

REMOVE FLAG FROM TOWER OF OLD "U" HALL

Historic Relic Hauled Down Yesterday Forenoon Will Be Preserved

BAR SOUVENIER HUNTERS Have to Reinforce Walls Before Removing Roof to Protect Wrecking Crew From Danger

The University Hall flag waved for the last time Wednesday morning over the historic old structure. The flag pole was the first to go when the workmen started wrecking the tower early in the forenoon. The last flag to wave over the old building was hauled down between 11 and 12 o'clock. It will be kept as part of the historical collection from University Hall. A new University flag is now flying from a flagstaff on the west stadium.

The ralling on the tower and the roof way up there were next to go after the flag pole had been lowered down into the tower. The flag pole was made of iron and fastened to a telephone pole which was tied in and secured to the wood work inside the tower.

Walls in Bad Shape
The halls on the third and second floors are in such bad condition that the contractor in charge of wrecking is planning to reinforce them before he begins wrecking operations in order not to risk the lives of his men. He fears that when the roof is taken off, the walls will no longer be held together firmly enough, and might fall apart if they are not braced up sufficiently.

The offices of B. J. Jobst Building company which is doing the work are located in the old post office room on the first floor.

To ward off souvenir hunters, the rope and chain with which the old campus bell used to be rung, was removed Wednesday morning from the iron pipes in room 215 down which it hung from the bell situated on the roof above. The rope and the chain will be saved to form another part of the historical collection along with the bell which will be removed in a few days.

The bell was mounted on the building in 1871 according to inscriptions

IONIQUE WILL HOLD MEETING

Architectural Engineer Society Plans To Introduce New Members At Get-together Friday

The regular meeting of Ionique will be held for architectural engineers at 10 o'clock Friday, November 20, at Mechanic Arts, 403. The chief purpose of the meeting is to get the students of this department of architectural engineering together, and to introduce the new members in the organization. The students will probably decide on a date for a smoker. If these plans materialize and attendance at the smoker is good members will get some prominent men to speak at the society meetings.

Officers elected at the last meeting of the organization were Louis Vastine, president; Lester Shields, vice president; Charles Carr, treasurer; and Avery Batson, secretary. Means of increasing the interest in these meetings were discussed and the results are the unique notices in the form of Ionic columns.

It Will Be Done!

The fog of discouragement which settled upon the campus after the Missouri game has cleared. Every time students gather one hears the enthusiasm of an awakened Nebraska spirit translated into the slogan "Beat Notre Dame!" Forbidding depression is disappearing and in its place there rises a loyalty to Nebraska which bodes ill for the "Micks" from the Hoosier state.

Secret practices and new plays have already instilled an admirable "esprit de corps" in every man of the Husker squad. Nebraska men are battling for places on the team as though the season had just begun. They're fighting for a chance at the Irish.

Coach Rockne's proteges are going to meet a resolute and undaunted Varsity next Thursday. Every man on the team will deliver. To Ed, Choppy, Joe, Hutch, and Locke it is the last chance to fight for Nebraska. You know what that means.

The "Fighting Cornhuskers" will live up to their name.

The University—your University—faces the most mountainous task in years. The collegiate world asks, "What sort of men and women are those at Nebraska?" Our spirit will be the answer.

LET'S SETTLE THE IRISH QUESTION!

Predict Irish To Lose Second Game Of Season To Northwestern

A change of backfield tactics in the game with Northwestern Saturday, which is predicted by Knute Rockne to be "Notre Dame's second defeat of the year," is said to be the order for the Irish team in that battle, the last before the game with Nebraska here on Thanksgiving Day.

A change in the maneuvering of the Notre Dame backfield will put the Husker followers on the lookout. Has the famous Knute something up his sleeve? If so, why, and how much?

Those are the questions being asked by football fans here. The ability of Nebraska to compete with the Notre Dame eleven does not depend absolutely upon knowing what the Irish are going to do, but it is admitted that that knowledge would help some.

"Rockne predicts that Notre Dame will lose another game if it doesn't watch out." Whether that is a statement as to the strength of Northwestern or the weakness of Notre Dame can be guessed by the fans.

The South Bend team is coming to Lincoln this year with a record which, though it does not approach that of 1924, is something to be viewed very critically. Notre Dame has a well-trained team which will go a long way before it loses to the Huskers. That makes it a task for Nebraska to show the Rockne men the long, hard path.

