Oh, Girls, did you see that football game Saturday. Talk about your hum-dingers, it was a fight from the kick-off. Every Fraternity and Sorority House was beautifully decorated and open house was the watch word for all the old grads. Many of the beautiful effects were secured from materials purchased at George's House of Gifts Beautiful. Our people are brim full of suggestions for your parties and speaking of favors, they never did have such an array of attractive Domestic and Imported Novelties, with a wide range of prices. No trouble to make samples or to figure out new ideas. That Christmas Card line of exclusive greetings is better than ever, and the entire store looks like a moving picture of European and Oriental countries, George's, 1213 N.—Adv.

Mrs. E. L. Hinman, who has spent a great deal of her time in Turkey, explained at Vespers how a loaf of bread was the impetus which led to the founding of Roberts College. The hostesses for the service were Dama Rennar, Janet McLellan, Mildred Jensen, and Marjorie Quinn.

Five new members were initiated into Nitrogen chapter of Iota Sigma Pi, honorary chemical sorority. They were as follows: Anne Davey, Nelle Lyman, Lucile Elias, Dora Burnel and Julia Jacoby.

After attending the inauguration of President Brooks of the University of Missouri, Chancellor Samuel Avery returned to Lincoln. He also attended the meetings of the national association of land grant colleges at Chicago.

Dr. S. Francis Scott Weir, lecturer in the educational department of the Dentsply Dental Manufacturing company, was a guest of Dr. Schmidt of the College of Dentistry. Dr. Weir examined the methods of the college and the work of the students.

Traditional "Think Shop" Threatened For A Time, Will Continue to Exist

The "Think Shop" will continue to exist. What is more, the wheels of the "Think Shop" are going to start moving within the next few weeks. For a while, alumni and students to whom the "Think Shop" was something human and dear feared the rumor that it was going to be made into a classroom might turn to a reality. Protests from faculty, alumni, and past members of the "Think Shop" rapidly reached the ears of the Chancellor, the Board of Regents, and whoever else has authority as to the use of the buildings. The protests took effect for now it is assured that the "Think Shop" will remain intact as it has for the last twenty-five years.

Sometime in December, according to Professor H. Adelbert White, Nebraska's new coach of debate, the "Think Shop" will start to operate at full blast. The "Think Shop", which is located in University Hall 106-A, has been used for the last twenty-five years by Nebraska inter-collegiate debate teams in the preparation for forensic battles. For a quarter of a century Nebraska debaters, many of them now famous, have worked at various debate questions under the supervision of the late Professor M. M. Fogg, who, in his own words, was teaching them to "think on their hind legs" so that they could represent the University well in the "battle of wits" scheduled against other universities from time to time.

Professor Fogg is gone, but his "Think Shop" is going to remain. Posters, papers, books and files which have accumulated in University Hall 106-A are still there. The traditional "Think Shop" is unchanged. The two desks, one for the negative and one for the affirmative team are in their same place. The blackboard and bulletin board are in their same spots. Even a few notices dating as far back as 1916 remain on the official bulletin board. Alumni of the only class of the University which maintains an active alumni can visit it and renew memories.

"Clear, analytical thinking; rapid fire, straight-to-the-point refutation; 'snapper' sentences; forceful, aggressive delivery", all stressed by Professor Fogg, will be continued in the twenty-sixth year of the "Think Shop".

The University of Minnesota need not worry about the necessity for conducting a "More and Better Men" contest for some time, according to the registrar's office. There are about twice as many men at Minnesota as women this year.

Huskers Trounce Kaggies 3-to-0

by this time that both teams were forced to depend upon exchange of punts for yardage and wait for a fumble that might bring them a scoring opportunity. Cochrane was getting better distance on his punts, and Stephens was continually placed in the predicament of kicking a slippery ball from his own goal line—where a fumble might spell the difference between victory and defeat. The Aggies made two desperate attempts to tie the score with a dropkick, but one effort was blocked by Stiner and the other fell short.

Despite the predictions of rain, the widespread interest in the game and the added attraction of Homecoming Day brought the largest crowd of the season to yesterday's clash. Hundreds of Nebraska Grads and the large attendance of Aggie students, which included the two pep organizations and the forty-piece band, nearly filled the west stand. Between the halves the crowd was entertained by a Corn Cob Homecoming stunt, the Kaggie-Husker cross-country meet, and a few track events.

Northwestern Takes Steps to Curb Number Of Women Registering

Evanston, Ill. (By New Student Service)—Women are storming some co-educational institutions, to the dismay of college authorities. Northwestern University has taken steps to defend itself against feminine encroachment. A new law has been passed, according to Dean Raymond A. Kent, providing that there must be 450 men for every 350 women. The action was taken, he said, "in order to increase the professional atmosphere of Northwestern, and to protect the men". Oberlin College has taken steps to attract more men to the campus.

The University of Minnesota need not worry about the necessity for conducting a "More and Better Men" contest for some time, according to the registrar's office. There are about twice as many men at Minnesota as women this year.
