

WORK ON 1926 CORNHUSKER IS BEING PUSHED

Class Sections Nearly Completed and Other Divisions Being Organized

COVER DESIGN IS CHOSEN

Plain, Impressive Art Work to Be In Keeping with Dedication to "A Greater University"

Work on the 1926 Cornhusker is progressing rapidly, the junior-senior section is nearing completion, the cover design has about been determined upon, and work on other sections of the book have been started. The Cornhusker will be dedicated to "a greater University."

The cover design is plain and impressive. Beautiful, imported paper will be used for the end sheets.

The opening section and division sheets will be run in three colors with the border run over a tint block. The scene section contains many splendid views of the campus which were taken this summer.

Among some of the changes made in the book will be the removal of the professional fraternities from the college sections to a separate section of their own. This gives the professional fraternity more distinction than under the old plan where the professional fraternities were listed after the colleges.

Improve Student Life

Many additions and choice bits of campus life are being planned for the new Student Life section. Work on this part of the book has already been started.

"Realizing that the student wants an annual to look at for enjoyment, rather than to read for information, the staff of the 1926 Cornhusker is attempting to give the students a real Student Life section," Donald Sampson, editor-in-chief, remarked while glancing over a few clever puns on campus life which had been submitted for the section. "With this end in view we are asking that every student who has anything suitable for the Student Life section will turn it in as soon as possible."

Enlarge Athletic Section

The athletic section will be enlarged to include every athletic team it's members, the results of the year's contests, and pictures of special interest to the students.

The junior and senior sections are nearing completion. The panels will be made up the latter part of this week and will be sent to the engravers.

"We appreciate the splendid response which the students have made to our call for junior and senior pictures," Sampson said, "and we hope that they will respond in the same manner when the final call for fraternity and sorority pictures is given."

TWO ARTISTS FOR NEXT CONVOCATION

Violinist and Pianist on Musical Program for Thursday Convocation

Fred Cardin, violinist, and Louise Zumwinkel Watson, pianist, both of the University School of Music, will appear in the fourth musical convocation, which is to be held in the Temple theater Thursday at 11 o'clock.

Miss Watson will play the following numbers: Allemande—d'Albert; Gavotte and Musette—d'Albert; Contre Danse (Country Dance)—Beethoven.

Waltz from Ballet "Nails"—DeLibes-Dohnanyi. The selections by Mr. Cardin will be: Indian Ghost Pipes—Lieurance-Cardin; Indian Flute Song—Lieurance-Cardin; (With Indian flute demonstration) Scherzo Tarentelle—Weinsawski. An Indian flute will be used by Mr. Cardin in the selection, "Indian Flute Song."

Business Committee Publishes Bulletins

Three bulletins were published by the committee on business research of the University of Nebraska during the past summer. They were: "Operating Expense of Nebraska Grocery Stores in 1924"; "Operating Expense of Nebraska Shoe Stores in 1924"; and "What to Read on Business." The latter bulletin contains a carefully-selected list of the best books on various business problems. Copies of it will be sent free to resident of Nebraska up application to the Committee of Business Research, University of Nebraska.

Missionaries To Be Subject at Vespers

A special missionary vesper service will be held at Ellen Smith Hall, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Cartes Swartz, of the Methodist Mission Board will talk on "Missions and Their Importance." The service will be led by Cleo Bergsten and a musical number will be given by Neva Jones. Miss Erma Appleby urges that all women in the University make a special effort to be present as a large attendance is desired.

ISSUE ORDERS FOR PARADE

Commandant Jewett Makes Final Arrangements for Armistice Maneuvers

TROOPS TO FORM EARLY

Final plans for the R. O. T. C. participation in the Armistice Day parade have been announced in a memorandum by Lt. Col. Jewett.

Officers will see that their respective battalions form promptly and move off on time "platoons left in front." Captain Harding will accompany the head of the column to its place of formation and see that it moves out at the proper time to follow the National Guard.

The line of march will be from the parade ground south on 14th street to P street; east on P street to 15th street; south through the alley to O street; down O street.

