Sigma Chi Beat Theta Chi 19 to 13; Acacia Wins From D. U. Five

Phi Sig's Contest Easy

Kappa Sigma Cagernon Defeat Phi Kappa With a 25-19 Score

With Carrothers and Minor starring, the Sigma Chi fraternity defeated the Theta Chi by a score of 19 to 13. Chief Elkins, the Theta Chi star Indian athlete, showed up well until he was injured in the last half. Van Wee, substituting for the Theta Chi, made four of the losers points in the last few minutes.

The Delta Upsilon, tourney champs of two years ago, were defeated by a fast aggregation representing the Acacia fraternity. Chadderdon, playing with the winners, was the star of the contest while the guarding of Karnes featured the playing of the losers.

Janulewicz, playing forward on the Phi Kappa quintet, showed up in fine style against the Kappa Sig. He scored a majority of the total points garnered by his team and was a wizard on the floor. The score stood 10 to 7 in favor of the Phi Kappa's at the half. The Kappa Sig proceeded to stage a continuous comeback and really won the game early in the final canto.

Phi Sigma Kappa allowed the Xi Psi Phi's only two points in their game on the freshman court and took the contest with a 26 to 2 score. The all-around ability of Andrews at center was a feature of the game.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HAS MEETING HERE

Fiftieth Annual Session Is Held on University Campus Tuesday

SNELL NEW PRESIDENT

Officers for Year Chosen; Day Is Filled With Addresses

The Nebraska State Historical Society held its fiftieth annual meeting in Art Hall of the University Library on Tuesday, January 11.

The morning was taken up in a business session with annual reports by the president, superintendent, secretary, treasurer and the various committees. Three members of the society were elected to the Executive Board. After this election, miscellaneous business matters were discussed.

Superintendent Addison E. Sheldon was next on the program. He presented the Judge E. S. Ricker Collection of manuscripts, photographs, and books on the Indian Wars of the Plains which was received by the Nebraska State Historical Society November 2, 1926. Judge Ricker is an old-time resident of Chadron where he has lived for twenty-five years.

Manuscript Given
A manuscript was given to the Historical Society in 1926 by Miss Rose Rosicky of Omaha. This paper took up the "History of the Bohemian People in Nebraska." This paper was written in both Bohemian and in English.

At 12 o'clock the Historical Society Board met at the University Club. An election of officers and elective members for the year of 1927 was held, and the following people were elected to office:
N. Z. Snell, president... Lincoln
The Rev. Richard A. Shine, first vice-president... Plattsmouth
James F. Hanson, second vice-president... Fremont
Don L. Love, treasurer... Lincoln
John F. Cordeau... Lincoln
Novia Z. Snell... Lincoln
John W. Robbins... Omaha
A. T. Hill... Hastings

Ex-Officio Members
The ex-officio members of the Historical Society Executive Board are Governor Adam McMullen, Chancellor Samuel Avery; W. A. Brown, president Nebraska Press Association; and Charles A. Goss, Chief Justice of supreme court of Nebraska.

The afternoon session of the Nebraska Historical Society began at 2 o'clock in Art Hall at the University Library. President W. E. Hardy presided. Prof. John D. Hicks, chairman of the department of history was first on the program. He lectured on "The State Historical Society Collections and the University." N. Z. Snell followed with a paper on "The Story of the Nebraska Insurance Code."

WOMAN'S PLACE IS DISCUSSED

McCannell Describes Change Of World's Attitude Existing Today

"Woman's place in society is not determined by whether she votes or not, but by the influence she exerts," declared Bishop Francis J. McCannell yesterday afternoon at vespers at Ellen Smith Hall.

The speaker went on to draw a comparison between the old idea that women had not the mental capacity of man and therefore could not be expected to meet intellectual problems in a practical and judicial manner with the increasing evidence of today that intelligent problems must be referred to women because women are practical and because they are able to have intelligent understanding of the problems.

Men in Business
"It may be that this condition is true because of the existing social organization," said Bishop McCannell. "The intelligence of man goes into business and professional life into his daily tasks. Women have more leisure to devote to the consideration of questions."

"Never before in the history of Christianity has so much been asked of Christianity outside of the Church as there is today." People outside of the church are asking searching questions of this religion, and Christian women must recognize their responsibility in answering them intelligently.
Blanche Stevens led vespers and the special music was a vocal solo by Grace Rogge, accompanied by Ruth Ann Coddington.

