IRISH ACCEPT INVITATION TO HUSKER RALLY

Knute Rockne Will Introduce Notre Dame Players at Demonstration

OFFICIALS PLAN DETAILS

Bonfire and Torch Parade Will Be Staged; Entire Team Will Make Appearance

Knute Rockne, who needs no introduction to Cornhusker rooters, will introduce his famous "Irish" team next Wednesday evening, November 25, at what is hoped to be the greatest football rally ever staged at the University of Nebraska in its entire history.

Officials in charge of the rally found out that Rockne intended to keep his Notre Dame team in Omaha on Wednesday night. They wired him of the reception planned for him in Lincoln and received the following answer: "We will arrive in Lincoln Wednesday morning. We are looking forward to the reception. Hope you have 10,000 students there."

A huge bonfire will mark the start of the program on the drill field at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday evening. Everything will be over by 8 o'clock according to the plans, in order that the students may keep their evening engagements.

Speakers for the rally have not yet been secured, but the entire football team, headed by Coach Bearg will be there. Football men that are playing their last game on Thanksgiving day will be part of the feature of the program. Monte Munn, Nebraska's giant ex-football man, will be there with Coach Schulte to start the Husker enthusiasm.

Three thousand red torches have been secured for the parade, which will follow. Headed by the Corn Cobs, and the University Band, the rooters will march through the business section to the Lincoln hotel, where Knute Rockne and his team will be introduced to the crowd.

Torches may be secured for twenty cents from members of the Iron Sphinx. During the week-end some will be distributed to the fraternity and sorority houses, and next week they will be sold from a booth on the campus. All loyal Cornhuskers should secure torches, which will be the principle feature of the parade.

Rally officials hope that Knute Rockne's guess of the number of the rally will be correct. Every possible means will be used to get the 10,000 people out for the rally, which will put the football enthusiasm on edge before Nebraska's game with probably their greatest rival. Two years ago at the Notre Dame rally it was estimated that 8,000 rooters were present. This number can be increased.

Complete announcements of the program will be made at a later date concerning the speakers and other plans.

Some of the wrestlers have been working out lightly but after Thanksgiving they will revert to the strenuous training. The first meet will take place immediately following the opening of the second semester. No definite dates have been set as yet, but according to the present contracts meets will be held with Minnesota, Ames, Iowa and Kansas University. The latter meets will be held at home.

GLEASON WILL LEAD CHEERING

Invite Former N Man to Rally Cornhusker Spirit at Notre Dame Battle

MEMBER OF CLASS OF '24

Monroe Gleason, '24, for two years Nebraska's head cheer-leader, will return to lead the cheering of the student body at Thanksgiving when the fighting Cornhuskers meet Knute Rockne's Irish from Notre Dame in what will probably be the greatest home game of the season, according to an announcement made yesterday by the committee in charge of the cheerleading.

"Duke" is a familiar figure to those who have followed the gridiron game at the Cornhusker institution for the past three years. For two years of that time the whole cheer-leading force was under his direction. He is, according to those who have been interested in football spirit at Nebraska, one of the best directors of organized rooting that the University has produced. He is regarded by them as the equal of Freddy Richards, '22, another very successful cheerleader.

When it was learned that Gleason was to return to the campus for the Notre Dame game it was decided to honor him by inviting him to lead the rooting at the annual gridiron classic.

"We are doing this," said the chairman of the committee in charge of the cheerleading, "to show our appreciation of the work done by Gleason when he was a student here. We are attempting to reward him for the splendid spirit of service and devotion with which he served the university for three years. We feel that this is a reward which he richly deserves."

Gleason is an N man himself, having won a letter as a pole vaulter on the track team. He was graduated last spring from the College of Business Administration.

DR. FLING SPEAKS THURSDAY EVENING

Discusses Relation of Science and Religion in An Address at Temple Theater

Dr. Fred Morrow Fling, professor of European History in the University, gave an address last evening in the Temple theater on the subject of "Science and Religion." Mrs. C. F. Ladd introduced the speaker.

After pointing out that science is an expression of the intelligence while religion expresses the emotional side of man, the speaker traced the influences of each of these views on man's life in society. With the ancient oriental civilizations, he said the emotions hold sway, but with the Greeks the intelligence was supreme.

With the Romans, science was at its peak taking expression in "De Rerum Natura." Lucretius' poem in defense of the mechanistic interpretation of life. While the middle ages saw a return of the spiritual values the Renaissance saw the return of the scientific view.

Today, according to Dr. Fling, the world is divided so that the Oriental civilizations are dominated by the religious, while the Western World is under the supremacy of the materialistic point of view.

The task of man today in the making of a complete life is to reconcile these views of life so that the vessel of materialism may be filled by the waters of the spirit, concluded the speaker. "The heart hath reasons, that the reason knows not of," quoted the speaker from Pascal in pointing out that necessity for giving a place to each of these interpretations of life in the whole and complete life.

New Field House Will Be Ready for Basketball Season

Framework of Nebraska's new Field House as it looked last week when ready for the roofing process.

