

ORGANIZATIONS DISCUSS HIGH PARTY PRICES

No Definite Action Taken In Campaign to Lower Prices of Halls and Music.

RENTAL RATES HIGHEST

Proposition Will Be Brought Up This Spring—Boycott To Follow If Charges Stay High.

No definite action was taken on the campaign to bring down hall rent and the prices of orchestras and catering service, at a meeting held in the Temple last night by the heads of all campus organizations, as it was found that too many reservations had been made for parties for the coming year. The committee that investigated existing conditions found that the largest increase in prices was in hall rental.

Plans, however, were made to bring up the proposition in the spring and bring down prices to the student scale. Four years ago a similar increase in prices brought about a boycott by the students which was successful in bringing down the prices.

A scale will be drawn up next spring that will include prices from all halls, orchestras and caterers that get the student patronage. If the prices are too far advanced over the student scale, these halls, orchestras and caterers will be boycotted by all student organizations in an endeavor to make the cost of parties reasonable.

Those present on record as being opposed to publication of a fraternity and sorority directory which is being compiled by two students of the University, Chancellor Avery and Dean Engberg are opposed to the publication which will not be official. It was decided by fraternity and sorority representatives present to refuse to purchase the book.

The question of smoking on the campus was brought up by Chairman Leo Black. He suggested that this practice be stopped and that upper-classmen endeavor to impress this idea upon the freshmen.

ILLINI RESPECT HUSKER GRIDSTERS

Illinois Scouts Bring Back Reports Of Strong Nebraska Football Machine.

The Daily Illini, official publication of the University of Illinois, has the following to say about the Cornhusker team since the return of the Illinois scouts from the Nebraska camp:

Milt Olander returned from viewing Nebraska with glowing accounts of the Cornhusker prowess. Among the Saturday's opponents assets he lists a hard driving line, average 180 pounds a most pleasing backfield, especially Rhodes.

This same Rhodes grieved Illinois last year with a sixty-some yard dash for a touchdown and Olander deems him a much improved footballer this year.

According to the Illini scout Rhodes wallops the line with speed and unbelievable drive. This coupled with the vicious tackles he offers completes the description of a mighty good football player.

University Provides Free Mail Communication For Instructors

Free mail delivery, twice daily, is a feature of the services rendered the faculty to make it possible for them to carry on their many functions. Through the use of the checking in system of the janitors, any department or professor of the University may communicate with any other by mail in less than twenty-four hours without charge and almost without trouble.

The headquarters of the University mail are in the north end of the west stadium under the direction of John Gunnarson, head of the University janitorial system. Every building on the campus has a box in which mail to other parts of the campus may be left. This is collected by the janitors twice daily, just before twelve noon and just before six, when they return to the stadium to check in their time. When they check out at the stadium they take the mail, previously distributed by buildings from their box and deliver it to the proper persons in their building. This is done also twice, at seven in the morning and at one o'clock. Mail from the agricultural college is brought in twice a day in

Chancellor and Mrs. Avery to Entertain

Chancellor and Mrs. Avery will give their annual faculty party at Ellen Smith Hall on Friday, October 2, from 8 to 11 p. m. All members of the teaching, administrative, library, and extension staff with the adult members of their families are cordially invited. The invitation includes secretaries, student pastors and any others whose work is closely affiliated with the University. New members are especially invited to be present in order to become acquainted with their colleagues. The party will be informal, and no personal invitations issued.

ILLINI LINE NEEDS CENTER

Zupke Is Looking For Man To Make Capable Pivot—Respects Husker Wall.

EXPECT THRILLING GAME

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 30.—Coach Robert C. Zupke is looking for a center for the University of Illinois football team which will face its first test against Nebraska in the Illinois Stadium next Saturday.

The coach is spending a lot of time on "Bubbles" Mitterwallner, a 235-pound lineman who can be used at guard or center. "Bubbles" received honorable mention for selection on mythical teams in the Rocky Mountain division when he played tackle for Colorado college in 1921. He is always "talking it up" in scrimmage and is a fairly accurate passer. He senses the direction of the play quickly and is a fairly fast man for his weight. This is his first year of play here.