"A Fair Chance for Mexico," Is McConnell's Request of America

McCannell Will Speak At World Forum Today

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, who is addressing a series of convocations in Lincoln this week, will speak at World Forum at the Grand Hotel this noon.

Tickets were on sale yesterday and a limited number may be secured at the door today for thirty-five cents. Bishop McConnell's talk will be over in time for students to return to the campus for 1 o'clock classes. He will speak on some phase of the subject: "Religion and Human Values."

3,786 REGISTER FOR NEXT TERM

Enrollment Nearly Complete After Late Students Finish Saturday

When the registration books closed Saturday noon, approximately 3,786 students had registered for the second half of the 1926-1927 scholastic year. The usual late-comers have been straggling in all week to register and pay their three dollar late registration fee. The Agricultural College has not completed the figures on the second semester enrollment, but to date the number registered is 350.

Arts College First
The College of Arts and Sciences led the list of colleges with a total enrollment reported from Dean Candy's office of 1,331. The Teacher's College, which usually has the largest enrollment, has 1,250, as reported from Dean Sealock's office. Dean Ferguson reports 502 registered in the Engineering College. The School of Fine Arts reports 227, Pharmacy, 102; Dentistry, 95; Law, 156; and 123 in the School of Journalism.

No report from the Graduate College has been turned in as yet, but the number in that college will probably be about 260.

Daily Nebraskan Inquiring Reporter

Every day he asks a question from different students picked at random on the campus.

Today's question: What question would you like to have the Inquiring Reporter ask?

Asked at different places on the campus.

Dean Hammond, A. S., '29, Holdrege.

"What building on the campus do you like the best?"

Adrian Woustoupal, Biaz, '29, West Point.

"Does military training cause militarism?"

W. D. Lundy, Biaz, '29, Lincoln.

"How soon do you think the University should build a new library?"

Richard Spohn, Biaz, '29, Weeping Water.

"Do you think that there are too many required courses to take in order to obtain a college degree?"

Katherine Allen, A. S., '28, Omaha.

"To what cause do you attribute the lack of interest in the Varsity Parties?"

Gerald Elso, A. S., '28, Kansas City, Mo.

"Of what value do you think the study of Greek and Latin is in a modern university?"

Kenneth Lewis, A. S., '27, Lincoln.

"Do you think that the athletic department is fulfilling its promise to make athletics available for all?"

Braker Teaching Fellowships Are Offered to Students of Economics

Four teaching fellowships in Tufts College, each carrying an annual stipend of $1,000 and free tuition, are now open to holders of A. B. or B. S. degrees who wish to secure the A. M. degree in economics, according to a letter just received by Dean J. E. LeRosaignol of the College of Business Administration. These scholarships were donated by Henry J. Braker, and are known as the Braker Graduate Teaching Fellowships in Economics.

Any student, man or woman, who is a graduate of a recognized college and who has shown superior ability in the field of economics, is eligible. Those who have shown teaching ability, in work as student assistants or otherwise, will be given preference. Well rounded personality, as measured by participation in extra-curricular activities, will also be taken into account when the selections are made.

"The Beggar Country With a Bag Of Gold," Has Not Been Given Chance to Present Her Cause, Declares Noted Bishop.

A fair chance for Mexico, the beggar country with a bag of gold, is the cause around which Bishop Francis J. McConnell, noted speaker and bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church of Pittsburgh, Pa., who is delivering a series of lectures here under the auspices of the local federation of church workers, is centering his interests.

"Mexico has had no chance to present her cause to the people of America," declared Bishop McConnell Tuesday afternoon, when interviewed by a member of the Nebraska staff. America is passing judgment from the point of view of Mexico's commercial and financial interests.

"It is true," the Bishop continued, "that there are great resources in Mexico and that the Mexicans do not know how to make use of them; but on the other hand there are fifteen millions of people in this territory who have never had any kind of a chance.

Save Himself
"If foreigners are to be allowed to go in here and take possession the prospects for Mexico are not very bright. Mexico has tried to present her case, she is only trying to save for herself."

Bishop McConnell has spent some eight years in Mexico and expects to return there in February. He says that he believes Mexico has a right to fair play, his careful observation of the prevalent conditions in this country have firmly convinced him that there is nothing bolshevik in their attitude; they are working entirely for self-development.

