DELAYING PLEDGES

The freshmen who enter the University next fall, who, in a majority of cases, are going out from home influences for the first time, will probably be as free of knowledge of fraternities as they have always been in the past.

A large number of them, as in the past, will accept a pledge button, completely taken off their feet by rushing activities, from the first fraternity to ask them to pledge.

Fortune may favor them. Their selected group may be the one best suited for them. But blind selection seldom results in taking the correct road. They may discover the nature of their surroundings, and may wish to retrace their steps.

Is it possible for a new man, bewildered by the wonderful treatment accorded him, to judge more than thirty men sufficiently in a few hours to know certainly they are the men he desires for his closest friends during the four years of his college life?

Another Failure
At Union College, New York, the honor system has been indefinitely suspended by vote of the faculty.

A NOTE ON PROFESSOR GAYLEY
"The Bander-log must go," says Professor Charles Mills Gayley, of California University—teacher of English and frequent contributor to the Atlantic Monthly, and the Nation—in his article which is printed in the College Press section of this issue.
