WOMEN TO STAGE BASEBALL TOURNEY

Department of Physical Education Sponsors Games for Co-Eds; Has Proven Popular

Intersorority competition in baseball is scheduled to make its first appearance on the Nebraska campus Monday May 2 at four o'clock. The department of physical education is sponsoring this baseball tournament among the organized groups of co-eds on the campus.

Unlike W. A. A. competition no practices are required for tournament competition. Each dormitory and organized rooming house may enter against the sorority nines. Independent teams may also file providing the team is composed of women who are not playing with any other group.

All games are scheduled at four o'clock and every team will play at least one match game a week until the end of the tournament. Letters have been sent to all sororities and rooming houses urging each to enter a team. Entering teams should file at the Physical Education office before Friday evening.

Leagues to be Formed

The present plan for the tournament is to divide the contesting teams into leagues. Four teams will constitute a league. The teams within the league will play an elimination contest and the winner of each league will play the winner of every other league to determine the champion. A consolation tournament will also be held in which the losing teams will be pitted against the other losers.

The games will be played according to the regulations laid down by the National Women's Baseball Committee at the last meeting. The ball is the type used for men's indoor baseball which is soft enough to be caught without the aid of gloves. It is pitched with an underhand throw.

The following sororities have already sent in an entry: Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Delta Theta, Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Xi, Theta Phi Alpha.

Mr. Webster will probably address the students about his early experiences as a school teacher in northern Michigan and concerning his business and professional careers.

An unusual feature of Mr. Webster's career is that he has been awarded a degree from the University of Michigan though he never completed his work there; this is the only degree ever granted by the University to a man under similar circumstances.

All classes in the Teacher's college will be dismissed at 11 o'clock and juniors and seniors are especially urged to attend as there will be several announcements made at this time which will be of special interest to the upper classes.

Contest Opens For Choice Of Ivy Day Poems

May 15 is the deadline set for the Ivy Day poem contest, according to the committee in charge. The poems are to be turned in to Josephine Frisbee, president of Mortar Board, or any other member of the organization.

The poems may have for their subject-matter anything about Nebraska or Nebraska traditions. The length of the poems is unlimited. The best poem submitted will be printed on the Ivy Day program.

Any student taking twelve hours of work in the University of Nebraska may send in material to the faculty committee until midnight of the date set. Manuscripts must be written and on one side of the paper only.

It has been a custom of the University to collect and publish the best poems in the Nebraska Book of Verse. It is probable that the best poems submitted this year will be published in a similar publication if their quality so warrants.

From the experience of past years, it has been found that most of the work is done at the last minute. This year all students are requested to hand in their work as early as possible.

Decision In Phi Beta Pi Case Reached

A fraternity house, though its inhabitants are "brothers," all is not a family in the eyes of the law according to a decision reached yesterday by the state supreme court in a suit brought by irate residents of Omaha against the Phi Beta Pi fraternity of Creighton University. Justice James R. Miller ruled that fraternity houses are noted for late hours, queer noises, and the "use and abuse of vibrant and sonorous musical instruments," and that they could therefore not be classed as homes.

Residents of one of Omaha's most exclusive residential districts protested against the proximity of a fraternity house and charged that it was contrary to the city zoning laws for such an institution: to locate in their district. The Douglas county supreme court ruled, however, that the zoning laws were "unreasonable and oppressive," and that the fraternity could locate in a district that is restricted to private dwellings.

The higher court's ruling reverses that of the lower court and declares that a fraternity house is a rooming house, not a residence. The court included the fact that the fraternity was well aware of the situation of affairs and that they took chance upon the legality of their step.

The ruling concludes with the statement that the zoning ordinance is well within the exercise of police power, even though the situation affects adversely the property rights of some individual.

TENNIS SEASON FOR WOMEN OPENS SOON

Association Announces That There Is Probability of Tourney Being Held

The Woman's Athletic Association announces the opening of the tennis season for all Nebraska co-eds who are interested. It is probable that if enough women show their interest, by putting in four hours of practice on the courts by May 9, that intersorority competition will be installed as a feature of tournament week. It has been the custom in the past to have inter class competition only.

Any one wishing to practice may choose her own partner and her own time. A record of the practice time and the name of the partner should be filed on the spindle provided in the W. A. A. office in the Armory. Four practices are sufficient to make one eligible for tournament play but more may be taken. Those who are unable to find partners or who are unfamiliar with the game should post a want slip on the W. A. A. bulletin board at the east entrance of the Armory and a W. A. A. member will fill the need.
