

Recently compiled statistics show that nearly 100,000 students are working all or part of their way through American colleges and universities. Of this number, about 40 percent are entirely self-supporting.

Nebraska Has Feature Track Team in 1909

nell College.
But this chapter on track cannot be closed without saying something of the one man at Nebraska who had done more for the Husker school in the past seven years to put Cornhusker track athletes upon the high plane that they occupy today—Dr. R. G. Clapp.

Clapp Held Pole Vault Record
Dr. Clapp graduated from Yale in 1898 and for five years held the world's record in the pole vault. He came to Nebraska in 1902 as physical director of the athletic department and coach, and from that year until the present time Dr. Clapp has held the position at the University of Nebraska as physical director. Dr. Clapp took charge of the Husker trackmen when main rivals of the Huskers were Lincoln high school and the small colleges of the state.

The varsity track team of 1909 was made up of the following men:
Captain Dale McDonald, George, Asbery, Hammond, Reed, C. C. Collins, Campbell, Gable, Perry, Hummel, Hamel, Burke, Amerson, Russell, S. Collins, Wildmar.

Football Was on Slump
Nebraska football was again on the downhill slide and the year 1909 was only partially successful. A look at football in the past at Nebraska shows a diagram that looks like a road through the Ozark mountains. It is full of ups and downs and it seems that this year Nebraska was going on one of the downhill slides. South Dakota was the first game on the Husker schedule and the Cornhusker team was finally whipped together and saved Nebraska from defeat at the hands of the Dakotans.

Knox was the next number on the Scarlet and Cream program and the Huskers managed to set the pace in this game for the Knox eleven.

The reputation of the season depended upon the Kansas game and all plans were laid to defeat the ancient Jayhawk. But the Nebraska eleven could not cope with the Kansas team and were one the short end of the 6 to 0 score. The Nebraska team ended the season with three victories, three-defeats, and two tie games.

Line Played Good Defense
The Cornhusker line from end to end played one of the best defensive games ever seen in the youthful Missouri Valley conference, but the Husker backfield was the weak end of Coach "King" Cole's gridiron machine and was the cause of many of the turnbacks during the season.

The team consisted of Captain Oren Beltzer, Louis Harte, Leroy Temple, W. F. Chauner, H. Rathbone, S. V. Shonka, Louis Magor, V. C. Hascall, Orlando Bentley, E. B. Elliott, A. Sturzenegger, Harry Ewing.

The basketball season of 1909 and 1910 was not a success, the Cornhusker quintet winning but 6 games out of the scheduled 16 that season. When Coach Hewitt, head basketball coach at Nebraska-issued the initial call for basket ball practice in November about fifty men reported for the Varsity squad. Among them were some of the lettermen from the season before and also a great quantity of new and untried material.

The first game of the season was with the Kansas State Agricultural College and the Husker basketballers took a drubbing from the Kansas Farmers 27 to 16. From Manhattan the Husker quintet went to Lawrence for a two game series with the Kansas Jayhawkers. Both games were turned in on the last column. Coach Hewitt's Scarlet and Cream basketballers. The Kansas school which was turning out good basketball teams every year won the championship of the Missouri Valley conference the year of 1909 and 1910.

The Nebraska tennis team of 1910 went through a most successful season and the court game was rapidly taking its place at the Husker school among the other intercollegiate sports.

The University of Indiana has a "blues" department whose purpose is to lend mental aid and encouragement to dependent students.

Field Geology Class to Study In Four States

The class in Field Geology under the direction of Prof. E. F. Schramm will leave Lincoln on or about June 7 for a field study of the important mining camps and old fields of South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, and Utah. Special attention will be given to a study of the mines, mills and ore deposits of the northern Black Hills and the Butte district, Montana, to the coal and oil fields of Wyoming and the mining districts of Utah.

One division of the field class will make a detailed topographic, stratigraphic and structural map of the Chadron anticline area, which represents a part of the southeast portion of the Black Hills uplift. Considerable attention will be given to a study of glaciation in the eastern part of South Dakota and to the Big Bad Lands located east of the Black Hills.

The famous spodumene and feldspar mines of the Keystone district will be studied and mapped. Six hours credit will be given in this course on final completion of maps and reports.

Summer Camps Make Plans to Train 3,500 Men

Taller by 290 feet of added stature, heavier by 80 tons of new muscle and deeper of chest by 646 feet of extra capacity—these giant-like proportions are physical gains which will be shared by 35,000 young Americans as a result of spending a month in the open air at Citizens Military Training Camps this summer, according to statistics received from the War Department today by Lieutenant Colonel Frank F. Jewett of the Military Science Department.

This tremendous enrollment has been attracted to the camps, as a result of the important place given to athletics in the camp programs. In no other country in the world have young men greater devotion to sports and games than in the United States.

Many of the training camps are located on the sea-shore or on inland lakes and rivers, which give opportunity for bathing and water sports. At the less favored spots, the government has established hygienic and attractive swimming pools. The Red Cross has arranged systematic courses of instruction which lead successful students to final credit as life guards.

Baseball diamonds and tennis courts, with excellent equipment, have been provided everywhere. Boxing is taught for students of all weights. Volley ball, push ball, and fencing are included in the activities.

Each year, high school, normal school, and college football teams, often with their own coaches, find increasing advantages in the Summer Citizens Camps for preliminary training. Track teams enroll from many schools and share in the exceptional training in running, jumping, pole vaulting, shot putting, and javelin and discus throwing, under the instruction of expert coaches.

STEPPING OUT

GET it all. Don't miss any of it, the dizzy lights and party-colored frocks; stepping to the frenzied blare of saxophones; senses tingling with being alive and in the midst of it all. And next day—instructors who are likable but exacting.

To get the most out of college you must be full of vitality, must have every nerve and muscle working full time. Right food is the key to it. The Shredded Wheat habit will help you to make mind and body alert and throw off the poisons that bring sluggishness. You'll like it, too. It's appetizing eaten half a hundred ways; smothered in fruit and cream or toasted with butter and hot milk are just two of them.