The order of march will be as follows: University float, the band, Pershing Rifles, First Battalion, Second Battalion, Third Battalion. The troops are not to block the streets while waiting for the parade to move. Acting color sergeants for the parade are Judd W. Crocker and Gordon A. Luikart; color guard, Ralph B. Mayor and Richard A. Robinson.

Colors will be massed with all the organization colors and will report at 15th and O streets at 1:45 p. m. All troops are to be in place before 2:00 p. m. When the troops are in place report will be made by the regimental staff officer to Mr. Trev. Gillaspie, aid in charge of the Fourth Division.

The reviewing stand is on the south side of the city hall on O street between 9th and 10th streets. All of the platoon leaders will be notified accordingly by their battalion commanders.

PLAYERS NEXT PRODUCTION IS PRIZE DRAMA

"Hell Bent for Heaven" to Be Given Thursday, Friday, and Saturday

IS NEW YORK SUCCESS

Play Has Only Been Produced Once West of the Ohio River—Won Pulitzer Prize

The University Players will present their second play of the season "Hell Bent for Heaven" by Hatcher Hughes, on the evenings of November 12, 13 and 14, with a Saturday matinee. Tickets for the play may be purchased from Curtice Music Co., at 1240 O street.

The play is a recent stage success in New York. The Players' production of it is the only second time that it has been given west of the Ohio river. It was produced once this summer in California.

Old-Fashioned Melodrama Patrons of the Players will see an old-fashioned melodrama of the Blue Ridge mountains. The drama deals with the religion of youth in the mountain people, tested in the burning fire of the clanish feuds. The play possesses all the elements which go to make up a tense performance.

At the same time the play is full of clean, "sunshiny comedy," love interest, and absorbing revelations of life among a secluded people.

Yenne in Lead

The leading part, that of Rufe Pryor, hypocritical religious fanatic, will be taken by Herbert Yenne. In his "hysterical camp-meeting religion," he imagines himself to be the divine instrument of God. Upon the madened endeavors of Pryor are built the plot of the play. As a mental degenerate drunk with religion, he feels himself called upon to thwart the love affairs of the returning war veterans, Sid Hunt and Jude Lowry, and finally to do away with Sid.

At the end, righteousness prevails, of course, and Rufe fails to win Jude for himself as he believed that the Lord had intended. His destructive plans, all of which he accredits to the personal direction of God, fail in their purpose, but enough harm is done to make things interesting.

"U" Hall, Many Times Condemned and Rebuilt, Was Once "The University"

University Hall as it looked in the early nineties, before the Administration building was constructed.

Wreckers may tear down University Hall at some not far distant date, even as they are now removing old unsafe stairs and corridors, but nothing will ever destroy the lingering memories of student days spent within the walls of the aged and revered building, which was once the whole University, and which has always been the hub about which the remainder of the campus seems to move.

University Hall, meant even more to students of an earlier generation than it does to the present, which attends classes in buildings scattered over four square blocks of the city campus, the College of Agriculture campus, and the College of Medicine in Omaha.

In the "old days" when "U" Hall was the only building on the campus, and later when it was the center of a small group of buildings on the original campus of one square block, it contained not only all the class rooms of the University, but was in addition the social and activities center of student life.

"U" Hall was the place where the literary societies held sway in the heyday of their power and glory. Debates were held in the old chapel in the north wing, in the days when a college debate excited as much interest as a football contest does now. In the old chapel were held daily prayers. Graduation exercises were also held there.

Revered By Grads

To hundreds of Nebraska graduates University Hall is still the whole of the University of Nebraska. Without it the campus would seem but an assemblage of buildings to them. "Old 'U' Hall," is the soul of the campus. Nebraska's only great historical public building, since the old capitol was torn down.

Built in the days when the West was "new country," "U" Hall was modeled in the characteristic architecture of the time. The cornerstone was laid September 23, 1869. Brick for the walls was hauled overland from Nebraska City.

Morton's History of Nebraska, in a chapter on the University of Nebraska, says in part: "The early public buildings of Nebraska were remarkable in being of a uniform structural type; all of them had to be propped up or burned down to keep them from falling down." "U"

The Nebraskan Will Take Vacation Too

An edition of The Daily Nebraskan will be published Wednesday as well as Friday of this week, but there will be no paper Thursday. Wednesday's paper will be distributed in the morning. Members of the staff will not need to report for work Wednesday afternoon.

