IN THE VALLEY

By JACK ELLIOTT

Seventeen schools scattered through ten states hold the 26 records for events on the program of the annual Kansas Relays. In the University and college class events the University of Nebraska leads all others with records for three events, the half mile relay, the hundred yard dash and the 120 yard high hurdles. The other institutions holding two records are Kansas, Iowa State, Kansas State Teachers of Emporia, Occidental College of Los Angeles, and Northeast High school of Kansas City, Mo.

Practically all of the record holders will be back to try to better their marks at the Fifth annual Kansas Relays at Lawrence on April 23. The half-mile relay record of 1:26.6 held by the University of Nebraska is a world record and will take some classy running to better that mark.

At last we have found one Missouri Valley coach and incidentally the first one we have found in the country to favor the new 1928 basketball ruling, restricting the player to but one dribble. Coach Bill Chandler of Iowa State College and head basketball coach says in regard to the new ruling, "It is the biggest step forward since the inauguration of basketball. One man teams will be hit hard by the new rule," says Chandler, "but it will speed up the passing attack and increase the number of shots at the basket."

This department is putting itself in the place of a prophet and predicts the new ruling of a one-bounce dribble to last exactly one year. Instead of being under the opinion that the new rule is a step forward, we are inclined to believe it is a step backward. The main object of the rules committee as they sat debating for three hours on the new rule, was to eliminate the stalling game. Morton high of Cicero, Illinois, who won the National high school basketball tournament at the University of Chicago this month, used the stalling game in fifty percent of all their games. Kansas University used this system of tactics to a very good advantage against Nebraska when the Jayhawkers played the Huskers at Lincoln last winter.

As far as this point is concerned, all is well and good, but will the one bounce dribble eliminate the stall game? We think not, as a team bent on wasting the last few minutes of a game can very easily stand down in one corner and pass the ball around without using the dribble.

Durham Time

Stiner has left school, so our side now holds the whip hand in the Innocents again. The vote is now six to five. (Noirling, Jensen, Jones, Davenport, and Jorgensen jump up excitedly and yell "Hurrah, we may all get in yet!")

Hoagland: Well, you don't need to be so darned happy, we've got plenty of work to do. We sure got fringed on the last Kosmet Klub election. (There is much wailing and gnashing of teeth.)

(More knocks on the door and Wallace drags in.)

Someone near the door: Well, here's Wallace, the Beta.

Wallace: Hello, fellas. (They all rejoice over the return of the lost Beta to the fold. Handshaking, etc.)

Hoagland: I have a communication here from the other side.

Someone: What, those rough-necks daring to send us a letter? Well, read it!

Hoagland (Reads the letter): "Dear Fellow Cornhuskers—The honor and grand old traditions of our glorious University are being undermined by our petty campus politics. We think that it is high time that we begin working together and put our shoulders to the wheel to do away with fraternity politics. If you will agree not to attempt to put through a slate in the coming class elections, we will do likewise. Yours for a bigger and better and more glorious Nebraska. Signed, Tommy Wake, for the other side." What'll we do about it?

Noirling: They must know they haven't got a chance in this election.

Jorgensen: Look here, this's our chance to catch 'em right and clean up in this election.

Noirling: How's that?

Jorgensen: Well, we'll write 'em a letter saying that we agree with them and think their plan is good. Then we can catch 'em unprepared and put our slate across.

Hoagland: Sounds like a good idea. All is in favor of sending such a letter signify by the usual sign.

All of them (Putting fingers to lips): SSSShhh!

Hoagland: It is unanimous. Jones, you send the letter. Now, let's get down to business and make up our slate. We've got to get some good candidates and get organized right and clean up on this election. We will now open nominations for senior president. We want to get a good man who will pull some barb votes. (Wallace, Davenport and Jones jump up.)

All three: Mr. Chairman! (Wallace gets floor.)

Wallace: Gentlemen, I rise to nominate a man who has worked faithfully, though quietly for our faction. He has stood true and firm for the principles of our faction. He has voted at every election—aye, many times—for our candidates. He, furthermore, is a Beta; and, gentlemen, need I tell you that since 1870 Beta Theta Pi has not had a senior president. His nomination, my friends, will also to some extent repair the ignominies that Beta Theta Pi has suffered in the past when Varney was beaten for Viking president, for example, or when I was beaten out of everything I have ever tried for. Gentlemen, if you want to do right by the Betas and also gain a stalwart candidate, you will nominate him. (Sits down.)