A wealth of tradition is bound to the game here a week from today. Extra seats being built around the ends and on the cinder track in the Stadium will provide accommodations for 45,000 spectators, and expectations are that the seats will be filled with a howling mob of Nebraska supporters.

Because of the importance of the game as a fitting climax to a hard schedule, student spirit is slowly but surely rising, until it reaches a peak the night before the game. Plans for the greatest rally at Nebraska are being carried out, and the contest will be marked as colorful indeed if everything comes out all right. Indications are that it will.

WILSON TALKS ON INFLUENCE OF EDUCATION

Nationally Known Lecturer Addresses World Forum Yesterday Noon

REAL AIMS ARE DISCUSSED Says College Training Should Be Used to Help Society; Not Personal Gains

That our ability to govern our conduct is far behind our scientific and technical knowledge and that all education must promote more adequate moral values if our civilization is to continue to progress were the outstanding facts given by J. Stitt Wilson, nationally famous lecturer on social and economic questions and former mayor of Berkeley, California, in his address to the World Forum at the Grand Hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. Wilson prophesied that the influence of the college would be greater in the coming generation than it has been in the past. He predicted that its influence would continue to displace the two influences which have up to the present time been most important, politics and finance.

Mr. Wilson called attention to the tremendous success of the modern educational system. However he called attention to the fact that its success is revealing its weaknesses. Thousands of students who have crowded into the schools of higher learning in the United States have been too numerous and their advent too rapid to develop suitable methods of handling them.

Explains Educational Faults

The biggest fault of the present University system is believed by Mr. Wilson to be the lecture method. He said he anticipates great changes in college methods within the next few years, explaining that the present system would be done away with and instead the student and professor would exchange in "give and take." Under the changed conditions there will be groups of students working under a professor in search of knowledge in fields in which they are interested. Thus the present evil of having the student interested only in activities outside the curriculum will be abrogated.

Should Use Knowledge

In explaining that our knowledge was far ahead of our methods of using it, he called attention to two necessities, the necessity of education teaching methods of using our highly developed knowledge and the present immediate necessity of the world for real statesmen. The change which will come when education fulfills the higher aim of enabling us to handle our knowledge as well as know of it will in Mr. Wilson's opinion be tremendous. "The great business man of the future who will make use of the benefits of civilization for his own private gain will be considered the worst of all traitors," declared Mr. Wilson, in citing what such developments would mean.

PRESBYTERIANS ARE TO BE HOSTS

Mr. Lovell and Miss SchAAF Will Speak at Campus Events and Hold Conferences

Mr. Gilbert Lovell of Oberlin, Ohio, and Miss Elizabeth SchAAF of New York City will arrive Friday to remain over Sunday and Thanksgiving Day, guests of the Presbyterian students. They will be entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. R. Leland. They come as representatives of the Department of Vocational Counsel of the Board of Education of the Presbyterian church. They will be speakers at several student meetings on the campus.

A large number of students both men and women have already made appointments to meet them. Any student who is trying to decide upon a useful and gainful occupation will find Mr. Lovell and Miss SchAAF helpful and sympathetic advisers. Mr. Lovell is a graduate of Yale, and a college mate of Dr. Clapp of the University. Miss SchAAF is a graduate of one of the eastern colleges, and has lived in China.

Mr. Lovell will meet the men from 9 to 12 o'clock and 2 to 4 o'clock on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, in Room 101, Temple Building. Miss SchAAF will be glad to meet any of the University girls during the same hours in Room 3, Second Floor, Ellen Smith Hall. Appointments may be made through D. R. Leland, Temple Building, Telephone F-6110.

Athletic Awards Made In 1896 Are Found In Attic of "U" Hall

Five wooden tablet awards for the first "All-round Indoor Athletic Contests" at the University of Nebraska in March 1896, were found on Wednesday in an old box stored up in the attic of University Hall. A tablet for the second contest held on March 30, 1897, was also found.

Inscribed on the mahogany wood are the names of the students who won the various events, and the records they made.

A potato race was one of the events in the first contest. It was won by C. R. Spooner, who went the course in one minute and fifty-one seconds. The distance traversed is not noted. Another event, long-relegated to the past, was a four-minute rope jumping contest, included in the contest of 1897. It was won by R. N. Brothers, who jumped 633 times in the time limit of four minutes. This was at the rate of 158 times a minute, or two and a half jumps a second. A "distance snap" is the title of another event. Some of the records made in the field events seem ludicrously low for college students, but it must be remembered that track form had not been developed then to the extent it is now, and that probably the men in the contests were not members of the Varsity. Intercollegiate track and field meets were not common in those days.

