

DISTANCE MEN IMPROVE TIME

Johnson, McCartney Chosen As Other Members to Run With Huskers at Kansas

With the four regular cross-country men not running, unusually fine time was made in the tryouts for the cross-country team for the Kansas dual meet held over the Belmont course Thursday afternoon. Good exhibitions were also made in the numeral meet.

Glenn Johnson and McCartney staged a great race in the cross-country tryouts, finishing in as good time as has been made by the best members of the team this year. Johnson's time was 27 minutes 24.9 seconds. Both McCartney and Diederich, the third finisher, got in under 28 minutes. Frink, Cummings, and Dickson all ran the course fast enough to have made the team any night but last night. Captain Hays, Chadderdon, Sprague, and Reller earned places on the team on the basis of their showing against Missouri and did not take part in last night's tryout.

Sneathen, a fleet-footed freshman, ran away with the half mile in the preliminary tryouts to select men to run in the exhibition against Martin, former Northwestern star here at the Ames game. Lemly, sophomore, who is just starting work again after being laid up for two weeks with a lame back, also ran a nice half mile. Lowe and Becker led the sprinters with good time considering the condition of the track.

The order of finishing in the cross-country tryouts was:

Johnson, McCartney, Diederich, Frink, Cummings, Dickson, and Lesser. Winner's time: 27:24.9.

Numeral meet results were:
100 yard dash: Lowe, 10.8; Becker, 10.9; Halstead, 11.1; Williams, 11.1.

880 yard run: Sneathen, 2:05.2; Lemly, 2:08.2; Kezer, 2:13.3; Campbell, 2:13.9.

50 yard dash: Becker, 6.2; Trum-

MEEHAN WORKING N. Y. U. MEN HARD

Squad Gets No Holiday in Workout For Tussle With Tulane in New York Saturday

New York, Oct. 14.—Columbus Day was no holiday for the New York University football squad. They have a hard game on their hands, against Tulane in the Yankee Stadium next Saturday, and Head Coach "Chick" Meehan is not sparing his men in order to whip them into shape for the most important opponent that has ever appeared on a Violet schedule.

There was no scrimmage at Ohio Field yesterday, but there will be a tight one this afternoon. After the injury to John Miller, one of his regular tackles, the other day, Meehan does not want to risk any more casualties in hard scrimmage. The work yesterday, while taking up several hours, was confined to the brushing up on the fundamentals, and to signal practice.

Particular attention was paid to the handling of the ball, in an effort to eliminate fumbles. The Violet can ill afford to make any muffs against such a powerful team as Tulane, with a lot of experienced players and "ball hawks" in the line-up. Stress was again laid by Meehan upon the necessity of speed, more speed, such as N. Y. U. showed in its offensive against West Virginia Wesleyan last Saturday.

DR. HALL TO SPEAK AT STUDENT SERVICE

Special Program Planned by First Presbyterian Church for Sunday Evening

Dr. William Ralph Hall, widely known in eastern university centers as a lecturer, will speak at a special service for University students at the First Presbyterian church Sunday, on the subject of American youth and the modern college student.

This special program will supplant the regular Sunday night services. Chancellor Avery will take part in the service, and Dr. F. W. Russell, '90, will preside. A feature of the evening will be the singing of well-known college songs of other of the leading universities as well as Nebraska songs.

Penn State Women Alive

At Pennsylvania State the spirit of womanhood suddenly has broken out among the co-eds like an epidemic of measles. The women of dependence by smoking the longest the campus have declared their incheroots they can find. They have elected a yell leader of their own sex and have marked a section of the stands "Girls" which will be no man's land.

DIRECTORY PROOF IS PUBLIC TODAY

Names From "A" to "F" Will Be Placed in Social Sciences; Others Will Follow

Proof of the Y. M. C. A. student and faculty directory will be posted this morning in Social Sciences building. All names from A to F inclusive will be on the board today and will remain for two days. The other proof will follow immediately. It will all be taken down Monday night.

Each student is urged to make any corrections which are found in name. It is the last chance before the directory is sent to print. Cards will be furnished in the building on which corrections can be made.

Season Tickets Sell at Texas

Preliminary to this call-out service assignment the entire section of ten to fifteen students is met and a period spent in explanation of the responsibilities incurred, various procedures to follow and precautions to take. This instruction is given by the medical director of the dispensary who is responsible for the organization of the work.

The students are particularly cautioned about misrepresentation of graduate status and are absolutely prohibited from any financial transaction with the patient or family. When the calls are received at the dispensary it is explained to the person calling that a senior medical student will be sent and that if a graduate doctor is desired a private physician should be called.

Students usually work in pairs, one of whom possesses a car, thereby saving much time. The two together, through conference, are less liable to meet a situation entirely unprepared, and are able to talk over the diagnosis and treatment. A record is required to be kept and is filed at the dispensary when the case is discharged. A four by six card is used, with one side for first visit diagnostic symptoms, physical signs, laboratory findings, diagnosis and treatment. The reverse side of this card is used for notes at subsequent visits. According to Dean Keegan, these records are surprisingly well kept.

The diagnoses are clearly indicated and the treatment often indicates careful thought and study, frequently superior to much medical practice. Serious cases or emergencies are promptly recognized and consultation called or the case sent to the hospital. Dean Keegan says "the students are more inclined to be alarmed by unusual symptoms than to wait, and many consultation calls are made by members of the dispensary staff, some without real cause for alarm but very instructive to the students."

"During the past six years in which I have been in close touch with this work, I recall no instance of serious consequence attributed to student responsibility, and during the past year there has not been a single complaint from patients cared for by students. In fact, the growth of the service speaks for its success. Whole families are carried through acute respiratory illnesses, as 'grippe', 'sore throat', and the exanthemata.

"The same student often is called back when he is not on service, and may add to his original case several of the neighborhood. This work has a great practical value and a common remark by the students is that they learn more practical work from this service than from any other course in the medical school. It approaches the experience of actual practice and teaches self-reliance and initiative."
