Bizads Forget Books For Outing Day

(Continued from Page One.) by the score of 10 to 3. The game was featured by the pitching of the faculty team. At 2:30 o'clock the attention of the Bizads was shifted to the ball diamond at 27 and A, where the Bizad team met the Arts and Science ball team in an interesting and hard fought game. At the beginning of the fifth inning the score was tied three and three. During the sixth inning the Bizads rallied and brought in four runs that won the game for them. The final score was 7 to 3.

The Lindell Party house was the next center of attraction, where after five acts, presented by both professionals and amateurs, a dance was held. The feature attraction of the evening was a group of selections presented during intermission by Harriet Cruise Kemmer and Charles Wiles. This closed the most successful Bizad day since the inauguration of the day.

The line-ups for the two baseball games were:

HASTINGS WINS DEBATE TITLE

Fremont drew a bye for the Friday night contest, Hastings and Holdrege tangling for the right to enter the finals, with the Hastonians carrying off a 2 to 1 decision.

A moderate crowd half filled the Temple theater for the final debate. A silver loving cup was given the winning team by the Nebraska Bar Association at the close of the championship debate.

Gunderson Reviews Management of Greeks

(Continued from Page One) quest of the fraternity. The first method, Gunderson showed, was the only really practical one. By the third method, it involved the joining together of all fraternities and sororities, thus scrambling credit ratings, politics, and stirring up natural jealousy between chapters. It would also involve the handling of private funds by outside persons.

Pool buying is the only way in which the organizations may buy more efficiently and conduct business on less money with better management. The only objection, declared Gunderson, would be voiced by the alumni who trade with the local chapters. In pool buying they would lose the trade.

An open discussion followed the address, the general opinion of the other business heads being that they do not care to become officially interested in fraternity and sorority affairs because they do not want to be accused of running private business.

Condra To Accompany Editorial Association

Dr. G. E. Condra, director of the conservation and survey division, has been invited to accompany the members of the National Editorial Association on their ten-day trip through Nebraska and the Black Hills territory following the national convention of the association in Omaha, May 10 to 13.

Dr. Condra will give detailed explanations of the various parts of the state through which the visitors pass. He will also speak on the evening programs which are to be given during the journey. A photographer from the conservation and survey division will also accompany the editors to make a pictorial record of the trip.

When the days seem long and weary—and full of final exams—read the column. It will probably be of more assistance to you than if you had spent the time cramming on all the examination questions that the professor won't ask.

Do You Know The Difference?

Do you know the difference between a hat and a HAT, spelled very appropriately in capital letters? Well a hat is something you purchase to comply with convention and with a hope that it will harmonize with your entire summer wardrobe.

But a HAT! Now that is something worthy of consideration. It means a clever creation that stands out, not because of its own individuality and charm —though most assuredly it can not be lacking in these — but which stands out because it emphasizes the charm of the wearer.

A HAT is chosen because it undeniably was made for the wearer, the dress and the occasion. Because it is the right color and has that elusive thing called style.

But go to Speier's and you'll see the difference between a hat and a HAT.

The Last Busy Days Are Filled So Full

The last few weeks of school are filled with dinners, dances, parties; all in honor of the departing seniors. It is fitting — all this fuss and celebration, but sometimes when the days become so full it is hard to plan a party that is interesting and different.

Then—as always—let George Bros. come to your assistance. A few minutes spent among their favors and decorations, and all your weariness drops from your shoulders and you find yourself planning as enthusiastically as though it were the first party of the year.

There—as always—you'll find favors and decorations that are different. Favors and decorations that will make YOUR farewell party THE one to be remembered.

We Don't Worry About Our Picnics

I should say we don't worry about OUR picnics. Just the good old crowd, a college ford and presto we're off without pausing to pack anything—except perhaps our swimming suits.

We don't give the picnic basket a second thought. Our first thought on that subject brings us at once to the Idylhour—the student's old friend.

Thirty minutes notice and the Idylhour will pack a lunch for you such as you might expect a few weeks hence at mother's hands—with fried chicken, perhaps, or steaks, ready for the fire.

And then, some other day, when you can not go a-picnicking, drop in and try those special Chinese dishes that Mr. Austin has instituted. That Chicken Chow Mien dinner is especially appetizing.

How Is The Summer Wardrobe Coming

Have you come to the jumping off point in your checking account, and still find your vacation clothes inadequate? Then you haven't taken last year's garments and Evan's into consideration.

That old rose georgette, for example, is beyond hope for an afternoon tea again—ever, but a change of color would greatly improve its personality. A dull green or a navy blue and what better could you ask for a traveling dress on those days when a suit is far too warm?

And the white flannel that is yellow from wearing could be died a most engaging pastel shade. An for the blue crepe, all it needs is treatment by Evan's Cleaning Service to make it fresh and sweet once more. Call Evan's.