The pole vault winner of the first contest was R. E. Benedict, who vaulted 8 feet 8 3/4 inches. Others who qualified were R. W. Johnson, C. R. Spooner and J. D. Wilson. The four were credited with 69 points for their side.

On the next tablet C. R. Spooner was given second individual honors. His records were: Fence vault, 6 feet 2 1/4 inches; pole vault, 8 feet 8 3/4 inches; 12-lb. shot, 34 feet and 3/4 inch; high jump, 5 feet and 1/2 inch; potato race, 1 minute and 51 seconds. He made a total of 351 points.

Louis Pinkham was the 12-lb. shot winner with a distance of 35 feet

HUSKERS SHOW REJUVINATION OF OLD SPIRIT

Songs and Yells Are Signals Of Awakening of Former Nebraska Ginger

NOTRE DAME GAME SOON

Proximity of Annual Clash With Irish Calls Forth Much Comment and Excitement

Yesterday marked the beginning of the reawakening of the Nebraska spirit as the school began to realize the proximity of the biggest game of the season—Notre Dame. A marked change in the atmosphere of half-hearted interest which has prevailed all season was noticed on all sides.

Group singing which was such an aid to arousing the spirit for the Notre Dame game two years ago again manifested itself with the game yet more than a week away. The singing lacked the vigorous spontaneity which characterized the emotional wave which two years ago swept over the whole student body and carried the team with it to an unexpected and dramatic 14 to 7 victory, a victory which startled the sporting world and placed Nebraska high in football circles by reason of being the only team to conquer the proteges of Knute Rockne, master strategist of American football two years in succession.

Start Class Room Singing

The beginning of singing before classes which was carried on throughout the day yesterday, was accompanied by more animated conversation concerning the football situation by the entire student body. Junior and senior students are already looking forward to making the rally preceding the Notre Dame game this year larger than the immense celebration which brought two weeks of singing and cheering to a close on the eve of Nebraska's triumph over the Irish.

From now on until the Notre Dame game a continued rousing of the famous Cornhusker spirit is anticipated. Yesterday's marked change in spirit led even the most pessimistic concerning the lack of display of spirit during the past season to look forward to a real awakening of Nebraska spirit which will make past exhibitions forgotten in the excellence of the support accorded by all students this year.

Students Wake Up

The student body gave a glimpse of what it could do when aroused from the apathy which has pursued it since by the tremendous evasions given the team when departing for Illinois. With the Notre Dame game still a week away and manifestations of spirit already appearing, prospects point to the possibility of not merely a revival but a rejuvenation of Nebraska spirit, the only factor which can send such an unconquerable Nebraska team on the field that Notre Dame's strength and Rockne's cunning will be valueless.

A new song to the lively tune of "Little 'Lisa Jane'" has been written especially for the Notre Dame game and is expected to play a major part in the daily song fests before the classes.

The words of the new tune which gained popularity in the few classes where it was introduced yesterday are:

C'mon there gang—What do we say?
Beat Notre Dame!
Collect for last year—Make them pay
Beat Notre Dame!
Fight—Nebraska!
We'll win this game.
Fight—Nebraska!
Beat Notre Dame.

Still Need Ushers For Notre Dame Game

The ushers for the Notre Dame game are gradually coming in, however, about fifty men are still needed. Men who wish to apply for positions must be members of the R. O. T. C. unit and are asked to leave their names at the Student Activity office as soon as it is possible.

Olympics Committee Statement

TO ALL NEBRASKA STUDENTS:

The Olympics were instituted to take the place of hazing, which has caused only ill-feeling and class hatred. At the institution of Olympics, the students bound themselves to respect this agreement.

We have heard that some Juniors, probably thoughtlessly are doing their best to get the Freshmen to break this agreement with the University, and engage in hazing the night before the Olympics.

Let us remind you that the fundamental Olympics ruling provides that the class taking part in any form of hazing shall forfeit the Olympics.

The sensible Freshmen will listen to Juniors in this respect, but will give his class a chance to win the Olympics and discard the green caps.

The Sophomore class has pledged itself to keep faith, and we believe the freshmen will.

We do not want to have to enforce the ruling forfeiting the Olympics.
