

ALUMNI GATHER THURSDAY FOR SIXTH ROUND-UP

Kosmet Klub Will Again Present Cup to Winner of Annual Interfraternity Sing

IVY DAY CEREMONY OPENS Morrill Hall Will Be Dedicated Saturday Afternoon; Play Closes Program

Alumni from all parts of the state and surrounding states will be gathering in Lincoln for the sixth annual Cornhusker Round-Up which begins Thursday, May 26.

The interfraternity sing, conducted by the Kosmet Klub, will open the ivy day ceremonies.

The tradition of the planting of the ivy will be continued Thursday morning when the president of the senior class presents the ivy to the president of the junior class.

The interfraternity sing, which is conducted like the interfraternity sing, will be held Thursday afternoon.

Friday will be Class and College Day. An Alumni council meeting will be held at the Temple building.

The finals of the interfraternity baseball tournament at the drill field, the Law barbeque at the Auto club park, and the thirty-fifth annual competitive drill will be other features of the day.

Saturday is Alumni Day. The last day of the Round-Up, Saturday, will be Alumni Day.

In the morning the various classes are planning reunion breakfasts. At eleven o'clock a general reunion featuring the "Avenue of Years" will be held at the Coliseum.

New Orchestra Will Appear at Midnight Revue

Lincoln's newest jazz orchestra, the Romancers, will make their first appearance at the "Kosmet Klub's Midnight Revue," at the Lincoln theater next Friday after the "Final Frolic," the alumni dance at the Coliseum.

The Romancers, under the management of Jiggs Miller and Chuck Wiles, has recently organized. They have contracted to play during the coming summer season at Estes Park.

The personnel of the orchestra has been selected from the most prominent jazz orchestras in the country. 'SI' Ativaick, the director, is from New York City where he has been directing the orchestra the Palais D'Or.

Mart Gronenhorst, banjoist, has played several seasons on the Orpheum circuit and has been on the Orpheum theater orchestra here the past season. Also from the Orpheum theater orchestra comes the entire saxophone team, composed of Ray Lindeman, Herbert Glosbrenner and Charles Phillips.

Lamar Burling, recently with the Flame Room orchestra in the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis, and a member of the last year's Nebraskans, will play the piano.

The Romancers promise a program of unusual jazz and one adapted to the entertainment of University of Nebraska students and alumni.

Nebraska Gains Reputation for Winning Teams

Victory Over Colgate Is Upset In 1924; Bearg Succeeds Dawson as Coach

NATIONAL RECOGNITION AWARDED CAPTAIN WEIR

This is the twenty-second chapter of an historical resume of Nebraska athletics which has been compiled by a member of The Daily Nebraskan sports staff.

By Jack Elliott

This season of 1924 was coached by Fred T. Dawson, who was spending his last year at Nebraska as head football coach and director of athletics.

Succeeding Coach Dawson was Ernest E. Bearg, who came to Nebraska from Illinois, where he was assistant to the University of Illinois mentor Bob Zuppke.

Nebraska has Three Defeats

Nebraska's last football season under Coach Dawson resulted in three defeats for the Scarlet and Cream warriors and five victories.

The feature of the season was the playing and leadership of Captain Ed Weir, All-American tackle and the most fearless Cornhusker that ever fought for the Scarlet and Cream.

Led by Captain Ed Weir, the Nebraska football team made a good showing during the season of 1924, despite the fact that it lost the first two games on the schedule.

LAST AWGWAN WILL APPEAR ON FRIDAY

May be Secured at College Book Store; is Named "Last Chance"

The last issue of the Awgwan, Nebraska's humorous publication, will be ready for delivery Friday, according to Frederick Daly, business manager.

The cover has been drawn by Bob Barr, '29, depicting a pirate about to take away his treasure.

Copies may be secured at the College Book store. An extra large number are being printed, as the distribution of the magazine during Round-Up Week is expected to increase the sale.

Exhibition of Indian and Persian Shawls are Displayed at Ag Campus

An exhibition of fine Indian and Persian shawls from the Minneapolis Institute of Fine Arts is being held in the Home Economics building, room 302, at the Agricultural College campus.

Lincoln people who are interested in art and in fine textiles have a rare opportunity within the next ten days to study design, color, and mark.

These shawls have increased rather than lessened in artistic value. It is doubtful if they will return to favor as an article of dress, but their great beauty and artistry must inevitably make them sought after as decorative fabrics.

Applications Due for Cornhusker Positions

Announcement has been made by Archibald Eddy, editor of the 1928 Cornhusker, that applications for student life and photograph editors of next year's annual will be accepted at the Cornhusker office immediately.

Final appointments will not be made until next fall but all applications should be in this spring. There is work to be done covering the spring events and the quality of this work will be considered in making the fall appointments.

Bad Luck Ends Hopes of Four Valley Stars

While track and field fans were applauding the winning performances of valley stars at the stadium Saturday, at least four stars who might, barring ill-luck, have been sharing the honors, were shrouded in disappointment.

The four were "Bobby" Stephens, captain of the 1927 Cornhusker squad; "Perly" Wyatt, winner of the 440 in last year's valley meet; Edgington, Missouri sprinter, and Taylor, Oklahoma hurdler.

Stephens hurt his knee shortly after setting a new valley indoor record in the broad jump this spring. Before completely recovering from that injury he pulled a muscle in his leg from which he never fully recovered.
