

LEROSSIGNOL IS WORLD FORUM SPEAKER TODAY

Will Discuss Question of How Early Specialized Training Should Begin

EXPECT 150 AT MEETING

Committee Plans to Have More Discussions on Topic Dealing With Education

"How Early Should Specialized Training Begin?" is the question to be proposed to the World Forum by Dean James E. LeRossignol this noon at the Grand Hotel. Dean LeRossignol is head of the College of Business Administration in the University. About 150 members of the Forum are expected to hear the address.

The World Forum intends to present speakers who deal with problems of special interest to students. Dean LeRossignol's address deals with one aspect of the educational situation. Other discussions of various phases of education have been given by Dr. Fred Morrow Fling, who spoke on the "Honor System"; J. Stitt Wilson, who spoke on "The Educational System"; and Dean Herman G. James, who discussed the function of the College of Arts and Sciences.

It is expected, according to the committee in charge of these meetings, that other speakers will discuss additional topics dealing with educational matters. Other speakers have been secured to speak on the race question and certain aspects of religion. The committee is attempting to secure Rabbi Starrels of the local Jewish congregation to speak on "The Crucifixion of Christ from the Jewish Point of View."

Problem of General Education
The discussion which is expected to arise out of Dean LeRossignol's presentation will deal with the problem of the amount of general or liberal education which a professional man should have. Some theories hold that four years of arts work should precede any specialized or professional training. Others try to give the two—liberal and professional—at the same time. Some persons welcome the specialized aspects of the high school curricula, while others maintain that only those students who cannot go on to a university or college ought to have such subjects as shorthand, printing and manual training.

Dean LeRossignol is a graduate of McGill University of Montreal, Canada, where the influence of the English university ideals of cultural development is still strong. At the same time he is a Dean of a College in the University which commenced its specialized work in the first year, although not necessarily so. The problem which Dean LeRossignol has probably had to settle for himself, is presented in the conflict between the cultural tradition of the English universities and the necessity for early entrance into the competition of the business world.

Hold Discussion Group
It is expected that, as has been the case in the past, a fair number of students will remain to ask questions of the speaker and to carry on a discussion among themselves. Members of the group which remain after the address to discuss the question proposed have declared that the arguments and questions arising out of the group constitute one of the most valuable features of the Forum.

The committee in charge of the World Forum meetings this year include representatives of the cabinets of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., who function as a joint committee. Laura Whelpley, David Webster, Kate Goldstein, Douglas Orr, and Gordon Hager compose the joint committee at present.

Cadet Officers Wear Blue Star Patches

Blue Star Distinguished College patches for cadet officers' sleeves have been received at the military store room, and are being issued to the cadet officers who are not equipped with them. The new patches are blue on a background of blue-gray cloth to match the advanced course uniforms.

Discover Prehistoric Forest
Geologists from the University of Texas have discovered a mammoth petrified prehistoric forest near the Rio Grande river.

Weather Forecast
Wednesday: Fair but with some cloudiness.

Broadcasting Studio Receives Letter From Cuba, Acknowledging Program

From far-away Omaja, Cuba, comes a letter acknowledging a program broadcast from the University studio. Omaja is in the southeast corner of the island, and according to Robert Craig, who is in charge of the studio, is the furthest place that a letter acknowledging a program from the University has been received from.

Following is the letter:
Omaja, Cuba, 11-19-25.
Radio Station KFAB,
Lincoln, Nebraska.
Gentlemen:

At 11:17 on the evening of the 17th heard a fox trot rendered by the University of Nebraska orchestra under the direction of Mr. Thomas. Some static but no fading. "Ma and the Auto" at 11:20; a soprano solo at 11:29, and "Carry me back to old Virginia" at 11:35, (the third time I heard it that evening.) The zinc roof of the house is the antenna, using an ordinary bell wire for a lead-in. Wire is not soldered to the roof but merely inserted between the sections of the roof and insulated. On the night in question and at the time of the above mentioned, it was coming down by the bucket fulls and the roof naturally was grounded, but that did not hinder reception in the least. Plenty of volume and very clear and could have used the speaker had I desired to raise the town. Are you still using a wave length of 240 meters and 500 in the antenna? Our set is a five tube Neutrodyne and the only set in this burg as yet.

Thanks for the entertainment.
Very sincerely,
Dana W. Kerr.
Letters have come to the studio from Canada, and from all parts of the United States, but this is the first, Mr. Craig says, that has been received from outside the country.

Distribute Nebraskan From the Book Store

Until further notice The Daily Nebraskan will be distributed in the back end of the College Book Store. This is the second change since University Hall has been condemned.

OFFICERS MUST BE IN FULL UNIFORM

Advanced Course Men Must Wear Complete Equipment to Annual Military Ball

All cadet officers, seniors and juniors, must wear complete uniforms to the Military Ball Friday night in the City Auditorium according to an announcement made last night by Lt. Col. F. F. Jewett, commandant of the Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit.

There had been some agitation on the part of a few cadet officers to permit the wearing of white trousers with the uniform coat, but this idea was vetoed by the commandant. Those juniors whose uniforms fit so badly that they cannot be worn to the Ball must either get fitted at the R. O. T. C. store room or borrow a uniform from some officer who is not going.

