

Saturday's Olympics Recalls Early Origin

Committees of the senior and junior class were named to consider the matter. After many conferences with Dr. Condra the outline of the Olympics organization was agreed upon.
There were to be competitions in organized field events between representatives of each class, together with a free for all battle to wind up the exercises. It is of particular interest to note that the students were not strong for the rougher events which the faculty were in favor of having.

Chancellor Andrews showed a friendly attitude, and said he was not afraid of anybody being hurt. The first Olympics was a much rougher contest than any ever held since, according to Dr. Condra, who has seen every one since. In the first few Olympics everything was allowed in the free for all battles except the strangle hold, kicking and slugging. No man was allowed to leave the field until the battle was declared finished, and those who tried to sneak out were pushed back in by the upper classes.

As soon as the annual struggle between the two classes was on a permanent basis Dr. Condra asked for suggestions of naming the contests, and to the late Dr. Bessey goes the honor of proposing the name Olympics, which he probably associated with the ancient Greek contests of the same name.

For several years after its origin the Olympics were held under the direction of a committee of juniors and seniors. Dale McDonald '11, now an officer in the army, was the first chairman in charge of the contests. Later the Innocents were given charge of the Olympics and they have directed them since.

The Olympics gave a great impetus to outdoor track and field events. Cross country runs and track events were regular features of the contests, and boxing made its first debut at Nebraska as a number in the Olympic day program.

The Olympics have created a finer University spirit, thinks Dr. Condra who says that as a result incoming freshmen are received at Nebraska with open arms in contrast to the hazing at other schools. The Olympics offer an opportunity to get the whole class together on a project. It is an organized fight, and there is no rowdyism. All students are the same on the day of the Olympics and new acquaintances are developed.

The green cap tradition came a little later after the Olympics were well established. Dale Boyle, of Albo, banker at McCook, then a senior, was leader of a group of students who were instrumental in establishing the green cap tradition. It has become well established, and has been misunderstood by very few. It has served the good purpose of being a badge for all freshmen, and has served to unify the members of the freshmen class. Its connection with the Olympics lies in the fact that the freshmen can do the green caps if they win the contests from the sophomores.

Major Improvements
Are Made In Faculty
And Student Directory

Several major improvements have been made in the student and faculty directory which goes on sale next Monday. The book will be bound in regular book fashion instead of the old saddle-stitch, and will be printed on thick magazine paper between heavy scarlet covers. Every telephone number has been checked by the telephone company, so the chances for error are very greatly reduced. The book will sell for fifty cents. Sales tables will be placed in all the principal buildings of the main campus as well as the College of Agriculture campus.

Home Ec Department
Exhibits Collection Of Fine Cheney Silks

The Home Economics department of the University at the College of Agriculture campus has a collection of fine silks from the Cheney Silk Company, New York, on display in their show-rooms until November 12.

The collection consists of dress and drapery silks in patterns and textures which reproduce faithfully those of old periods. Damask and velvets in the reds and golds of the Renaissance, rich brocades and tapestries of Persian and Chinese influence, and eighteenth-century French brocades and taffetas in delicate floral design are shown.

Another feature of the exhibit is the collection of costumes which show the use of these textiles. Among them is a court gown of the Empress Josephine, wife of Napoleon Bonaparte, with a court train embroidered in gold; and a very elaborate costume of Queen Elizabeth of England.

On Friday, the Home Economics section of the Womens Club will visit the silk exhibit, and Miss Morton will explain the collection. This will be followed by their regular lecture discussion hour on clothing selection. Everyone is invited.

Intelligent Living is
One of Main Proposals
In Report at Rutgers

New Brunswick, N. J. (By New Student Service).—Rutgers students want to know "How to Live."

Intelligent living is one of the main proposals in an undergraduate report on the state of Rutgers education (modeled after the famous Dartmouth Report). The proposed course would consider the responsibilities of fatherhood, sex hygiene and the fundamental principles of psychology.

A department of athletics is also proposed by these students who have been considering the needs of Rutgers for six months. A full professor would head this department. It is suggested that each student be required the minor in athletics.

"The committee feels that some of the apathy in students at the present time is due in no small degree to the methods of teaching and the people who teach," the report said. "It is felt that there are many instructors who have been chosen because of their prominence in a given field than because of their abilities as teachers."

Fellowships For Study In Germany
Are Offered To American Students

The American German Student Exchange, Inc., announces that a limited number of fellowships for study in Germany will be awarded to American students for the year 1927-28.

German universities have established these fellowships as an international exchange for similar fellowships established by American colleges for German students. It is hoped that the Fellows will do their part toward developing international friendship and good will by creating a tradition of cooperation and reciprocity between the United States and Germany in the study of the institutions and psychology of the two countries. The fellowships are open to both men and women.

To meet the requirements for eligibility, a candidate must present proof of:

- a) American citizenship.
- b) A working knowledge of German.
- c) Ability to carry on work at a German university, which implies at least two years in an American college or university.
- d) Ability to pursue independent study and research.
- e) Good moral character and adaptability.
- f) Good health.

Preference in selection will be given to applicants between the ages of twenty and thirty and particularly to those who are potential leaders in public life.

The fellowships are offered in various fields of study, as follows: Political Science, Economics, Agriculture, Natural Sciences, Engineering, Sociology, History, Literature, Psychology, Theology, Education, International Law, Commerce, Journalism, etc.

The fellowships cover tuition, board and lodging during the academic term, and are tenable for one year. Studies will be expected to furnish an amount of money sufficient for traveling expenses to and from the German university and for use during periods of vacation.

American Fellows will be required to report at the universities to which they are assigned at the time of official opening (about October 15) and to reside in Germany at least ten months. They may express preference for certain universities, but these preferences must be supported by adequate reasons for the choice, in order to merit consideration by the Committee. Assignments will be made by the Committee after consideration of the subjects of study chosen by the Fellows.

For application blanks, and full information, address: Carl J. Friedrich, American German Student Exchange, Inc., Institute of International Education, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York. Application blanks, properly filled out and accompanied by all required credentials, must be in the hands of the Exchange by February 15, 1927.

GROUP MEETS

a piano solo.
Margaret Peterson spoke on "What the Inter racial group has meant to Me." "At first we made a complete study of Inter-racial relations. Negro books and outlines were studied to find out, if possible the cause of racial discrimination. We came to the conclusion that it came from an indirect source, and that it had no definite basis. Therefore it could not be right and should be done away with. Christ's teachings say "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

The Inter racial group wishes that students would realize their responsibility as Christian students and do all in their power to establish a real feeling of friendliness and understanding between the races.

Why not—a vaudeville manager
for "faculty adviser"?
NOBODY understands the principle of a balanced program better than the manager of a vaudeville house.
That's a thought to you men now making out your study programs. Balance the chemistry with English literature; balance your calculus with economics.
It all gets down to the fact that in industry today, electrical communication included, you will find men well-grounded in their specialty but broad in human sympathies—men of the "all-around" type who can shoulder big responsibility in a big organization.
