

TRACK MEN IN TRI-COLOR MEET

First of Seven Tri-Color Meets For Non-Varsity Men Is On Day's Track Schedule

Varsity track and field tryouts and the first of seven tri-color meets for non-varsity men hold the stage on the indoor track at the stadium starting promptly at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

From three to five varsity men will be selected in each event for the opening track meet of the season Saturday night against the combined strength of the Nebraska college conference teams. This meet will be held on the indoor track, the first meet the Huskers have ever held indoors on their own track.

Team Captains Chosen
Captains of the colleges represented in the tri-color meet were chosen Monday. Dexter was elected captain of the arts and sciences, Dickson of business administration candidates, Elkins of the teachers and Paul Mousel for the engineers. Captains for the dental, pharmacy, law, and agricultural colleges will be chosen this afternoon.

Beginning promptly at 4 o'clock with the 50 yard dash, varsity tryouts and the tri-color meet will be carried on jointly. Coach Schulte plans on running events off exactly on scheduled time getting the whole meet over between 4 and 5:45. Five places will be awarded in the tri-color meet in each event. Seventy-five athletes are eligible to compete in the tri-color meets. Others may become eligible by winning three numeral points.

HUSKER GRAPPLERS MEET AMES FRIDAY

Iowa Staters, Holding Wins Over Kags, Tigers, and Penn State, Will Try to Keep Slate Clean

The Nebraska grapplers will meet the strong Iowa State team at the Coliseum Friday evening, in a Missouri Valley conference meet.

Iowa State is recognized as having the strongest wrestling team in the Valley, having defeated all the Valley schools they have met this season and also taking several other meets with outside schools. The Ames wrestlers defeated the Penn State grapplers 24 to 3, the Kansas State Agricultural College 19 to 8, Missouri, 29 to 0.

Same Men on Husker Team
The men who wrestle the Ames grapplers will be the same that beat out the Missouri Tigers. Kish in the 115-pound class, Karrer in the 125-pound class, Captain Brannigan in the 145-pound class, Luff in the 135-pound class, Toman in the 158-pound class, Lundy in the 175-pound class, and Davis in the heavyweight division.

"The Nebraska team performed much better at Missouri than in the Kansas Aggie meet," was the statement issued by Coach Kellogg, the Nebraska wrestling coach.

The Cyclone mat squad has suffered a severe loss in Gerling, the 135-pound wrestler who broke his leg in a Varsity workout last Wednesday, but the Cyclones are coming to Lincoln with a determination to keep their Valley slate clean and take the Huskers in to camp.

The Kansas Aggie basketball team enjoyed their few hours of undisputed Missouri Valley cage leadership just before the Aggie-Oklahoma Aggie game last Friday. The rejuvenated Oklahoma A. & M. five ran through the Wildcat defense for a deluge of baskets, winning the tilt 29 to 21 and pushing the Kansas

Farmers back to a tie with the Sooners and on Saturday the Kaggie quint went down to defeat at the hands of the Sooners and dropped into a third place tie with the Oklahoma Aggies.

The Oklahoma Daily doesn't want to crab, but it thinks that Ted Page, the Husker giant should be made to play on his knees.

The Associated Press measures Page as six feet, seven inches, while the only figures we have on the big boy are six feet, four inches. Harold Keith in the Oklahoma Daily says that if Page outjumps Holt, the Sooner pivot-man, then the A. P. is right and if he doesn't then we are right. We are not right according to Oklahoma yardsticks, for Page got the tip-off from the tall Holt just about whenever he pleased.

The Aggies from Stillwater had Page's number from the first whistle and the big center was watched so closely that he could only manage to get through the Aggie defense for one lone tally.

The basket-eye of the Husker guards in the Sooner-Husker clash at Norman Friday was another feature of the evening's performance. Gerelick and Holm sunk two long ones from mid-court that sizzled through the net strings. From all appearances it looks like Coach Black's machine was functioning perfectly against the Sooners.

Returning from Soonerland with but one practice session before the Nebraska-Grinnell clash on the Coliseum floor tonight, the Husker basketballers are ready for the Grinnell Pioneers who invade the stronghold of the Cornhuskers tonight.

Coach Kellogg and his Husker grapplers returned victoriously from Columbia, Mo., Sunday, where the Nebraska wrestlers took the mat meet from the Missouri Tigers 21 to 8. Nebraska meets Iowa State at Lincoln on Friday and this match is considered the hardest hurdle on the Husker schedule and if the Nebraska grapplers are successful in this meet, the rest of the year should be comparatively easy sailing.

With the Oklahoma trip now history, several things happened in the uncertain Missouri Valley cage race. Captain Clark Smaha jumped from fifth to fourth place for high scoring honors in the Valley. The lead in the Valley changed from a tie to the lead by the Oklahoma Aggies, and again on Saturday changed to Oklahoma alone, and pushing the heretofore conference leading Kaggies to third place. The Nebraska five led off the series of upsets that took place over the week end when they beat the Sooners. Then followed the trimming of the Kansas State five by Oklahoma A. & M. and the Sooners.

Nebraska meets the leaders of the Missouri Valley at Lincoln on February 19.

TRANSFER RULING HITS SOONER TEAMS

Oklahoma Athletic Teams Have Seen Frequently Aided by Stars From Small Colleges

Norman, Feb. 7. (Special)—Sooner athletic teams which in the past occasionally have been strengthened by the transfer of star from other schools in the state, will be particularly hard hit by the transfer ruling of the Missouri Valley conference which is in effect this year.

Heretofore participation during the freshman year of college teams did not affect the eligibility of men who later transferred to the University and became eligible for three years of athletic participation. Frequently stars attended junior colleges, teachers colleges or denominational colleges of Oklahoma and after playing during their freshman year, and enrolled here later to become stars under Sooner colors.

university include Frank Potts, football and track star; Prentiss Mooney, football quarterback, and Harry Pinkerton, basketball guard. There have been many others, equally famous in past years.

Under the new ruling, any athletic participation beyond the high school, regardless of the standing of the school represented, counts as a year of competition in the Missouri Valley in case the student transfers to the University.

With the loss of competition thus shortened, the university will undoubtedly lose athletes in the future who might otherwise transfer here and become eligible for athletics. Most athletes, the coaches here believe, will either come here for their entire four year course, or will remain for the full period of participation in the school in which they first enroll.