Another decree made yesterday in regard to the Military Ball was that no spurs may be worn on the boots. This was decided at a meeting of the committee chairmen Tuesday afternoon.

Every ticket to the Ball has been sold, according to Donald Sampson who is in charge of the affair. Many more tickets could have been sold easily, but the dance floor will not accommodate any more couples.

The decoration committee has requested that all cadets who wish to help with the work of decorating the hall and stage Thursday and Friday sign up in the Military office, in Nebraska Hall.

Member of Coronado Expedition May Have Lost Spanish Stirrups

Did someone in the famous Coronado expedition lose two Spanish stirrups when crossing the plains that are now Nebraska?

The story by George W. Prather, telling how he found two Spanish stirrups on his homestead near Riverton in 1874, and the account of the expedition to the site made by the Historical Society, December 2, 1924, are told in "Nebraska History and Record of Pioneer Days," a magazine published by the Nebraska State Historical Society.

The relics were found quite by accident. Mr. Prather tells that as he was leading his cow through heavy grass on his homestead to picket her out, his foot struck something hard. He saw what seemed to be an iron link of a log chain projecting from the ground. With a spade, he dug around the iron and found two metal stirrups side by side. They were six inches wide and nine inches long. When the rust was rubbed off, they appeared to be inlaid with silver and of very fine workmanship.

"There was no track or trail where these stirrups were found, there was simply thick grass with a few bushes, and a pond a short distance away," Mr. Prather tells in his story to Mr. Sheldon of the State Historical Society. "I did not attach any special value to them but simply wondered how they came there," the discoverer adds. Some neighbor settlers told him they were "Indian spurs." A year or two later, an agent of a school furniture company, Mr. Dinenny, saw the stirrups, learning their

Coach Edits Book On Pole Vaulting

Coach Schulte has recently edited a book on pole vaulting which it is believed, will be the best authority on the subject. The book has been collected from the works of many coaches on vaulting and under the careful editing of Nebraska's track coach will be the final authority on the art of vaulting.

November Temperature Above Normal Experienced by Lincoln and Vicinity

Lincoln and vicinity were fortunate in having a warm November this year. The average temperature for the month shows an increase of 1.2 degrees over the normal.

The last three Novembers have been much warmer than average, 39 degrees, running from 43 to 44 degrees. Jack Frost was especially lenient toward this vicinity. The thermometer reached 67 degrees on November 11 and the lowest temperature for the month was 14 degrees on the 8th of October proved a colder month in 1925 than November. As low as 3 degrees were reported in October, and the average temperature was lower.

November 7 was the only day on which a snowfall was recorded. Then less than half an inch fell. The average snowfall for the month is 1.3 inches. A normal amount of sunshine reached this vicinity. Considering the possible number of hours that the sun's rays could strike this vicinity, as 10 per cent, the actual amount recorded was 74 per cent of this. Ten days during the month there was a maximum amount of sunshine, six were partly overcast, and ten were cloudy.

November was practically free of wind, the average velocity being 9.3 miles per hour. The prevalent direction was from the south. A queer coincidence was found in that the last half of the month was warmer than the first.

Winter officially began yesterday and at the same time summer is being ushered into the southern hemisphere. The days are growing shorter, as the sun's rays strike more obliquely each day.

HOLD TRACK MEET TODAY

Invitation Has Been Received To the Illinois Relays, February 27

HAVE GREAT SCHEDULE

Coach Schulte will hold another numeral track meet this afternoon on the indoor track in the east stands of the stadium. With the football season over members of the Varsity and freshmen squads who are not interested in basketball will be turning their attention toward track according to the veteran track coach.

The Husker track schedule will be a great one this coming spring as it has been for the past four seasons. Nebraska has not lost a dual meet in the Valley for several years, and only two defeats have been chalked up against the Nebraska track team in the last five years. Both of these were experienced on the Pacific coast after a long trip. Last spring the Scarlet and Cream track men lost to Stanford at Palo Alto in the first dual meet of the season, and then followed it up with a continuous string of victories.

The first announcement of the spring meets came in the form of an invitation to the Illinois relays on February 27, which was received the other day. The Kansas City Athletic club will probably come before this meet though. The Huskers made a big cut into the Illinois games last season with two firsts, two seconds, a third, and a fourth place.

The weakness of the Huskers in all of the field events but the pole vault has been apparent the past season, and this is Schulte's big task. Krimmelmeier of last year, will probably be the best Husker bet in the shot, but Molzen will be in good form too. Ashburne, a freshman, put the 16-pound weight over forty feet last evening in his first trial. Richards and Howell both should be good weight men. Pospisil and Scott are the two discus men of possibilities. Wostoupal is expected to throw the javelin, along with Almy, a letter man. The high jump and the broad jump seem to be lacking in material.

