Ten Years Ago
The Engineers' edition of The Daily Nebraskan was published in honor of the Engineers' Fete Day. While the Law students enjoyed their annual barbecue out at Capital Beach, the Engineers celebrated with field activities on the campus athletic grounds. One event which furnished great amusement was the horse-shoe pitching contest between the professors of the Engineering Colleges who took part. The activities to make good their class-room boasts as to their former abilities. A dustless ink-stand was offered to the Dean of the winning college by the University Book Store. A dollar in trade is offered to the winner of the free-for-all dash across the athletic field, and a baseball will be given to the engineer throwing it the longest distance. The names of the participants were not given until the events began at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

The Cow College Carnival, to be held May 1, at the Colorado State College, promises a full day of stunts. A parade will be held in the morning and in the afternoon a program including races, fraternity stunts, wild west exhibitions, and a dance.

ARTIFICIALLY COLORED
Cheating, petting, drinking. These are the major indictments hurled upon the thousands in colleges today in a veritable avalanche of "literature" from publishing houses throughout the land.
In novels, short stories, and sketches, called by their authors the "realistic" type, modern American college men and women are picked from the group, classified, labeled, each according to his or her "type," placed between book covers and shoved upon the public as characters "faithfully portrayed."
"Intimate glimpses into the real life and character" of our campuses the books are called. The tales are "intimate" all right; they must be to fill the requirements of "best sellers." But it is the allegation of "reality" that hurts. Campus life and character, as drawn in a large number of "best sellers" is about as "real" as the pictures of early Western life pictured in the paper-backed "novels" which received such a large circulation among the generation which precedes this. The difference between the two types of "literature," lies neither in time, treatment, nor veracity, but in price. The paper backed books sold for a dime.
For a while the wild and woolly tales were believed. Gullible Easterners thrived on them for years. "Diamond Dick" was to them, a real character, who thought no more of slaughtering a man than they themselves would of cursing a hansom driver. And life in the West,—well it was just one continual round of shooting, scalping and hell raising. But they learned in time to take Nick Carter no more seriously than Grimm of Fairy-tale fame.
Dead and buried is Nick, but his spirit still lingers. It grins encouragingly at the men who pound out reams of stuff about colleges. It lurks in their minds when they spin their muddled yarns.
The devilish thing about the stuff is that the public is fooled. It always is through lack of information. In the grasp of college fictionists people are as defenseless as they are against unprincipled manufacturers of edibles, and food for the mind can be as damaging as food for the body. There should be labels on the bulk of books about college for warning. The labels should read:

As a result of a recent argument at Oregon University the student paper has printed a list of the time-worn traditions of that school. The list includes such ones as: No smoking on the campus; and whenever you meet anyone say "Hello."

Clothes for Young Men
Why we advertise our quality Nationally
Our advertising efforts are on a large scale—as the number of cities in which we advertise emphasizes—from coast to coast, north to south.
Our window displays and magazine pages in color are other supplementary agencies of attractive publicity as are also the college dailies.
We have adopted the use of publication which have wide and general circulation, to acquaint as many men as possible with the high standard of our clothes and thereby win public confidence in the Campus Togs label which identifies our product. We recognize that with national distribution our customers represent a national audience and we want to apprise the public first hand of the security in buying clothes with our label sewn in the inside pocket.
We don't sell every merchant in the country, but neither can any other manufacturer have access to such service to the public, in view of the competitive condition surrounding the giving of confined sale to merchants in various localities.
There are a lot of clothing manufacturers, but only a few standard lines that establish the barometer of quality and value which identify them as feature lines. We are one of these standard lines and with thirty-five years of reputation behind us, our guarantee of satisfaction is a substantial fortification in the selection of clothes which measure high for genuine service and thorough satisfaction.
We guarantee our clothes
