

FULL TEAM TO GO TO KANSAS MEET

Coach Schulte Plans to Take Twenty-Eight to Thirty Men to Battle With Kansas

Despite his gloomy outlook on the Saturday triangular meet at Manhattan, Coach Henry F. Schulte is planning on taking a full team with him to fight it out with Kansas University and Kansas Aggies. He will take twenty-eight to thirty men, leaving Friday noon.

Last hard work of the week was given the varsity cinder burners Wednesday evening. Campbell and Dalley eased through a 6600 in 1:29 and later stepped 300 yards in 33.1 running the last straight away against the wind. Wirsig led Doty and Lowe to the tape in another 300 in slightly over 33 seconds.

Weight men eased off on their work. Hurdlers went through some more stiff drill, crashing over the low hurdles for the bulk of Wednesday's efforts. Jumpers were tapering down although Wirsig took another good workout on the pole vault.

Reed Reports Meeting To Be Well Attended

At the national meeting of the University Extension Associations held recently at the University of North Carolina, Prof. A. A. Reed, head of the extension department, just returned from the annual meeting and reports that directors of extension departments representing about forty institutions attended the conference.

The business meeting was given over to various discussions of extension work and reports of standing committees. The main topic of discussion was in regard to standardization of special credit courses. They tried to agree upon various standards so that universities can recognize the credits for extension work in reference to degrees.

Another topic of interest was radio work in its relation to college courses. A special committee was appointed to see that the value of instruction and information given over the radio by universities is not over-

Meanwell of Wisconsin Upholds The New Basketball Dribble Rule

The new 1928 basketball rules which are causing so much discussion throughout the country and are meeting with a great disapproval in the Missouri Valley are discussed in a late issue of the Big Ten Weekly by Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, head basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Meanwell is a member of the basketball rules committee. His discussion on the new basketball rule, limiting the dribble to one bounce next year follows:

"In the first place the Rules committee consists of a group of twenty men; six members each from the Y. M. C. A.'s of the country, from the colleges and from the Amateur Athletic Union; and two members representing the national organization of basketball officials. Most of these Rules committee men have been serving for many years and the majority of them have had ten years or more of experience on the committee. This would preclude any thought that snap judgment was exercised in the decisions of the committee at any time."

"Further, the committee, through its editor, is in touch with basketball situations throughout the United States and receives hundreds of letters expressing satisfaction or dissatisfaction with rules and suggesting helpful changes. "From all over the country have come to the committee protests against stalling, which in some sections is practically ruining the game. The stall, to be effective as an offensive weapon, is practically always concluded by a dribble. One state-organization wrote to the national committee and stated that unless measures were taken to eliminate the stall, such measures would have to be erected by their own state board and they concluded by stating that the true remedy for the misused stall is the elimination of the dribble.

"It has been observed that over seventy percent of the fouls called in a game have been due to the dribble, either because of the guard held, or because the dribbler charged, very frequently because the dribbler, having passed the guard, was then fouled in the act of dribbling—which is one of the most dangerous plays in the entire game from the standpoint of resultant serious injury.

"Third it was felt that the game was not progressing as a team game to as great a degree as its possibilities would permit. Instead of basketball becoming more and more like football as a great team game, as is entirely possible, it is drifting to the type of baseball wherein individual effort predominates and team cooperation is of rather minor importance. Football is a game wherein one great star can help win the game but can rarely win the game solely by individual effort.

"The committee feels that the team game element was the one to promote, especially for teams in educational institutions wherein the games, after all, are played for the purpose of teaching the lessons of good citizenship rather than for winning championships.

Cornhuskers Win 1910 Valley Championship

Extraordinary as Well as One Of Greatest Seasons For Huskers

COACH COLE ENDS THIRD YEAR SERVICE

XI (Editor's Note)

This is the eleventh chapter of an historical resume of Nebraska athletics which has been compiled by a member of The Daily Nebraskan sports staff. A chapter of this account will appear in each issue of The Daily Nebraskan for the remainder of the school year.

By Jack Elliott

After spending an unsuccessful season on the football gridiron last season the Cornhuskers again started the uphill climb and won the championship of the Missouri Valley conference for the year 1910. It was an extraordinary as well as one on the extra season the Husker school ever experienced. After a lapse of three seasons, Nebraska returned to her position as football champions of the Missouri Valley.

Coach "King" Cole, head football coach at the Husker school in 1910, turned out a championship team his third and last year at Nebraska. Cole had given Nebraska three years of excellent service as a football director and was one of the best the Huskers ever had. He was the man who developed the "Nebraska Spirit" in both the student body and the football squad.

