NEVADA WANTS TEACHERS

Communication Received By Moritz Says Salaries Are Good

Nevada needs more teachers according to the communication just received by Robert D. Moritz, Director of the Department for the Recommendation of Teachers. The Nevada communication, which is signed by W. J. Hunting, Superintendent of Public Instructions, states that salaries in that state are good. High school teachers average about $1800, and the average for all teachers is approximately $1450. The letter is posted on the bulletin board

Ten Years Ago

The annual Phi Beta Kappa convocation was held at Memorial Hall. The championship interclass debate between the seniors and sophomores on the question of the United States rejecting the Monroe doctrine was held, after which elections to Phi Beta Kappa were made. The sophomores contending on the negative side of the argument were victorious.

The vocational conference was one of the most successful and beneficial of its kind ever held in a co-educational school. It helped people decide what their life work should be and brought them to a keener real-