The construction schedule for the University of Nebraska's new Field House is up to date with the specifications, according to John K. Sellack, secretary of the University Athletic Building Association. By January 15 it will be ready for the Cornhuskers' first basket ball game.

All of the steel arches have been erected, and two of the seven roofing sections have been laid. Although the building will not be entirely completed until April, it will be used for student purposes before then, as was the Memorial Stadium in 1923.

Actual construction did not begin until August 1, but building plans had been under way for some time. The steel contract was let July 6. According to the contract, the building will cost $425,000 when completed.

Approximately 8,500 students can be accommodated for the basket ball games and when the building is used as a theater it has a capacity of 11,000. A stage at the north end of the great hall is 50 by 100 feet with an 80-foot opening. This will be an aid to the University Players, who are now presenting their plays in the Temple with a stage that measures 22 feet.

All of the University's functions, including the Military Ball, Pan-Hellenic formal, all rallies, commencement exercises, and stage productions will be held there. No one of the buildings on the campus up to the present time has been able to meet this necessity. Some of the affairs were held in the Scottish Rite Temple, some in the Auditorium, and the rallies in the Armory.

When cleared for dancing, the floor will measure 110 feet by 208 feet. Around the entire floor is a corridor that can be turned into a continuous reception room for social functions. If measured in a straight line, the corridor around the dancing floor totals three city blocks. This will furnish some idea of the size of the new construction.

In outside appearance, the Field House will have the same number of columns as the Social Science building, and is built of the same type of red brick with limestone trimming. It will follow out the general style of architecture now being used by the University authorities.

Within the next year, all of the land between the construction and 14th street will be cleared away and turned into a park, similar to the Agricultural college campus. More details of this new structure, which will house much of the University's athletic and social life, will be given at a later date.

REFUSES INVITATION TO GAME

Indiana Governor Will Not Attend Notre Dame Grid Contest

Governor Jackson, of Indiana, who was invited by Governor McMullen of Nebraska, to attend the Notre Dame-Nebraska football game here Thanksgiving Day, sent his regrets Thursday that he would not be able to be present for the occasion.

The Hoosier executive gave no reason for his inability to accept the invitation of Governor McMullen.

Governor Paulen of Kansas and Governor Hamill of Iowa, were also invited by the Nebraska executive. They have accepted the invitation, and will be entertained by Governor and Mrs. McMullen during their stay in Lincoln.

U HALL TOWER IS UNCOVERED

Skeleton Framework Is Revealed as Workmen Continue Wrecking

CUT HOLES IN CEILING

The skeleton framework of University Hall tower was uncovered yesterday as workmen continued the task of wrecking the building. Slate shingles were stripped off the sloping top of the tower, and boards torn off the supporting frame. At the same time a large hole was cut into the main roof just west of the tower to permit easy access to the roof. Some of the shingles on the west wing were also stripped off yesterday.

Large jagged holes have been cut through the ceiling of the third and second floors of the north wing to permit constructing the shutters down which material will slide to the ground floor.

Old boards taken off the tower were found fastened together with old fashioned square nails which were blunt on the end. The outside boards on the window casings are weather beaten so badly that they appear as burnt. This is especially so on the sides exposed directly to the sun.

The slowness with which some news travels was illustrated yesterday when a man was found in University Hall hunting for the Postoffice which for over a week has been located in the College Book Store.

The cost of wrecking the building and constructing the tar roof over the remaining first floor, is estimated at about $18,000 by the B. J. Jobst Building Company, which is doing the work. The University will receive all the salvage material.

The original cost of the building was $140,000, in 1870. Its estimated value in 1921 was placed at $40,000 by the Regents in a report to the Governor. The tie rods and the braces that were put on the building in 1917 cost $4,000, records show in the office of Operating Engineer O. A. Ellis. The cost of removing the balcony of the chapel on the third floor of the north wing in 1903 and building of the third floor through, to make additional class rooms was $2295.

University Hall cost more than three times as much as the older class of buildings on the campus. Nebraska Hall built in 1888 cost $41,000. Pharmacy Hall, built three years earlier, cost $40,000. Grant Memorial completed in 1888 cost only $25,000. Soldiers Memorial, the west end of the building, built in 1899, cost $30,000.

Building costs rose by the time of the next set of buildings. It cost $109,000 to build the Temple in 1907. The buildings of the last program which included Bessey Hall, Chemistry Hall, Social Science Hall, and Teachers College, cost from $170,000 to $300,000.

Sell Many Tickets For Military Ball

Military ball tickets are selling at a rapid rate this week to cadet officers who have all ready bought more than one-fifth of the total number to be sold. By the end of the week the entire allotment to the officers is expected to be taken. The remainder will then be parcelled out to the social fraternities as has been the custom in previous years.

Will Hold Meetings of Prospective Teachers

All prospective teachers, registered in Teachers College, desiring positions for the year 1926-1927 will meet Monday, November 23, in Teachers College, Room 200, at 5 o'clock.

All those registered in college other than Teachers College, will meet Tuesday, November 24, in Teachers College, Room 200, at 5 o'clock.