"Zup" lost both his regular centers, Gil Roberts, and Leonard Umus, the substitute, by graduation last June. The freshman Varsity of 1924 sent up two possibilities, R. D. Murray of Chicago, and Robert Reitsch of Rockford, a brother of Hank Reitsch, sub center in 1920. He is a fighter all the way and charges fast. He may be moved to tackle. Reitsch weighs 172 pounds but holds his own. His defensive work is especially good. Murray has been working regularly in scrimmage.

Nebraska has two lettermen, Hutchison and Wostoupal, at the pivot position. Their line is practically a veteran one, while the Illini wall is green. The unknown factor of the Illini line is sure to make the Husker contest a thrilling one, impossible to predict in advance. The Illini expect a crowd of 25,000, a record breaker for an opener.

According to Milt Olander, assistant scout, who watched Nebraska in action at Lincoln Saturday, the Huskers are working like beavers to perfect a defense against "Red" Grange. Coach Bearg, when he brings the Missouri Valley lads into the stadium Saturday, will have imparted to his crimson clad players all the information he knows about "Red." And that is plenty.

Ever since Grange was a freshman, Bearg studied him. As an assistant coach to Zupke he helped plan the famous interference which assisted "Red" in reaching the open. Probably no other coach in the United States knows as much about Grange's tricks. This fact inspires Nebraska with a lot of confidence.

MANY GOING TO ILLINOIS

Burlington Officials Request Students To Get Tickets As Soon As Possible.

TRAIN LEAVES AT 4:40

Students expecting to go to the Nebraska-Illinois game on the special Burlington train tomorrow are requested to get their tickets at the city ticket office, 110 North 13 street, today or Friday morning. Ticket sales show the majority of the students are going with pullman reservations. The "Illini Special" will leave at 4:40, giving ample time to arrive in Urbana before noon Saturday.

University of Illinois students will meet both the football team on Friday and the special Saturday morning. The "Student Union," an organization composed of practically the whole student body is in charge of the affair and will take the team to their hotel and as many students from the special as they can accommodate.

Tickets for the game may be secured at Latsch Brothers, today and Friday morning. Arrangements have been made to have someone on the special take the remaining tickets back, in place of returning them with the team this afternoon. Ticket sales at both Latsch Brothers and the student activities office in the Armory total 225. Seventy-five good seats in the center of the field are still available.

Herbert Gish, director of athletics, announced that the special would leave Urbana as soon after the game as possible, probably 5 o'clock. The Cornhusker eleven will go back on the special, which will stop in Chicago for four hours, leaving for Lincoln at 12:30 Saturday night.

At least ten cars will compose the special, including a diner, as many pullmans as the students require, and the quota of chair car accommodations. Round trip fare from Lincoln is $19.46 and from Omaha $17.48; pullman reservations are $6.38 for lower berths and $5.10 for uppers. Students expecting to make pullman reservations are requested to do so at once in order that the Burlington may determine the number of pullmans to be included in the "Illini Special."

PLAN METHODIST STUDENTS PARTY

Affair Only One of Many Such Entertainments which Will Be Held During Year.

An All-Methodist party, for the Methodist students at the University, will be held Friday night, October 2, at eight o'clock in the Armory.

The committee for the program consists of Valerie Augustus, Lucille Bauer, Orin Bratt, and Frederick Wren. The committee in charge of refreshments is Lois Jackman, Mary Kinney, and Theodore King.

This party is one of many which will be given during the school year. The Methodist students have already had a banquet for the freshmen, and on October 15, will unite with all the other denominations in a large banquet.

The other events for the year are: November 19, banquet at the Grand Hotel.

November 26, Thanksgiving day party.

December 4, Christmas party.

January 14, banquet at the Grand Hotel.

February 12, party.

March 18, banquet at the Grand Hotel.

April 16, party.

May 7, picnic.

The Methodist Student Council is in charge of all campus programs for the students during the year. There are about thirty members of the committee, of which Miss Carrie Johnson is chairman. One of its duties is to look up new students at the University. So far, they have gotten in touch with over five hundred freshmen Methodist students, who will assist in promoting church affiliations on Sundays.

