are in a tie for second place in the standings.

Missouri elevated its position from seventh to third by defeating the Kansas Aggies Monday night. The Tigers won by a 28-24 score, disposing of the Aggies only after a hard fight. Missouri meets Kansas, Grinnell, and Nebraska this week and next.

Kansas Aggies and Grinnell are tied for fourth place. Both teams lost games Monday night and now stand on a fifty-fifty basis, although the Aggies have played eight games and the Pioneers only six.

Drake and Ames, the Iowa schools, and Oklahoma are footing the list. The Sooners dropped to fifth place after their defeat at the hands of the Cornhuskers last Saturday, but still have a chance to come back into the running. Drake and Ames, however, can entertain few hopes. Ames has lost ten games.

Valley Sports

Coach Ossie Solem of Drake is renewing Drake's basketball hopes this week. The Bulldogs will have had a ten-day rest before they meet Oklahoma at Des Moines, February 12. With the eligibility of Harry Eilers, former Des Moines high school star the second semester, the Drake team was strengthened considerably and their mentor believes that a new brand of playing will be seen from new on.

Preston Lawless is another second-string Bulldog who is showing up well. Lawless replaced Captain Jack Sparks at guard and looks like good material. Captain Sparks completed his three years of Valley competition at the end of the last semester and will be succeeded by Art Ashby, another guard, elected by his team mates to lead the Bulldogs.

In an effort to retain the famous Drake Relays at the Des Moines school, Des Moines business men and alumni and students of Drake are uniting in building a new stadium. Work will begin on the new athletic bowl immediately after the Relays this year, on April 24 and 25.

Professional wrestling as controlled by the trust is believed by the Big Ten Weekly to be the absolute zero in sport. "But intercollegiate and amateur wrestling is a great sport. At many Big Ten meets it is not uncommon to see crowds at the meets almost equal to those at basketball games."

The new Nebraska coach has turned out several Illinois tennis stars as well as football men, and is a competent tutor in all sports. His work is confined to the backfield, and combined with that of Coach Henry F. Schulte on the line, ought to produce a dangerous Cornhusker machine.

"The Big Ten is the loser and the Valley is the winner!" So says a recent issue of the Missouri Valley

"Doc" McLean Known to Athletes Because of Readiness to Give Attention

"Thanks very much. That feels a lot better." This came from a Notre Dame athlete at the Kansas City Athletic Club meet Saturday night, after "Doc" McLean, Husker trainer, had "fixed up" an injury received in the meet. But it could have come from most any athlete there, because they all know "Doc" McLean of Nebraska. "Doc Mack" has been giving attention to athletes of other schools when they request it, just as the Husker athletes have been receiving expert care in the past three seasons.

One man, a Kansas runner, had received a bad "spill" on the board track and the Husker trainer was called upon to care for his injuries. That was last spring, and Dr. McLean became known throughout the Jayhawker athletic squad. Since then he has received many calls and has given his services gladly.

If a man receives some injury, they call on the Husker trainer. Saturday night he was as much in demand by athletes from other schools

Sports in commenting on the appointment of Ernest E. Bearg of Illinois head football coach at Nebraska. An expression of confidence that Mr. Bearg will ably fill the position left by Mr. Dawson is tempered with the statement that "Mr. Dawson, who has turned out many champions, will be hard to replace, but at the same time Mr. Bearg has no mean record behind him."

Wrestling as an intercollegiate sport is growing tremendously and promises to run the long-popular basketball a close run for popularity, according to the Big Ten Weekly. The reason for the popularity of the mat sport is perhaps the tainted qualities of professional and commercialized wrestling.

sult was sick after a race. Dr. McLean was called.

When he first offered his services to Nebraska, Dr. McLean came to fill the place of Jack Best. For the past six years his time has been spent in connection with the State Hospital. He works with the Husker athletes because he enjoys it. Before that time he was connected with a large hospital in New York City.

His work with the Nebraska athletes has brought him distinction throughout the scope of Husker competition, and he is known and held in esteem by all athletes of the Valley. He is not only giving expert attention to the athletes, but he is building up a true hospitable spirit for the University of Nebraska among her competitors.
