will accompany the eastern team on its western junket, and will referee the contest.

All the training facilities of Indiana University's magnificent new Memorial Stadium and gymnasium have been placed at the disposal of Coach Ingram and his eastern aggregation. The freshman and varsity football squads at Indiana are drilling daily and the pick of these Hoosiers will be hurled against Ingram's all-star team in daily scrimmages the week of December 14.

Ingram and his men will leave here Sunday, December 20, in two private cars and will make the trip to the coast through Chicago via the Monon, Northwestern, and Union Pacific railroads. The date of the arrival in San Francisco is Wednesday. This gives Thursday and Friday for final practices in the California stadium, and with each day of the trip given over to memorizing of plays, chalk talks, and setting up exercises, Coach Ingram declares that his men will be in splendid condition for the great battle.

"The men on our team are almost without exception all-American selections of the past year or two. They are the men who have set the standards in modern football. They will live up to these standards, without a shadow of doubt, in our contest with the West," says Coach Ingram.

"Our team believes in football as played in the East. We do not believe that the Western style of football is superior. We are out to prove that contention in what will be unquestionably the greatest conflict of all-American stars in the history of football.

"On both sides, there will be players of experience, men who in nearly every case are fresh from competition of the 1925 season or from coaching. This means that the players will all be in condition when they report on Monday, December 14, for practice in the new Indiana University Memorial Stadium.

"With a line averaging 200 pounds we ought to be able to stop them. They will fight us with a dazzling attack, including the overhead thrust and encircling movements. It should be a spectacular contest from beginning to end. We are out to uphold the colors of the East. With an all-American talent we have our team should win. But it will be a fight!"

E. G. Garbisch, of the Army, named as Walter Camp's all-American center in 1924, will hold the place of pivot position for the eastern eleven. Garbisch, it will be remembered, kicked four field goals, ranging in distance from the 25 to the 45-yard line in the Army-Navy game of last year, which was won by the West Pointers by score of 12-0. Garbisch is a seasoned veteran of seven years of varsity football, three years on the Washington and Jefferson team and four years on the Army outfit. He is 28 years old and weighs 195 pounds.

Ed Weir, Nebraska, another of Walter Camp's 1924 all-American team, will be seen in the eastern line. Weir is the only man who has succeeded in stopping Red Grange. As captain of the Nebraska team this fall, he completely demoralized Red Grange with the result that Nebraska emerged victorious over the Wheaton flash. Weir comes to the Indiana University Stadium in condition following two weeks' rest from the Notre Dame-Nebraska Thanksgiving Day contest. Weir is one of the fastest men who has ever played in the line, and is regarded as one of the best high hurdlers in the United States. Matching his strength against a competitor from the west, Weir ran a close second to the great Kinsey, Leland Stanford. In his forthcoming gridiron encounter, it is conceded in the far west that Weir has no peer as a tackle. He holds the Kansas relay record in the 120-yard hurdles of 15 seconds flat. His great speed, together with his ideal football physique makes him a star of stars in the eastern football aggregation.

Then, there is Ed Slaughter, a third all-American selection by Walter Camp last year, weighing 205 pounds and regarded by many as the best guard ever turned out at the University of Michigan. Slaughter is now assistant coach of the University of Wisconsin. His daily practice with the Badger squad has kept him in practically as good condition as he was in during his championship year at Michigan.

Gus Farwick, Army, Walter Eckersall's 1924 choice for the all-American line, will perform with his ex-teammate, Garbisch, against the all-western eleven. Farwick will play his old role at guard as in Army days and will relieve Garbisch at center when the latter goes back to place kick against the western team. Farwick is another physical giant, weighing 193 pounds.

Joe Bach, Notre Dame, Eckersall's all-American tackle of last year, and a member of the national championship Notre Dame outfit of 1924, will play at tackle opposite Ed Weir. Bach is assistant coach at Syracuse this year, and the strength which he has developed in his Orange line men is proof that he knows how to capitalize his gridiron experience covering many years.

In the backfield there will be "Duckie" Pond, Yale captain in 1924, and regarded by many as Yale's greatest halfback. Along with Pond will be Herbert Steger, Michigan, all-conference fullback and captain last year. Then there is "Peggy" Flourney, Tulane fullback, who now has the distinction of scoring more points during the present season than any football man in the country. It will be a great Eastern team.

Civil Engineers Will Hold Meeting Friday

The American Society of Civil Engineers will hold a meeting Friday morning, December 11, at 10 o'clock in room 210, Mechanic Arts. H. C. Smith, manager of the Southwestern Branch of the Asphalt Association at Kansas City, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Asphalt and Asphalt Paving."

Award Additional Point to Stanford

Stanford was awarded another point in the Cal-Stanford game making the official score 27 to 14, favoring Stanford.

There is nothing the home folks would appreciate more than a really good photograph of yourself. A glimpse into Townsend's display windows on South Eleventh street will demonstrate the superiority of their portraiture. Here "you will always find familiar faces."—Adv.

SPEIER'S

Tenth and O Streets--Lincoln, Nebr.

"... but not one Scent for Tribute"

—no longer will you agree to this part of the famous old saying—not if you go to Piller's in search of a Christmas token supreme for Gorgeous! For here, attractively boxed, you will find the gift sets that will cause her beautiful eyes to sparkle with delight; imported sets from the Remiler Perfume Co. containing perfume, toilet water and atomizer. There are three fragrances from which to choose: Jasmine, Narce, and Colleen Moore. Your selection will be made of course, with due regard to the personality of the recipient!

What Price Formal Attire? $38.50 complete at Speier's!

—and that means, Tuxedo, vest, tie, collar and shoes—in fact all the ingredients of a successful formal except the right girl! These are no ordinary clothes you'll get at Speier's either. You'll make a regular Price-of-Wales appearance in them! There's a wide trousered suit with a smart English cut jacket—square of shoulder and wide of lapel. The accessories are the sort you'll see featured in Vanity Fair! In fact, these are the conspicuously smart outfits that will enable you to make the All-Greek Formal Squad this season!

The Grand Cafe is Rightly Named!

—for it's certainly a "grand" place to eat! Even one of Nebraska's own instructors indorses their hot waffles and honey as "the best in town." You'll indorse their price of 15c as well as their goodness! Who likes hot cakes and coffee for breakfast? You may enjoy both at the Grand Cafe for 15c. And as for home made doughnuts and coffee as an inner urge to things higher and nobler, they're waiting for you at the Grand—all for the price of a street car ride.

Christmas Party Decorations at George Brothers!

—to use Mr. George's own expression, "We're loaded to the gunwales with them!" And that means abundantly supplied with the UNUSUAL sort—the kind that will help make your party strike a note above the ordinary. Remember George Brothers too when shopping for Gussie's Yuletide gift. Among many beautiful and suitable possibilities are jewelry novelties; pendants, strings of beads, choker-beads, sparkling bracelets and pins. Unusual designs mark the entire collection, and the price range is as remarkable. Kampus Kompacts will be joyfully received too. Ask to see them at George Brothers!

Plutocrat or Budgeteer? It's Hard to Tell!

—if appearance told the tale, you'd have to flip a coin to decide whether Oswald's father clipped coupons or Oz himself clipped the ad that sent him in all haste to Mayer Bros. Co. to try their ten-pay plan of buying clothes! Here is the system that has an appeal to the collegiate pocketbook! You select a suit, an overcoat, a tuxedo perhaps, shoes, gloves, hat, hose, handkerchiefs and what not—have them all put on one bill; pay a small amount down, and the rest in the manner that you and Mayer Bros. agree is best!