Cheerleader Tryouts Will Be Held Friday

Tryouts for freshman and varsity cheerleaders will be held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Candidates are to report in the Armory. All appointments to this position will be subject to scholarship rules.

Few Candidates File For Coming Election

Two names for the position of Honorary Colonel, and one name for each class president are the only filings which have been received to date at the Student Activities office. Nominations for these offices cannot be made later than five o'clock, Friday, October 2, so any possible candidates are advised to hand in their names as soon as possible.

Nomination is made simply by filing the candidate's name, but once a name is filed it cannot be withdrawn. The election will be held in the southwest room in the basement of the Administration Building, and all students are urged to show their class spirit by casting a vote.

GET LINE ON COMPETITION

Early Season Showings Indicate Husker Gridsters Will Meet Tough Teams.

NOTRE DAME LOOKS GOOD

On the eve of the battle which Nebraska and Illinois will wage on the gridiron at Urbana, Ill., fans are beginning to review the gridiron results of last week so far as they affect the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Three of the games played last Saturday have a direct bearing on the future of the 1925 Cornhuskers.

Although overshadowed by the sporting pages by the overwhelming victory which Notre Dame achieved over Baylor University, undefeated in three years, and rated as one of the best leavens in the south, Husker followers will take more immediate notice of the impressive manner in which the University of Washington (Seattle) stomped over, around and through the Willamette eleven to ring up a score total of 108 against the Willamette zero.

It was not a case of a fair team getting up against a frightfully weak eleven. Willamette cannot be ranked as a pushover for most of the western schools. Last year, when Washington had one of the leading elevens on the coast, a team which romped to victory over Montana, Whitman, Washington State, Puget Sound, Oregon Aggies and U. S. S. Maryland, Willamette was able to hold the Huskies 57 to 0. This year, when Washington is singing the sob songs for the loss of several veteran linemen, Willamette was trampled on twice as hard.

Such a victory cannot be achieved by a mediocre team. Washington has four backfield men who will rank with the best in the country; in fact, the Husky backfield quartet may easily be called the class of the coast.

George Wilson, Walter Camp's all-America selection for his second team, who is unanimously ranked as the best halfback to don moleskins on the Pacific Coast in the last decade; Elmer Tesreau, captain of the Huskies, himself an all-Coast fullback, who in his first year won national fame for his work against the strong Navy team in the New Year's day game at Stanford; Elmer's brother, Louis, who weighs 195 pounds and is a triple threat man who, Washington followers believe, may outshine his illustrious kinsman; and Mike Hanley, a brother of Dick Hanley, coach at the Haskell Institute, who has earned his right to that kinship by his work at a halfback.

Besides these four men, the Huskies have four other backfield men who deserve consideration. Harold Shidler, "Bill" Charleston, George Gutlormsen, and Harold Patton, are all playing their second year under Washington colors.

Although the Huskies have issued a mournful cry because of the graduation of their last year's linemen, they are not lacking in men for the

Awgwan Subscription Campaign Closed With Estimate of 1200 Sold

The campaign for Awgwan subscriptions closed last night with an estimated total of 1,200 subscriptions. A complete check has not been made yet as definite returns from the fraternities and sororities have not been received.

Fraternity and sorority subscriptions were to be sold in blocks and the Awgwan management is expecting around 800 subscriptions from this source. With the ones secured in the campus drive it is felt the total will be around the 1,200 mark. Any who failed to subscribe for the Awgwan during the campaign may subscribe at the same price, one dollar, at the Awgwan offices in the basement of University Hall.

WORLD FORUM HEARS JAMES

New Dean Of Arts And Science College Addresses Wednesday Meeting.

COLLEGE SHOWS DECLINE

Dean Herman G. James of the College of Arts and Sciences, addressed the World Forum at the Grand Hotel Wednesday noon. Dr. James spoke on the subject "Why is a College of Arts and Sciences?"

According to Professor James the college of Arts and Sciences was the first to exist in the Universities over the world. The original American college aimed at the training of men for the clergy. In later years the schools began to train for other professions.

"The other colleges," he remarked, "are showing a steady increase, while at the same time the Arts and Sciences are in the apparent decline. The colleges for law and medicine come in a later era than those of the past. In more recent times nearly every profession is being taught. This specialization caused the students to go from high schools into the technical colleges for the training of one certain profession. This turn of events has become so acute that the question is now 'Why is an Arts and Science College?'"