Ewald O. Stiehm succeeded Coach W. Cole as football coach at Nebraska. Stiehm graduated from Wisconsin University in 1909, playing on the Badger team for three years, gaining a position as All-Western center his last two years in football. "Jumbo" Stiehm came to Nebraska as head football coach in 1911 after being out of Wisconsin but one year. The spirit Coach "King" Cole developed at Nebraska was first made evident in the election for the 1910 football captain. Heretofore football captain elections had been a series of electioneering and campaigning by political factions. Bitter feeling was plainly demonstrated in every election but this practice was gradually killed by the Husker coach before he left Nebraska.

The season opener was a practice game with Peru Normal which the Huskers easily won. The second game of the season was South Dakota, which was also scheduled to be a practice game. The first battle of the 1910 season was at Minneapolis against the Minnesota Gophers, the Husker eleven coming out on the short end of the score. The Nebraska eleven gained a wealth of experience in this game and returned to Lincoln with increased determination and as a result trimmed the Denver University eleven by a decisive score.

The greatest game of the season came on November 5 with the Kansas Jayhawkers, the age old rival of all Husker grid machines. Nebraska outclassed Kansas in every department of the game and won the game by the sheer outplaying and outgeneraling its opponents.

By winning the Kansas game, Nebraska clinched the championship of the Missouri Valley and brought home the trophy for the first time in three years. The last game of the season was with the Haskell Indians and a monster crowd turned out to see the big Turkey Day game. The Indians had beaten Nebraska the year before and this year Cole's Husker machine easily outclassed the Redskins and won the game by largest score in the history of Cornhusker football, 119 to 0. This was a fitting climax to one of the most brilliant seasons at Nebraska.

Not to be outdone by the football eleven, the Husker basketball team put a record in Nebraska history that was one of the best if not the best up to this time. The Nebraska quintet finished second in the Missouri Valley race.

After playing mediocre basketball during the opening two weeks of the 1910-11 season the Husker quintet took a long road trip—six games in as many nights and traveling nearly eight hundred miles. Ames, Missouri, and Kansas all in one week without a day's rest. Two victories and four defeats was the result of the trip, but one encouragement of the trip was the defeat the Huskers handed the Kansas Jayhawkers, beating them 36 to 27.

Coach Field, Husker basketball coach, started with a green team and when the season closed had one of the most finished basketball quintets in the conference, and the only team to beat the strong Jayhawker five.

Nebraska's season on the track was quite an unusual one and only in a degree successful. Hard luck was the by-word in the camp of the Cornhusker tracksters all season. There was no track coach until after the season had opened—the track was not completed until late in May—the track team was forced to get in its practice when and wherever it could, and greatest of all, two of the star runners of the team were injured early in the season and were of little service to the team throughout the season.

On May 6 Captain Burke took his band of Scarlet and Cream thinclads to Sioux City for the big meet of the season. The Husker team sprang the surprise of the year by lowering the colors of the Kansas Jayhawker, running away from the Minnesota Gophers, and almost winning the title of Missouri Valley champions. The Cornhusker tracksters broke one conference record, tied another and lowered four old Nebraska marks. (To be continued)

Pageantry is a very important work in that part of the country where the conference was held. The University of North Carolina took all members who attended the meeting to an adjoining county to view a demonstration in dramatic work. About fifteen hundred children presented a pageant showing the history of the state of North Carolina.

“LA ‘ERSKINE SIX’ EST CONFORTABLE AU SUPRÊME DEGRÉ”—L’AUTO, PARIS

“Still setting the style pace, aren't you? Glad I'm not the parent who pays and pays and pays.”

“Ah, that's the point. It's an Erskine Six and economy is its secret passion. Don't judge its cost by its appearance.”

SPEAKING frankly, who cares a fig for bore and stroke, cubic displacement and all of that. The car of today is the one that slips through traffic like an All-American halfback wiggles through a broken field; turns on a dime with nine cents change and pops into a parking space with a hair's breadth clearance front and rear.

To match the spirit of American youth a motor car must have “It.” “It” is the ability to chase the horizon all day without panting; smart good looks that do credit to the intelligence of its owner and riding comfort that wins a sigh of complete ease.

That's why the Erskine Six Custom Coupé is taking America's youth by storm. Style conceived in Paris—design by Dietrich, the master designer—speed that lets you decide whether or not the car behind will pass. And, will it stand up? Studebaker builds it—Q. E. D.

Take possession of an Erskine Six today. Drive it over roads other cars fear. Forget the gearshift lever. Revise all your notions of motoring. You're riding in a car that has set a new pace for others to try and follow.

The Erskine Six Custom Coupé, as illustrated, sells for $2957 f. o. b. factory, complete with front and rear bumpers and self-aligning wheel brakes.