Hold Resources
Mexico is trying to hold her resources until she can provide means to take care of them. The question is, as analyzed by Bishop McConnell, whether we are to allow foreigners to go into this rich field, take possession of that which rightfully belongs to these Mexican peoples, and thus deprive them of any chance for development, or whether, on the other hand, we are to assist them, give them the chance that we have had and profited by, and above all, give them a fair deal.

"Nearly every day we read in our papers tales of the Mexican situation," Bishop McConnell pointed out. "The situation is one in which action must be taken. We must develop a sympathetic attitude toward Mexico, we must be able to see her point of view as well as our own; it is only when we have reached a place where we are able to see that we must give to Mexico rather than take from her, that we can support her as we should."

Noyes Is Guest Of Chemical Society

Dr. W. A. Noyes, retired chairman of the department of chemistry at the University of Illinois, will be a guest of the Nebraska section of the American Chemical Society Thursday and Friday of this week.

He will speak before the regular section meeting Thursday evening in Chemistry Hall. The meeting will be open to the public.

He will be a guest of the Chemistry Department Thursday at a dinner given at the University Club.

Where Bishop McConnell Will Lecture Wednesday

Bishop Francis McConnell, who is the guest of the University for three days, will give the following addresses today:
World Forum, at Grand Hotel, noon.
Social Science auditorium at 4 o'clock, informal discussion.
St. Paul M. E. church, 7:15 o'clock on "Christianity and Human Values."

BISHOP THINKS AMERICANS ARE NARROW-MINDED

McCannell Describes World Conditions Tuesday At Convocation

SAYS FORCE IS FUTILE

Lack of Understanding in Human Race Retards Civilization

That the unwillingness of the members of the human race to grasp each other's point of view is largely to blame for the condition of the world at the present time, was the opinion of Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, Pa., who spoke on "Through Other Men's Eyes," at the University Convocation yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the St. Paul M. E. church.

This lack of mutual understanding has done more to set back civilization than any one thing according to Bishop McConnell. It does not necessarily result in a racial suicide, but in an impairment of the higher values of life.

"We are now beginning to realize that any use of force is futile," he continued.

Agreement Best

Physical force does not lead to an understanding. Agreement is the basis of understanding. This will be reached only when we study industrial, racial, social, and international matters from every possible point of view.

The Chinese are the only people who have retained their national integrity. If they were sealed in by a great wall, they would still be able to get along together, because of their aptitude for practical compromises. If Christian nations were placed in a similar situation, there might not be any one left, was the prediction of the speaker.

Americans are prone not to look at anything except their own point of view. Many 100 per cent Americans have no per cent for anyone else. Although they are the best-intentioned people, they are devoid of the power of seeing more than one side of a question.

Understanding
It may be argued that a thorough understanding of other nations and peoples is impossible. Nevertheless, we can understand enough to get along. No man ever lived who thoroughly understood the feminine point of view. Yet by a spirit of co-operation, perfect harmony may be attained.

Bishop McConnell related the following incident to prove the soundness of his theory: One hundred experts on Chinese affairs were selected to pick out the books which best described their nation. A book by Prof. E. A. Ross of Wisconsin University stood with two others at the head of the list. Although he had not been in China for more than six months, he had discovered that the essential point of their civilization was the family, and set about to obtain their point of view.

As a result, Professor Ross gained an understanding which placed his book on a par with authors who had lived in China all their life.

Bishop McConnell emphasized our need of a powerful social imagination, and a spirit of cooperation in order to bridge the chasm which now exists between nations and peoples.

LUTHERANS WILL MEET SATURDAY

Conference Reports To Be Given At First Club Gathering In Faculty Hall

The Lutheran Club will hold its first meeting of the year next Saturday evening, January 15, in Faculty Hall in the Temple. Reports will be given by members of the organization who attended the International Conference of the Lutheran Student Association of America at Madison, Wis., during the holidays. The election of officers for the coming semester will also be held.

Prof. O. Philip Hudson, organist and choir leader at the Grace Lutheran church, will be the speaker of the evening. His topic will be "The Comparison of the Renaissance of History with the Renaissance of Today." All Lutheran students are especially urged to be present.

Swezey Describes Moon at Lecture

Prof. G. D. Swezey, in his regular monthly lecture last evening at the observatory, gave a "General Description of the Moon."

The weather did not permit his guests to look through the telescope. The lecture was illustrated with lantern slides.