"Unless the 'Why' is answered," said Professor James, "so it can be understood by the public, the typical university will become a collection of vocational schools, with no cultural center to rally around."

After this review of the tendency to abandon the arts college, Dean James said:

"Fortunately, before that situation was completely realized, a counter tendency began to manifest itself. I say, fortunately, because I believe we were being driven to unjustifiable extremes by the materialistic tendencies of a practical age. From the point of view of simplicity and symmetry in educational organizations one might perhaps say 'unfortunately,' for it is certainly much simpler to abolish an outgrown instrument than it is to fit it into a changing and increasing complex organism. Whether fortunate or unfortunate, however, we must take note of this backward swing, of the pendulum if we are to consider intelligently our opening query of 'why a college of arts and sciences?'"

"This counter tendency of which I speak, so significant for the future of the colleges of arts and sciences, was the growing realization that the professional courses which had so suc-

STAUFFER HEADS PERSHING RIFLES

Commissioned Officers Advanced; Captain Welpton Not in School This Year.

Paul Stauffer, '27, Omaha, was elected captain of Pershing Rifles, honorary military organization, at the first meeting of the year held last night. Captain Stauffer succeeds John Welpton who did not return to school this semester. Stauffer is a first lieutenant in Company B. R. O. T. C. and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

The other commissioned officers in the company were advanced. The new officers are: Fred Chase, Pi Kappa Phi, first lieutenant; August Holmquist, Phi Gamma Delta, second lieutenant; and Horace Noland, Phi Kappa Psi, first sergeant.

Routine business was taken up at the meeting last night and it was decided to begin drilling the company soon. It was learned that other schools in the middle west are becoming interested in the organization and it is probable that several new chapters will be installed this year.

Postpone Relative Ranking of Cadets

The relative ranking of cadet officers in their respective grades, which was to have been published yesterday, will be postponed for one or two days on account of the great amount of clerical work involved in checking up the military scholarship records of last June. The list will be published either Friday or Sunday morning.

Silver Moon To Be Run By Mortarboards Today

Today is the day the Mortarboards have charge of the Silver Moon. From 8 o'clock to 5 o'clock, the members of the senior women's honorary organization will be waitresses in the Silver Moon, following a custom which has been adopted in recent years.

Glee Club Personnel To Include New Voices

Glee Club tryouts were held last Tuesday evening in the Art Gallery. The total number of aspirants was eighty-three.

Mr. Witte states that the group of voices was the best that had ever tried out. Members of the Glee Club will not be announced until after the old members' tryout which will be held Friday at five o'clock.

About twenty old men will be back so this necessitates adding twenty new men.

ANNOUNCE DATE FOR OLYMPICS

November 21 Is Day Set By Innocents Who Have Charge of Affair.

PROGRAM IS THE SAME

On Saturday afternoon, November 21, the Olympics, traditional battle between the sophomore and freshman classes, will be held. The purpose of this contest is to decide the supremacy of the two classes and to determine the fate of the green caps. If the freshman are successful in gaining the largest number of points they will be allowed to discard their emerald coverings otherwise, they must wear them until Christmas vacation.

Never in the history of the Olympics have the freshman been defeated by the second-year men. This being due largely to the fact that they always far outnumber the sophomores and are able to win in all the contests which are tests of weight and numbers.

The tentative program as announced by the Innocents, who have charge of the Olympics, will be practically the same as last year. It will include two track events, three classes of boxing and wrestling matches, the bull pen, a pushball game and the final event, the pole rush.

The pole rush is the most interesting event of the whole day. In this event the whole sophomore class is crowded around the pole on which the president of the class is sitting. The freshmen are grouped back of a line at a distance of about a hundred yards from the pole. At a given signal the freshmen succeed within the allotted thirteen minutes they will be awarded the contest. In the Olympics of 1924 the outcome of the whole morning was in doubt until this last event which the freshmen won together with the right to discard their green caps at Christmas vacation.

Last year both classes were well organized and the spirit of rivalry between the two classes was very keen. The sophomores intend to be even better organized this year and hope to break the string of consecutive victories for the freshmen.

