

DISCUSS PEACE AT WORLD FORUM

Rev. Inglis Asserts This Country Must Make Plain a Desire for Peace.

SAYS GOVERNMENT IS NOT SHOWING BEST ATTITUDE

"The only panacea I can see which will lead to good feeling among nations and relieve the existing animosity is for the American people and the American government to settle the next problem in a way that will show the nations with whom we are likely to become involved that we want peace and that we will sacrifice to get peace," declared the Rev. E. T. Inglis, pastor of the Vine Congregational church, in speaking at the World Forum luncheon Wednesday noon at the Grand Hotel on "Trying to Get Somewhere."

"We are not taking that attitude. The government officials exclude the Japanese, prepare for war, and then make speeches urging peace. I do not like it. I believe that with the mind to do those things which will bring peace—which will lead us toward that goal—we will be able to see and make the next move when the time comes."

"Shall we enter the League, or the world court, or the protocol? I am willing to see them tried. I believe we should make some move that will point forward, not backward."

The Rev. Mr. Inglis discussed the National Defense Act of 1920 at some length. "It seems to be possible," he stated, "for the military to put their fingers out and touch anything—almost—that it wants, and get away with it. What the Dred Scott decision was for slavery, the National Defense Act is for the military."

"It crystallized the war psychology of the year in which it was born and brought it down to today. It gives the power to militarize business and industry on a war basis, to conduct the red, white, and blue summer camps to interest the high school boys, a thing which even Prussia never did; to develop the military idea in institutions of higher learning by subsidizing courses; it made possible the 'Defense Test.' The unbalanced method of handling the situation was shown by the fact that $50,000,000 was appropriated to the military and naval forces and only $14,000,000 to the state department—the department of peace. The President asked the American League to boost Armistice day—peace day—preparations without expenditure and without departmental aid, while the President and two departments with appropriations made ready for Defense Day."

Trained Goat for University Night Poisoned--Committee Seeks New One

An Angora goat—a long-bearded, long-haired, long-horned, healthy, intelligent goat with a black nose—is wanted immediately to take the place of the trained Scandinavian big horn which was to appear in the prologue of the University Night program Saturday night, according to Bennett S. Martin, '25, Oregon, Mo., general chairman of the University Night committee.

Potomine poisoning, incurred by the imported goat because of his inadvertence for the red labels on tomato cans, has made it impossible for him to appear. He is in the care of veterinarians and students in the Department of Animal Husbandry at the College of Agriculture. Various emetics administered have had little effect. He refuses to eat additional food of any kind and is no longer able to support himself.

The illness was discovered early Thursday afternoon when attendants went to the stable where he has been kept since his arrival in Lincoln for rehearsals last week. He had found a heap of cans within reach, and not a label was in sight. It is also feared that the rust absorbed with the labels

Forty-five musicians took part in the program given last Sunday evening to a small audience, due to the heavy rain. Numbers from Bach, Handel, Palestrina, and other composers of sacred music were given. Voice, violin, and piano solos were given for variation. Selections were given by the quartet.

The entire Glee Club will take part in the second appearance of the club. Songs by the entire club, selections by the quartet, and several solos will be features of the evenings entertainment.

Credit Hours Are Found To Come High at the University of Kansas

Average Student at Lawrence Spends More Than Six Hundred Dollars.

The high cost of credits is the subject of a recent discussion at the University of Kansas. There they have determined that average expenses for a school year are more than six hundred dollars. The university catalogue gives the estimate of $638 as the average expenses for a student for the school year of thirty-six weeks.

The average student is found to carry fifteen hours a semester. Taking the average expense for a year as $600, and dividing the total cost for the year by the number of hours earned, it is found that twenty dollars is the cost of one hour. If the student fails in five hours; he thus loses one hundred dollars.

The student, even if he is working his way, is paying a great deal for the much-desired credit hour. He must pay in hours if not in dollars. Then considering the time that he might have been working instead of going to school—earning instead of spending—the cost to him is much higher than could possibly have been told by the figures.

NEW SMALLPOX CASE DEVELOPS

Lloyd Foschtman, Pharmacy Freshman, Taken to Isolation Hospital Yesterday.

Officials urge that all students be vaccinated.

At the time when University authorities were beginning to hope and believe that the danger of smallpox was definitely past, a new case has developed. Lloyd Foschtman, a freshman in the College of Pharmacy and member of Kappa Psi fraternity, is the second student to be taken with the disease. He was vaccinated soon after the first case was reported and his case is therefore only a light attack.

Foschtman came in contact with the first case and may have received the disease in that manner. He was taken last evening to the City Isolation Hospital.

Dean R. A. Lyman in a statement made last evening said: "The only thing that students can do to prevent the spread of the disease now, is to be vaccinated immediately, if they have not already done so. A person who has been vaccinated within the last three years need not again be vaccinated at this time, however."

"A previous attack of smallpox is an absolute guarantee of immunity from it and in cases where the person has had it, vaccination is unnecessary.

"If the students continue to report for voluntary vaccination, no more stringent measures will be necessary. In case they do not, it may be imperative that other measures be adopted," Dr. Lyman added.

The Student Health office reports that few vaccinations have been given since the first scare was over. A new shipment of vaccine points arrived late last week and the office will be able to vaccinate all students desiring to take the precaution. Vaccination will also be made, free of charge, at the City Health office at 10 and Q streets.

START SPRING GRID PRACTICE

Twenty-nine Aspirants Put Through Paces by Bearg, New Husker Mentor.

COACH WANTS MORE MEN OUT FOR ALL WORKOUTS

Twenty-nine Cornhusker football aspirants went through light signal practice yesterday for new head coach, Ernest E. Bearg, in the first day of spring football practice and received their first instruction under the famous Zuppke-Illinois system of football that Bearg is bringing to Nebraska.

Coach Bearg had nothing to say about the first workout at the end of practice, except to repeat his call for candidates. "There should be fifty men out every evening" he said. "What I want is numbers."

"I want every man who will be eligible for football next year, and who is not at present in other varsity sports, to report for football practice every afternoon. This means everybody, freshmen, scrubs, varsity men, and just plain candidates. We must have to pick the men this spring for the team next fall."

Forty suits were issued yesterday, and twenty-five more candidates will be outfitted today.

Candidates for the team are expected by Coach Bearg to report every day at 4:00 for the practice which will last until 5:30. On Saturday the men are to report at 3:00. Coach Bearg emphasized yesterday that he wants every candidate out every day, rain or shine. He is doing this in order to make regular attendance a habit.

Bearg has only until spring vacation to make preparations for the football season next fall and it will mean hard work outside, every fair day, for the football men mastering the new plays and coordinating team.

Organized Gang of Robbers May Be Victimizing Western Universities

Police Now Hunting for Thieves Who Looted Fraternity and Rooming Houses.

The wave of recent robberies that have been committed at the University of Wyoming, the University of Colorado, and the University of Utah, has led to the theory that an organized gang is victimizing the various universities and colleges of the west.

At the University of Colorado all the evidence points to the fact that those who commit the crimes are in close touch with the daily life of the University and are taking advantage of their familiarity to loot the fraternity houses. Forced entrances of fraternity houses in a