The Daily Nebraskan will not move out of its present quarters in University Hall, and members of the staff are asked to report in the basement of University Hall as usual.

OLD "U" HALL UNSAFE; WILL BE REPAIRED

Inspectors Find It Necessary to Rebuild Stairways and Corridors

CLASSES ARE TRANSFERRED

Only Basement and Few Rooms on First Floor to Be Used Pending Reconstruction Work

University Hall, the oldest building on the University of Nebraska campus, "grand sire of the campus," as it is called, was closed to classes Monday morning after a thorough inspection Sunday by Chancellor Avery and a committee of engineers brought to light an unsafe condition of stairways and corridors, which will require rebuilding of the stairs, and replacement of beams and floors in the wider corridors.

Architects also advised that the roof and tower be removed at the earliest possible time—at least before the storm season next spring.

Work will begin on Wednesday on the stair and corridors and will take two or three weeks. The roof and the tower will not be taken off until next summer, or possibly during Christmas vacation, Operating Superintendent L. F. Seaton said yesterday.

Classes Dismissed Monday

Over one hundred classes were dismissed Monday until they can be located temporarily in neighboring buildings, according to a schedule arranged at conferences between Chan-

The Chancellor Says: "I hope that the repairs on the stairs will make University Hall safe for the present. We will not open the hall for use of large classes until competent experts authorize its use. I do not anticipate that this will have any effect on the present building program, but we shall probably ask the next legislature to provide for housing the departments now in University Hall and Nebraska Hall.

Chancellor Avery and members of the faculty using University Hall. Rooms to which there is access directly from the entrances, and the entire basement, the use of which does not crowd the building, will be open during the course of the repairs, providing dust and noise from the work does not hinder class work. Publication offices in the basement will operate as usual.

CONGREGATIONAL STUDENTS TO MEET

Over Hundred Expected to Attend Denominational Banquet Friday Evening

The autumn All-Congregational students' banquet will be held at the Grand hotel Friday evening, November 13, at 6 o'clock. At least one hundred students are expected to attend. The object of the banquet is a wider acquaintance and good fellowship among the students of the Congregational faith. Frederick W. Leavitt, Congregational University pastor, will be master of ceremonies.

President Edwin B. Dean of Doane College will be the principle speaker. His subject is to be "College Life." Other guests and speakers will include Chancellor Samuel Avery, whose subject will be "The Father of a Multitude"; Dean Engberg will speak on "Toeing the Mark"; Dr. Holmes, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, will discuss the "Happy Hyphens"; the Rev. Ervine Inglis of the Vine Congregational church has as his subject "Pepper and Salt"; and "Father" Murphy, as he is best known among students, has as his theme the value of cheerfulness "Kissing the Blarney Stone."

A reception committee of twelve students—six from each of the churches—will assist the students in becoming acquainted. A color scheme in pink and lavender will be used.

Engberg to Address Mathematical Club

Dean Carl C. Engberg will speak on "Mathematical Recreation" at the meeting of the Math Club on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in Social Science 208. Miss Evelyn Wallway will also speak. Her subject is "The Eleven Check."

"Y" Finance Team Meets This Evening

The "clean-up" committee of the Y. M. C. A. finance drive teams will meet in the Temple at 7:15 o'clock tonight. Mr. E. M. Cherrington, '11, and Prof. O. R. Martin, chairman of the advisory board, will address the committee. Team captains should notify members of their teams.

Weather Forecast
Tuesday: Fair and warmer.

CORNHUSKER CLASS SECTIONS TO CLOSE

Juniors and Seniors Must Have Individual Pictures Taken Today Or Tomorrow

Only two more days are left for juniors and seniors to have their pictures taken for the Junior-Senior section of the 1926 Cornhusker. The two studios, Hauck and Townsend, will stay open all day Wednesday in order to accommodate those who have delayed having their picture taken.

Every junior and senior must have his picture taken by Wednesday, November 11, in order to get it in the upperclass sections. The staff has attempted to call every upperclassman twice to remind him to have his picture taken. Anyone who has not been called should go to either of the studios at once. Appointments are not necessary. Students are urged to go to the studio in the morning if possible.