All: Who is he?

Wallace: Oh yes—Gordon Luikart.

All: Who is he?

Hoagland raps for order, recognizes Jones.)

Jones: Gentlemen, I rise to nominate a man who is widely known on the campus, who will make a fitting candidate for our faction. My friends, he is deserving of this honor and he will do honor to our faction. Just yesterday he set a new broad-jumping record. His name is on the tongue of every loyal Nebraskan. I nominate the captain of our track team, Bobby Stephens! (Sits down.) (Hoagland recognizes Davenport.)

Davenport: Gentlemen, I rise to nominate a man who has made a glorious and illustrious record in our university, a man who is qualified as no other is to gain this honor. I can do no better, my brothers, than to sketch for you the life of this man who rose from humble beginnings to a place of prominence and power. He was given a sound education in the public schools. He went through high school with grades good enough to get by and in his senior year was appointed chairman of the invitations committee. He then came to this university unknown and unrecognized. Not due to this fact, of course, but due to his sound judgment, he pledged Delta. Hardly had he been here two weeks when his merit was recognized and he was elected—squarely and fairly and solely—because of his qualities of leadership—to the presidency of Green Gobblins. Since then his rise has been steady. He has been a member of Green Gobblins, Iron Sphinx, Vikings, Commercial Club, Alpha Kappa Psi, Pershing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade, Sigma Delta Chi, Pi Epsilon Pi, Kosmet Klub, and the Y. M. C. A. He has been on the Cornhusker, The Daily Nebraskan and the Awgwan; he was business manager of the debating team. He would have been a Silver Serpent if Kate Goldstein hadn't blackballed him. And this year, my bretheren, he has brought his career to a glorious climax. He is the leader of the cadet corps and head of the Innocents. My brothers, it is with a heart filled with emotion that I place before you in nomination for senior president that illustrious collegian, Judd Crocker! (Sits down.) (All rise and cheer.)

Hoagland: Are there any further nominations. If not, we will proceed to ballot. The nominees are Luikart, Stevens, and Crocker. The secretary will collect the ballots.

Hoagland: The secretary will read the result.

Jones: Luikart, 6; Stephens, 7; Crocker, 0.

Hoagland: Bobbie Stephens is our candidate for senior president. (Cheers.) Nominations are now open for junior president.

All jump to their feet and shout in unison: Mr. Chairman, I rise to nominate a man who.....

HIGH SCHOOL EVENT HELD ON AG CAMPUS

Thirty Schools Send Young Judges To Twelfth Annual Contests Held Yesterday

The twelfth annual Nebraska high school judging contests, held on the College of Agriculture campus with thirty schools entering almost 250 contestants, was the biggest event of its kind ever held on this campus, according to Prof. C. D. Minter of the vocational education department, who has charge of the arrangements and contests.

The trip to the stockyards and packing house district of South Omaha was attended by 160 boys, some going from Lincoln and the others going direct from near-by towns. They were divided into two groups to go through the packing houses. A trip through the Ford plant in Omaha was a feature. During the trip through the stockyards, one of the boys stepped into a sheep dipping tank, which caused no little merriment at his expense.

Students in the livestock judging, grain judging and identification, and in grain grading classes did practice work for the contests. This gives the contestants a chance to work on material that they did not have at home, and gives all of them a better opportunity.

The number of schools in the various classes follows: livestock judging, 30; Babeck milk test, 24; grain grading, 9; grain judging and identification, 17; egg grading, 26; poultry judging, 25; woodwork, 28.

The schools with their number of entries are as follows: Albion, 6; Ashland, 8; Barnesetton, 5; Bassett, 4; Beatrice, 10; Broken Bow, 13; Burwell, 6; Chappell, 7; Columbus, 10; Eagle, 9; Fairbury, 10; Falls City, 11; Friend, 7; Geneva, 10; Holmsville, 5; Hooper, 8; Imperial, 6; Kearney, 8; Mead, 8; Milford, 5; Milligan, 4; Minden, 8; Nehawka, 4; Pawnee City, 6; Stromsburg, 7; Tecumseh, 4; Waverly, 5; Wilcox, 5; York, 7; Hebron, 4; and Hastings, 7.
