Student Organizations in Chile and Brazil Disapprove of American Marines Supporting Diaz

Organizations of students in Brazil and Chile have protested against the sending of United States marines into Nicaragua to bolster up the Conservative Diaz regime, according to "The New Student."

In Santiago, Chile, a public movement was launched "against the attitude of violence adopted by the United States in Nicaragua." Labor unions appointed delegates to the committee in charge of the demonstration, and the Students Club has sent a message to a convention of professors, asking them to join in the movement.

A students' organization of Buenos

Aires sent a telegram of congratulation to Senator Borah expressing gratitude at his "defense of Nicaragua," and for showing the people in the United States the "true situation."

Would Boycott American Goods
In Mexico City, an association of Central Americans to boycott American goods, until the marines are withdrawn from Nicaragua, is being led by Juan Nella, a Cuban student. The association has already sent telegrams to American political leaders demanding the withdrawal of American troops.

"American interference" was vigorously opposed at a Mexican Student Federation meeting, Oaxaca, Mexico. The meeting adopted a protest renouncing the "Yankee imperialism which is actually invading the sovereignty of Nicaragua and puts in danger the sovereignty of Latin American nations."

Endeavor to Arouse Youth

The students invoke the "spiritual strength of Latin countries which are now threatened by the American plutocrats, again putting in danger the safety of republics allied to us." They declare it the sacred duty of the youth of Mexico to face "the bastard interests of Wall Street."

From Paris come messages to President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, protesting against the "landing of American marines in Nicaraguan territory in violation of the most elementary principles of law." The General Association of Latin Students of Paris is author of the message.

Women at the Adventist College at Walla Walla, Wash., are required to wear their dresses to within 12 inches of the floor.

Just where do the styles come from anyway?

In England, of course, the matter has been made very simple. The whole thing is left up to the Prince of Wales.

You can see at once how easy that makes the clothes question for the Britishers—

When the Prince takes a quiet stroll about London, accompanied by a regiment or two of cavalry and six military bands, all the villagers take careful note of the royal costume.

Then each loyal subject rushes overt to Bond Street and buys one exactly like it.

Over here, we have no Prince worth putting in the saddle, and the movie heroes are too jealous of each other for any one of them to take the lead. There's nothing to do—when it comes to college clothes at least—but let the styles be decided by the men who are going to wear them. Sounds rather reasonable, at that. Our college men know clothes and they have their own ideas as to what they want to wear. We'd back their judgment against that of royalty any day!

P. S. We carry Society Brand college clothes because they are designed exactly as college men have said they should be. You'll not find any more distinctive clothes anywhere.