Hero of Long's Peak Climb Enrolls As Special Student at Nebraska

Walter Kiener, crippled after his heroic efforts to save the life of his companion, Miss Agnes W. Vaillie, of Denver, after their successful ascent of Long's Peak last winter, is now attending the University of Nebraska. Mr. Kiener is registered as an adult special student and is taking courses in English and geology.

All but one of Mr. Kiener's fingers and his feet from the instep forward had to be amputated last winter after the tragedy on Long's Peak. Mr. Kiener and Miss Vaillie were both members of the Colorado Mountain club and had planned early the previous summer to attempt to climb the East face of Long's Peak, a climb rarely attempted and by far the most dangerous. Their trip was continually put off until winter, when Miss Vaillie suggested the climb. Mr. Kiener, an experienced mountain guide, was opposed to the proposal but acquiesced under the insistence of Miss Vaillie. They first attempted to climb in November and would probably have reached the top and returned successfully had it not been for a veteran member of the Mountain club who had insisted on accompanying them and who lost his nerve near the top—forcing them to give up the climb to get him safely back. In January the trip was made. Mr. Kiener and Miss Vaillie successfully scaled the mighty peak despite the snow and cold, the first time it had been ascended in winter.

But Miss Vaillie's strength gave out. Mr. Kiener had practically to carry her to shelter and then leave her, skiing for miles to secure help. He succeeded in leading the rescue party back to Miss Vaillie to find her dead. Exposed for over thirty-six hours, Mr. Kiener himself was practically exhausted and was overcome by snow-blindness on the return journey. He and the rescue party lost their way returning, his feet and hands were frozen, one of the party was separated and lost his life, and Mr. Kiener yet says he fails to see how they found their way back.

For weeks Mr. Kiener was in the hospital not expected to live. A strong constitution pulled him thru but the doctors said he would never be able to walk. He surprised them by hobbling around on his heels a few weeks later. He found he couldn't use crutches because they threw the weight on the blunted ends of his feet where they were sore from the amputation. So he learned to walk without them. In Switzerland he had been a meat-cutter and had worked up to the foremanship of a prosperous plant before coming to this country. With his fingers gone, he could no longer follow his profession. So he secured a position as a National Park Ranger.

WILL HOLD RALLY FOR TEAM TODAY

All Students Requested To Join In Parade and Pep Meeting for Send-off.

BAND TO HEAD PARADE

Players and Coaches Will Make Short Talks at Burlington Station Before Train Pulls Out.

The first opportunity of the year for the students of the University of Nebraska to show their spirit will come this afternoon at 3:45, when all students are requested to gather in front of the Armory for the huge parade and rally which is to be a sendoff for the Husker eleven. The team will leave from the Burlington station at 4:40 p. m. for Urbana, Ill., where they will meet the University of Illinois in the opening game of the season.

The parade will be headed by the University band and company's of cadets. The Corn Cobs, University pep organization, will also be in the parade. If the city of Lincoln will turn out the traffic lights for the parade the line of march will be from the Armory down Twelfth street to O street, then west to Ninth street, north to P street and then west to the Burlington station.

Nebraska will be playing on a hostile field and before a hostile crowd of thousands, so the necessity of sending the Huskers off in the best of spirits can be readily seen. The only way in which real school spirit can be displayed today is by having the united efforts of each individual student behind this demonstration.

It is often the result of the first game that makes the season, and it would be a hard pill for the student body of Nebraska to swallow if the Huskers were to loose because of lack of student support. Moral support is a great thing and without it very few teams would reach the pinnacle of success.

Coach Bearg is endeavoring to give Nebraska a winning football team this season and in all probability he shall, but he cannot do it without everyone registered in the University behind him. This afternoon presents the first opportunity that Nebraska students have had to give the new football mentor a rousing sendoff and whether it is to be a success or a failure depends on each and every student.

Freshmen Commission Holds First Meeting

Plans for the coming year together with business problems were discussed at the first meeting of the Freshman Commission at Ellen Smith Hall Wednesday evening. Preparatory to taking in new members some time in November, changes in the methods of choosing new women were considered.
