Only twelve were selected to Mortarboard this year, the first time that the elastic membership clause has been in use. Previously thirteen have been selected to each society. Miss Elsie Ford Piper, assistant dean of women, was masked as an honorary member by Miss H. Alice Howell.

Merle Jones was tapped first for an innocency, carrying with it the presidency of the organization for next year. Other officers as determined by the order in which they were tapped are: Clark Smaha, vice-president; Glen Davis, secretary; Oscar Norling, treasurer; and Thomas Elliott, sergeant-at-arms.

Geraldine Fleming, the first-masked Mortarboard, will be president for next year's group. The other officers will be chosen by the new members.

The tapping plans were upset when one of the new Innocents, Tom Elliott, could not be found. His name was announced to the crowd by Dr. G. E. Condra, founder and sponsor of the Innocents, when he could not be located.

The seven-six split which has characterized the membership of the Innocents for several years was completely broken in the elections for this year's membership, a gain of three being made by the side formerly having seven Innocents with the resulting loss of three to the other side.

Merle Jones, new president of the Innocents, is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Phi, Kosmet Klub and Corn Cobs. He is president of the Corn Cobs.

Clark Smaha is a member of Delta Upsilon. He captained the basketball team last winter and was third high scorer in the Missouri Valley conference.

Glen Davis is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Kosmet Klub. He is a tennis letter-man.

GLEE CLUB FINISHES YEAR SUNDAY NIGHT

Activities of Season Will be Closed With Sacred Concert at Grace M. E. Church

The University Glee club will close its activities for the year with a sacred concert at the Grace M. E. church, twenty-seventh and R streets, at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. This is the second home concert of the year and has been scheduled by special arrangement to give returning alumni an opportunity to hear the program.

"The Voyage of Columbus," a cantata by Dudley Buck, is the feature number of the program. Buck's music is considered among the foremost of American composers and the selection chosen by the club this year represents nicely his ability and style. William Dammé as the priest, Paul Pence as Columbus, and Dean Brown as Rodrigo, are the soloists. The program will be under the personal direction of Prof. Herman T. Decker, director of the club, who will also sing a group of solos. Mrs. Jeanne Decker will play the accompaniments.

Plans are now being laid by James Shans, business manager, for next year. With a number of men from this year's club expected back next semester the club is contemplating a trip during the Christmas vacation in addition to the regular spring trip. A series of home concerts will also be arranged.

MAY QUEEN AND MAID OF HONOR

MARTI PRESENTS IVY DAY ADDRESS

Law Senior Discusses Points For and Against Modern University with "On Trial" as Subject

"The seed of God-like power is in us still; Gods are we, heroes, if we will," quoted Lloyd Martin, of Lincoln, Law senior, in concluding his Ivy Day oration, "On Trial." His address was delivered following the inter-sorority singing contest yesterday afternoon in the arena constructed north of Administration Hall.

After designating the tax-paying public as judge, Marti proceeded to give first, the accusations against the American University. Quoting Roger Babson he alleged that "higher education in America is supplying the nation with sluggards, snobs, athletic morons, and a museum of crazy youths." College students are also supposed to be more irreligious, harder-drinking and more immoral than their counterparts 30 years ago. In the eyes of the public they are time-wasters, not scholarly, and thinking more of social life than of studious activities. They are materialistic, going to school only to learn how to "get the coin."

Much to be Said in Defense

In spite of the results of University Night in Lincoln, when "we demonstrated our inability to stage a decent production," suppression of student magazines and threats of the legislatures to abolish first year pledging because of ill-management of fraternities, there is much to be said in defense of the college student.

Although they seek truth, they are not irreligious. Drinking and immorality are not nearly as rampant as they were in the "good old days."

Donald Jamison was a close third, milking seven pounds in one and one-half minutes.

Two quarts of milk was milked per minute by each of the winners. Ten contestants took part in the contest. In the ladies' egg race, Mrs. Chas. Rosacker, Omaha, won first place; Mrs. Wayne Rolafson, Emerald, second and Mrs. Fred Libbers, Minden, third. Each of the fifteen contestants were required to carry an egg on a spoon for a distance of 50 yards.

The milk drinking contest resulted in William Paden, Rogers, winning first place; Paul Swanson, Stromsburg, second, and O. D. Bolster, Grand Island, third. These contestants showed the greatest skill in drinking milk from bottles supplied with nipples.

ANNUAL COMPET TO FEATURE DAY

Cadets Maneuver on Stadium Field at 1:15 O'clock This Afternoon

"INDIVIDUAL" IS TONIGHT

The Military Department will be the center of attraction in the Round-up exercises this afternoon when it stages its thirty-third annual "Compet" at the Stadium. The program will consist of company and platoon close order drill, and presentation of prizes to the winning organizations. The "Omaha Cup" is to be awarded again this year to the winning company. General Pershing first won this cup at a national drill competition in Omaha in 1892. He took a company from the University military unit to the competition and easily brought home the cup. Since that time it has been awarded each year to the winning company at Compet. The name of each winning company is engraved on the cup.

The prize for the platoon drill is a silver loving cup offered by the Lincoln Theater. It is to be presented yearly to the winning platoon. Last year it was won by a platoon from Company H.

The companies will be judged on a general company inspection, manual of arms, and close order drill. These will count 100, 50, and 200 points respectively. The total possible number of points will be 350.

Platoons will be judged on manual of arms and close order drill only. The manual of arms will count 25 points and the close order drill will count 75. The judges will include several regular army, reserve, and national guard officers.

Only Two Granted Excuses from Military Science Because of Size

Numerous and varied have been the reasons presented by students wishing permanent excuses from military science, and some of them have been granted, but only two students have ever been excused because of their size, according to Col. F. F. Jewett, in an interview yesterday. Theodore C. Page of Crete, who towers six feet eight inches in the air, was too tall to get into any of the uniforms belonging to the R. O. T. C., and Otto Dillon of Bostwick, with an even five feet, was too small. Page who is a senior in the Teachers' College this year, has found his height advantageous in other ways as well as in evading drill. He was regular center on the University basketball team during the last season, and an adept at dropping the ball in the basket without the trouble of throwing it. Dillon is a freshman in the College of Agriculture.