Today's Convocation One of Many For Consideration of World Court

Today's convocation for Dr. Raymond D. Fosdick is one of a great many meetings and gatherings of students in the various colleges and universities of the country for a consideration of the World Court. The culmination of these meetings is to come in a great conference at Princeton, N. J., when, just before the World Court issue comes up in the Senate on December 17, students of all parts of the nation will convene to consider the question and to focus student opinion.

A steady campaign beginning in October has been carried on in an effort to get the students to think on the relation of this country to the World Court, world peace, and international relations. The University of Nebraska has had a number of speakers including ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Kirby Page, Laura Puffer Morgan, Conrad Hoffman, and today Raymond Fosdick. The next few weeks will see the final stages of this educational program.

The past week has seen the World Court Conferences all over the country going forward at a tremendous rate, with many conferences actually held, and preparations for the few remaining ones to be held about completed.

Hold Conference in South
During the week-end of November 8, the Southern World Court Conference at Atlanta, which was the first in this section of the country to be held with colored and white students meeting together, was a notable achievement. There were three

News Writing Class Will Cover Address

The members of Journalism 81 (News Writing) class are to have some practical experience today in speech-reporting. Professor Fogg announced yesterday. They are to report the address on the World Court at St. Paul's church by Raymond E. Fosdick. Arrangements have been made to have the members march to the church in a body immediately behind the band and occupy a reserve block of seats. Copy is to be submitted at Administration Hall 207 not later than 4 o'clock.

HOLD PARADE AND REVIEW THURSDAY

Blossom Hilton Will Decorate Members of Company Winning Compet Last Year

Members of Company E, winning company in the Compet last spring, will be decorated at the first regimental parade and review of the year to be held Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the drill field. Blossom Hilton, sponsor of the company at the time of the Compet will present the first place ribbons. Harold Gish, who was captain, will take part in the ceremonies.

Fair weather for the past few weeks has given all the companies an opportunity to drill outdoors in the preparation for the first regimental exercises. All non-commissioned officers to be appointed in a general order within a few days will report to their assigned companies for the parade. Colonel Jewett announced yesterday.

Minnesota Has Largest Faculty

The largest faculty in any American college is the faculty of the University of Minnesota which numbers 1,250 members.

WILL DISMISS CLASSES FOR CONVOCATION

Raymond B. Fosdick to Lecture on World Court This Morning

STUDENTS TO GO IN BODY

Parade to St. Paul Church Starts At 10 O'clock from North Twelfth Street

To the students of the University:

Mr. Raymond B. Fosdick is regarded as one of the most inspiring speakers in America. He is in great demand as a Commencement speaker among the universities of the country. With an unusually fine academic background, he has rendered distinguished service in law, sociology, economics, and international affairs. His coming to Lincoln at this time offers an unusual opportunity to hear a scholarly and brilliant leader speak on a vital subject.

I hope the entire University community will appreciate the privilege of being present at his address on the World Court at 10 a. m. Wednesday, December 2, in St. Paul's Church. Let us make this a great convocation, comparable in attendance and interest with one or two held during the great war and with the Sherwood Eddy meetings.

S. Avery.

Will Parade to Church
The parade to the Fosdick convocation which is to be held this morning at 10 o'clock in St. Paul's Church will form behind the University Band on Twelfth street and will march south under the direction of the Vikings, honorary organization of junior men. Students will be admitted before the general public is allowed to enter.

A number of classes in history, political science, and argumentation are expected to attend in a body. Professor M. M. Fogg's class in news-writing will report the meeting from a special section reserved for the class.

The joint Y. M.—Y. W. committee cooperating with the University in presenting Mr. Fosdick in this morning's convocation states that this is the last of a series of meetings with respect to the cause of the World Court, international relationships, and world peace. Resulting from a resolution passed at the joint convention in Estes Park last August, the national council of Christian associations appropriated funds and selected a committee for the promotion of student study in matters pertaining to world peace.

The Council of Christian Associations urged a special study of the World Court due to the fact that it will come before the Senate of the United States on December 17. It was felt that student opinion might help create public opinion in this matter.

There have been three meetings of University of Nebraska students resulting from this action. There has also been an effective state-wide campaign among the colleges from a central student committee in Lincoln. Similar meetings have occurred all over the country. The whole campaign is to end in a great student pilgrimage to the east in an effort to inform Congress of whatever results student opinion may formulate.

Take Poll of Students
Along with the educational program, a great student poll is being taken by the New Student, a student paper in New York. The results are to be broadcast to the country by the news services. Petitions, messages to senators, and a student referendum with signatures have been initiated on the several campuses.

The address of Dr. Fosdick in convocation this morning will mark the last stages of the campaign in the University of Nebraska. Those responsible for it declare that whether the senate takes immediate action on the World Court is not of so great importance as the fact that the students of the University have been to some degree awakened to the questions relative to the World Court and foreign relations.

Trumpets Will Take Place of Whistles

Whistle signals for calling cadet companies to formations will soon be no longer heard on the drill field. Trumpet calls will take their place instead. Every company will have a trumpeter who will blow first call and assembly at the formation of the company. New "G" trumpets with "F" slides have been ordered from Philadelphia. The bill of lading has been received at the office and the trumpets are expected to arrive in a week.
