LET'S SHOW THEM

One hundred and fifty loyal Cornhuskers met at the Missouri Pacific station Friday afternoon to send the team off to St. Louis in good spirits. Part of the crowd consisted of the band, the Corn Cob chapter, and yell leaders. Are these the only students in the University of Nebraska with any real "Nebraska Spirit"? Does that little handful of rooters comprise the cheering section of the University, with some 5,800 students enrolled?

The few enthusiasts at the send-off rally did all in their power to show the team they were behind them. Meeting in front of Social Sciences building, the band and Corn Cob chapter marched to the station along. The few students comprising the rest of the hundred and fifty went to the station in cars. Several members of the team gave encouraging talks, and the rooters made an unusual amount of noise for their numbers. As the train left the strains of the "Cornhusker" ended the rally.

If the team had beaten Missouri last Saturday we can safely say that more than 500 students would have taken the trouble to come to the station to give the Huskers a good send-off to St. Louis. But victory did not come our way so we let a few enthusiasts pretend they are a mob.

The team must undoubtedly have noticed the difference. Two years ago when the squad left for Notre Dame a real send-off rally was held at the Burlington station. Though the team did not come back with a victory, a real crowd went to the station to show the men that the student body was behind them.

In this game of football the team needs more support from the student body in defeat than in victory. We beat Washington, and according to the present run of Nebraska spirit a large crowd will be at the station to cheer the Huskers on their return at 9 o'clock this morning. If we had lost could the same number of rooters have been expected at the rally? That remains a question which we hope can be proved favorably if the situation ever arises. And for the present, let's go down this morning with the idea of meeting our team, rather than patting them on the back because they won.

THANKSGIVING VACATION

The long-desired holiday following Thanksgiving was at last granted by the University Senate at its meeting Saturday. In order to keep the number of school days according to schedule, it was decided that this extra day would be made up at Spring vacation.

The Student Council deserves a great deal of credit for this. They were the instigators of the idea, and it was mainly through their consistent efforts that any action was taken on the matter.

The student body in general showed a great deal of interest, and will cooperate in every way in order to make this new holiday successful. Several student opinions indicated the sentiment of the student body.

The dismissal of Friday and Saturday classes is of great significance to many students, although those who live in Lincoln or nearby towns are not as affected by it. When students are quite a distance from home, a weekend is too short to allow them a visit, so under ordinary conditions they would probably not be able to go home from September until Christmas.

An opportunity to go home for Thanksgiving means a great deal to anyone, and there is no doubt that this holiday will be very successful, and everyone will gain by it.

JAYHAWK EDUCATION

At the University of Kansas all freshmen are forced (by an austere barrel-stave paddle) to doff their caps as they pass the college flag streaming from a high pole on the campus.

This is indeed a contribution to the science of higher learning. The intellectual institution at Lawrence has long been known, just as the state it represents, as a leader in "Things Worth While." Now we have more proof that the Jayhawk may be expected to do anything. It is also very apparent that anything can be expected from the Jayhawk.

It is obvious that Nebraska is 'way behind the times, since this university can boast only the time-honored tradition of green caps for men and green buttons for women. The seers of the Cornhusker student body should get their thoughtful heads together and think up something that will go Kansas ons better.

Perhaps Nebraska could have an idol placed in front of Social Sciences hall, something to represent the Cornhusker spirit, or Nebraska tradition, or what have you—anything will do. Then we would make the freshmen bow down before the image as they passed by on their way to classes.

Somebody should think up something to beat Kansas.

THE COMMUNITY CHEST

Members of the University community who make their permanent residence in Lincoln will be asked this week to contribute to the annual budget of the Community Chest, which distributes funds among the welfare and character-building institutions of the city.

The University also has a particular interest in the chest drive because both the University Y. M. C. A. and the University Y. W. C. A. receive part of their support from the Community Chest. Although the average citizen of Lincoln may not realize the extent of the work of these two organizations, their value should be evident to every reader of The Daily Nebraskan.

For the woman who is not affiliated with a sorority, the Y. W. C. A. serves as a means for becoming acquainted, finding social pleasures, and obtaining the friendship of other students. The missionary work of the organization is perhaps of value, but the question as to whether this task should be undertaken by students or by persons who are already self-supporting, is one which is too often forgotten.

The University Y. M. C. A. has in former years been one of the most effective agencies on the campus for stimulating student thought. It has taught tolerance and practiced tolerance. It has instilled in the minds of many a higher respect for truth and intelligence than for bluff and bunk.

The religious work of these two organizations is a minor phase of their activity, due to the presence of the student pastors, but their other endeavors more than justify their existence. And the entire University community will be united in the hope that the Community Chest may be able to continue its financial support.

Fifteen Years Ago

The University cadets were in their glory when they acted as military guard and escort to President William H. Taft. At the Burlington station President Taft was met by a detachment of the cadets who formed an aisle between the train and the automobile which was waiting to take him to the hotel. The president saluted this company of cadets.

William Jennings Bryan assisted the University Y. M. C. A. in its outlined campaign to promote church attendance, Bible study and Christian work by delivering an address on the subject of mission study.

Clayton S. Radcliffe of Sidney was elected president of the junior class. He defeated Herbert M. Potter of Seward by a vote of 91 to 71.

A woman's field house with an adjoining athletic field will be constructed this year at Ohio State University.

U. S. Navy Band To Appear in Lincoln

enthusiastic reception that has been accorded the Navy Band in other cities is perhaps the best indication of the hit it is certain to score with the people of Lincoln. Every where it has appeared it has earned verdicts of approval that are fulsome in the extreme, critics agreeing that through varied programs of splendor and loveliness it demonstrates at each number that a band may be what few people think it can be—versatile.

cultural effects of good music. Good music, in the chief executive's judgment, makes for higher ideals civically and personally, and he has consistently lent his support to movements for more and better music in the Capital. That Washington should not have a monopoly in this respect he willingly gave the required permission for the Navy Band to go on tour.

NEBRASKA EDITORS VISIT AG CAMPUS

Program at Annual Meeting Consists of Addresses and Luncheon For Guests

Nebraska editors were guests of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture Friday and Saturday on the occasion of the annual editors' visit to the Agricultural college campus.

The Friday program opened with a talk on "The Standard Nebraska Community" by N. W. Gaines, community specialist of the Agricultural college extension division. Dean Burnett welcomed the visiting editors following a luncheon at the college cafeteria. Prof. W. J. Loeffel, Mr. W. H. Dunham, landscape gardener, E. E. Hoppert, extension horticulturist, and Eldon Lux, extension editorial assistant, gave talks.

Ole Buck, president of the Nebraska editor's association, and Director Brokav of the extension service gave talks Friday evening. The Saturday program consisted of talks on the relation of the agricultural college extension service to the big problems of Nebraska.

Watkins Completes First Forestry Trip

C. W. Watkins, Nebraska's new extension forester, has just completed his first trip over the state and his first visit to many of the plantings made by farmers. The policies of the agricultural extension division regarding forestry projects will be formed after he has completed his reports on the present situation in the state.