UNDERCLASSES WILL MEET IN ANNUAL CLASH

First and Second-Year Groups Complete Plans for Olympic Contest Saturday

SOPHOMORES MAY WIN

College of Agriculture Will Send Delegation; Interest Higher Than Usual

The tables may be turned next Saturday for the first time in several years, when the sophomores and the freshmen clash in the annual Olympic contest. More interest has been shown by the sophomore class this year than in previous years. The latest addition to the sophomores has been a delegation promised by the College of Agriculture. The freshmen usually outnumber their opponents and win the Olympics in the free-for-all contests, but plans have been laid out whereby they will meet stronger opposition in these events than ever before.

The Innocents are in charge of the program, and with Leo Black as the chairman, have arranged a program consisting of boxing and wrestling matches, relay races and tug-of-war to be held in the stadium. The mass games will be held on the drill field.

The schedule of events, starting at 2 o'clock, in the Stadium, are:
135 lb. wrestling.
145 lb. wrestling.
158 lb. wrestling.
135 lb. boxing.
145 lb. boxing.
Tug-of-war.
440 yard relay race.

The bull pen and the shoe rush will follow immediately after on the drill field.

The suppression of hazing has been an important factor in this year's plans for the Olympics. The Olympic committee has issued a statement against any hazing, the punishment for such an offense will be the forfeiture of the Olympics by the side doing the hazing.

The Olympics were first started in 1909 under the guidance of Dr. Condra, and are one of Nebraska's most cherished traditions. The chief object of these Olympic games was to do away with the unsatisfactory relation between the two classes. There was no organization and fights were not common in any part of the campus.

Both the freshmen and sophomore classes have voted to abstain from hazing before the Olympics. The fraternities have been requested to be responsible for any of their members or pledges taking part in such activities. With this co-operation the Olympic committee believes that this year's Olympics will be free from objection.

A new element has entered in the Olympic program this year, by which the co-eds will have a chance to show their class loyalty. Five points will be given the class that has the largest number of feminine rooters in the stands. This is the first time that the women have played any part in the Olympics. This incentive of five points was given so that it would not only be up to the men to uphold their classes but also the women.

The freshmen will without a doubt turn out strong Saturday afternoon as is usually the custom. The sophomores have held several class meetings to promote the class spirit which is usually lacking. The College of Agriculture sophomores met Thursday and with Lynn Cox as chairman decided to support the class this year. Both the men and the women will turn out strong Saturday. The sophomores received another big boost when Coach Bearg announced that the football men could compete in the events.

Both classes have had their try-outs for the various events and are primed for the coming games. Class rivalry on that day will be at its height.

WILL HOLD PARTY SATURDAY EVENING

Colonians Will Furnish Music for All-University Dance; Short Program Planned

An All-University party will be held Saturday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Armory. The Colonians will furnish the music for the evening. Everyone is invited.

Harriet Cruise will sing several popular songs during the intermission period. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening. The party is the third of a series of University mixers held and sponsored by the All-University Party Committee. These parties have been well attended by the students. Nearly a thousand students were present at the last party.

STUDENTS WILL ATTEND CHURCH

Expect Many to Observe Annual All-University Church Day November 22

MAKE PERSONAL CALLS

The movement for All-University church attendance November 22, is progressing so successfully that those who are promoting it are anticipating that a large number of university students will be found at the various places of worship next Sunday morning.

Those who have been making personal calls upon the students have found them to be very responsive, and heartily interested in the movement. Many of them have not only promised to observe All-University Church Day, but have offered their own services in helping to bring about universal church attendance.

The spirit of cooperation between the various church groups and denominations has been marked, and perhaps the success of the movement is in some degree, due to this lack of a competitive feeling between the groups of workers, those in charge feel. United in a common effort they have been able to accomplish a great deal in encouraging a wide attendance of university students at church.

The object of the movement is not merely to encourage church attendance on the day especially set for it, but to develop an appreciation of the opportunities which Lincoln churches offer to university students in the cultivation and development of a deep moral and religious spirit.

Teach Officers to Carry Sabers
Saber instruction is being given to cadet officers who are required to carry the saber at company drill, and at parades.

The Crisis in Husker History

Sixty thousand persons will be in the stadium to watch the Huskers meet the pride of Hoosierdom Thanksgiving, and about nine tenths of those persons will be there to watch our nationally known Nebraska spirit. The time for the greatest demonstration of that spirit is at hand.

With a victory over Illinois, the pride of the Big Ten, and a tie against Washington, champions of the west Coast, our team has established their reputation.

Now is the time for us—the student body—to establish our reputation.

And Thanksgiving when we cheer a little louder, sing a little stronger, we'll make the wires a lot hotter as they flash the Husker victory to the North and South and East and West.

Mystic Fish Give Tea For Freshmen Women

Mystic Fish, honorary organization for freshmen women, will entertain the women of the freshmen class at a tea at Ellen Smith Hall from 4 to 6 o'clock on Friday afternoon. Jessie Mitchell, president of the organization, will preside at the tea table.

The members of the Mystic Fish will assist in the serving. Esther Heyne and Virginia Crooks are joint-chairman in charge of the arrangements and Eleanor Crappe had charge of the music.
