

SQUAD GOOD IN PRACTICE

Gridsters Show Mid-Season Stuff in Monday Afternoon Session.

Chalk-Talk on Plays Followed by Signal Work and Scrimmage Is Program.

What looked like a real mid-season practice took place yesterday afternoon on the practice field south of the stadium. Coach E. E. Bearg was host to a large group of aspirants for the Cornhusker football squad, and the afternoon was spent in a lively, well-organized workout.

The sudden change in weather, from the baseball and golf variety to the tangy football climate had a good effect on Coach Bearg's mole-skin wearers. Everything moved fast and the squad shows signs of rounding off the corners.

A chalk-talk on plays was the initial feature of the workout. Coach Bearg explained exactly what he wanted and then proceeded to teach his men how to do it.

After the preliminary work on the field came signal work and scrimmage. The "regular" lineup was working on the offensive in a passing game. Coach Bearg and his assistants were instructing the defense in breaking up the plays.

Bob Stephens was holding down the quarterback position. Stephens' passes were largely accurate, and in the opinion of many who viewed the workout will become a fast quarter.

Choppy Rhodes and Locke were in the backfield with Jug Brown. Brown showed his hand at snagging passes, and Locke pulled down a few pretty ones.

On the line were Joe Weir, Sprague, Scholz, Randella, Hutchinson and Wostoupal. Joe Wostoupal increased the number of letter men by one when he was declared eligible for the gridiron sport. Wostoupal played center last year in Hutchinson's absence, and was placed at guard yesterday.

Coach Bearg shifted a few of his first string men to the defensive for practice, and during the last half-hour of practice drove the Cornhuskers through a fast line practice.

CHANCELLOR ANNOUNCES NEBRASKA HALL CLOSED and disintegrate them during every wind storm.

"All of the experts who have advised the University authorities agree that the danger lies in the possible collapse of the brick walls between the third floor and the roof. A collapse of this portion of the building, however, might precipitate the heavy roof on to the lower portion causing the collapse of the entire structure. About 1500 different students take work in the building, though not all at the same time. There is no other space available for their use as other departments are badly crowded. 450 of these will be transferred to the new museum building as soon as completed. Aside from housing the work of the Military department and the Department of Geography, the building contains the collections of Dr. Condra which are of great value and could not be replaced.

"To make the building safe it has been decided to remove the roof and the masonry as far as the floor of the third story. A temporary flat roof will then be erected. This will be of wood covered with tar gravel and will last at the most for a few years. The third floor will be, of course, sacrificed, but the basement and two floors can be used safely for a few years until other provisions are made. The building in the meantime will be about as safe and beautiful as the old capitol, recently demolished, was during the last six years.

"The decision to proceed at once was reached late Sunday night after the Chancellor had consulted with the Regents by telephone. Several of them had watched with great solicitude the deterioration of the building for a number of years, and were familiar with its condition. Authorization on the part of University officials to proceed along the plans outlined was unanimously approved by the board. It is the wish of all concerned that the proposed structural changes cost as little as is consistent with safety. No part of the building is structurally sound enough to warrant permanent repairs of such a character as to make it a permanent building on the University campus. It is believed that the third story can be removed and a temporary roof placed above the second story in about a month. In the meantime the military department will be given offices in rooms occupied by the operating superintendent; the Department of Conservation and Surveys will office in the studio of that department; a temporary gallery for the cadets' rifle practice can probably be operated under the stadium; one of the old houses recently purchased in connection with the auditorium can be used as offices for the Department of Geography and classes for this department will be sandwiched into other rooms on the campus whenever a room not in actual use for a class hour can be found. This will cause great inconvenience to all the departments concerned and seriously interfere with their work, but in the emergency that has arisen all concerned are showing a fine spirit of cooperation."

IT doesn't require a four-years' exposure to well-informed circles hereabouts to grasp the hearty sanction of Parker Duofold craftsmanship among the older students. Those who know its 25-year point, Man-size Grip and Over-size Ink Capacity have come to depend on it in overwhelming majorities everywhere, but nowhere more than in the colleges.