Sophomores to Meet Following Parade

Immediately after the Armistice Day parade there will be a meeting of the sophomores in Social Science auditorium. The final plans for the Olympics will be discussed. Walter Cronk, class president, urges that all sophomores attend, as it will be the last class meeting before the annual freshman-sophomore clash.

Ames Military Classes Large

The military department of Iowa State College at Ames, announces a total number of 1468 students enrolled in the military courses this quarter.

Candidates for Queen of Military Carnival Must File Names Today

This noon is the last time at which sororities can turn in the names of their candidates for Queen of the Military Carnival. Several names were turned in Saturday and yesterday and the rest are expected this morning.

Names of those who have already filed will not be announced until tomorrow morning when the complete list of the candidates and the organizations they represent will be published in The Daily Nebraskan.

Other plans for the carnival are progressing nicely and rapidly. All of the "gambling devices" have been procured, and will be put in working order by Saturday night, and will be put in use in the Armory. The Farquhar Clothing Company

HUSKERS SLIP IN TITLE RACE

Drake Victory Sends Nebraska To Second Division in Valley Standings

MISSOURI STILL LEADER

The Drake Bulldogs did more than defeat the Huskers last Saturday at Des Moines—they sent the Huskers hurtling back into the second division of the Missouri Valley standings, and at the same time took undisputed possession of second place.

Nebraska now stands in a tie for sixth place in the conference standings as rated by the Dickinson rating system. Ames retained its position as a first division team, and Grinnell and Oklahoma, although second division team, forged ahead of the Nebraska team and took fourth and fifth places.

From all indications Nebraska could defeat either Grinnell or Oklahoma, but the fact remains that those two teams stand above the Huskers in the Dickinson rating system. This system works on the basis of strength of the teams, and not percentages. The relative strength of the various conference members is established by a system of rating and an index number which is fixed for each team.

Nebraska, while its percentage is .500, still only has 15.0 for an index number, while Grinnell has 16.6 and Oklahoma 16.2.

Nebraska In Second Division

Last week Nebraska was a first division team; this week it is a second division team. This is due to the fact that a first division team is one which has won more games than it has lost. Missouri, Drake and Ames are the only ones at this time which have that distinction.

Grinnell's position in fourth place is made possible by the game last Saturday when the Pioneers tied the Ames Cyclones, a first division team. Then, too, Grinnell has defeated the Oklahoma Aggies and lost to Drake.

Oklahoma, already defeated by Nebraska, takes fifth place in front of the Huskers (however incongruous that may seem) because of its defeat of Drake early in the season. When a second division team defeats one of the first division teams a tremendous boost is given to the index number of that team.

HOW THEY STAND

	Pct.	Index
Missouri	1.000	22.5
Drake	.833	18.3
Ames	.666	17.5
Grinnell	.500	16.6
Oklahoma	.333	16.2
Nebraska	.500	15.0
Kansas Aggies	.500	15.0
Kansas	.200	12.5
Oklahoma Aggies	.000	11.6
Washington	.000	11.2

Little more can be said about this week's standings. The Dickinson system has already been declared the best rating device for comparing the teams who do not play in a round robin schedule. The figures here presented have been worked out according to the Dickinson system.

Local Secretaries Are Estes Chairmen

Arthur Jorgensen, University Y. M. C. A. secretary, and Miss Erma Appleby, University Y. W. C. A. secretary, have been appointed joint chairmen of the committee in charge of the annual students' summer conference at Estes Park next year. They will supervise all preliminary arrangements for the conference and determine the questions to be discussed. Questionnaires will be sent to student leaders in all schools participating, and the answers will be used in preparing the conference program.

Sends Collection of Fossils to Museum

F. E. Bowers, superintendent of schools at Arapahoe, Neb., has sent the University museum an interesting collection of fossils found in a gravel pit in Furnas county. The collection includes what is thought to be the leg bone of an elephant, a fragment of a molar of a Columbian mammoth, and two types of horse teeth. Superintendent Bowers has made several other contributions to the University of considerable value for scientific work and museum display.
