HUSKERS' HOPES HEIGHTEN WITH ELKINS' RETURN

Weather Man Furnishes Ideal Conditions for Bear's Gridiron Warriors

COACH OMITTS SCRIMMAGE

Oakes Sends Linemen Through Stiff Workout; Quintet of Punters Out

The Nebraska weather man gave Coach Ernest Bear some ideal football weather Monday evening and the result was the first real workout for the Nebraska pigskin luggers since practice started last Thursday. A two hour workout which included a little bit of everything was Bear's program for the evening.

The blocking body was brought out on the field and the backfield men took a thirty minute workout on the dummies, limbering up and toughening up their shoulders. This was the first real tackling exercises Bear's proteges have received this fall.

Oakes Drills Linemen

Coach Oakes took his linemen through the afternoon workout on the charging sled and getting some fundamental signal plays. No scrimmage was held, but Bear drilled his Cornhuskers on signal plays.

"Chief" Elkins donned the mole-skins last night for the first time this fall and was limbering up his educated toe. Elkins will be a big cog in Bear's machine this fall on the punting and passing end of the game. His punts for the first night out were averaging 50 to 60 yards with the wind. After a few weeks practice Elkins should be one of the best booters in the Missouri Valley. Blue Howell and Claire Sloan were keeping up with Elkins and were booting the pigskin down the field for 45 and 50 yards to each punt. Witte and Bronson are included in the quintet of punters.

Sloan and Elkins
In case Elkins decides to stay out of football for this fall, Claire Sloan looks like the best Bear has for a consistent punter. Sloan and Elkins were the two backfield men who helped beat the Kansas Aggie freshmen last year.

Captain "Jug" Brown is taking it easy for the opening workouts on account of the injured knee he received last fall. Coach Bear thinks that the injured member will not bother the Husker captain after a few weeks of practice but nevertheless no chances are being taken to cause an injury in the early stages of the practice season. "Jug" was calling signals in the signal drill with Prensell at full, and Howell and Sloan at the halves.

HARRIERS HOLD TRYOUTS FRIDAY

"Jimmy" Lewis Starts Work in Schulte's Absence; Three Letter Men Return

Fifty candidates for Nebraska's 1927 cross-country team will go over the regular five mile course Friday afternoon in the first tryout of the season. "Jimmy" Lewis, assistant cross-country coach, announced Monday afternoon.

With three of last year's lettermen back, Coach Lewis thinks prospects for a strong team are bright. The Friday tryout will be the first indication of what other strength the Huskers can muster in the harrier sport.

Coach Lewis, handling the thin-clads in the absence of Coach Henry F. Schulte, who is holding football meetings through the state, urges all men interested in cross-country to take part in Friday's run as a conditioner, as well as running to give the coaches a line on their material.

Sprague, one of last year's three letter-men who is again eligible, was unheard of before the first tryout last year, when he finished third. The other lettermen in suits are Captain Glen Johnson and Norris Chadderton. Dickson, letterman from three years ago and substitute on last year's team, is also back in suit.

Band, Innocents, Corn Cobs, Tassels Prepare for Freshman Convocation

Cornhusker Oath Will Be Given to Yearling Students in Midst of Induction into Nebraska Pep; Ceremonies Thursday

Freshmen of the university will be formally initiated into the school Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. All freshmen classes meeting at 10 and 11 Thursday will be dismissed. The convocation, which is a yearly tradition of the university, will be held in the Coliseum.

The university band will open the ceremonies with a short concert in front of the Social Sciences building at 9:45, and will then parade to the Coliseum. Freshmen are expected to take part in the parade if possible, and should go to the Field house if not.

Jones Will Speak

Student organizations will be excused from classes to assist in the initiation, each group having its own duties. The Innocents will preside at the meeting, and Merle Jones, president, will welcome the new students. The Vikings have charge of directing the yearlings to the scene of the convocation. Iron Sphinx and Silver Serpents will sell the tickets for the green caps and buttons, official emblem of an incoming class.

The two pep organizations, Corn Cobs and Tassels will see that each freshman receives a copy of the songs and yells of the university. Other student organizations are expected to be present to perform minor functions.

Amos Leads Yells

"Nick" Amos will start the ball rolling in the Coliseum by starting the new students on the road to Nebraska "Pep", giving the yells and singing the songs to the accompaniment of the band. The Innocents, through their president, will welcome the freshmen. Following this Coach Bear will be introduced. He in turn will introduce his assistants and captains. Coach Schulte will be called on for a short talk, and he will also introduce his assistants and captains.

The Varsity quartette will be present to entertain the audience with a few selected numbers. Merle Jones and Geraldine Fleming will acquaint the freshmen with the old tradition of the "wearing of the green."

Dean Thompson will be called on for a talk on student discipline and scholarship. Acting Chancellor Burnett will be introduced and will give the official welcome to the class of 1931.

Dr. Condra, after being introduced and giving a short talk, will give the Cornhusker Oath. He will explain to the men about the camera-man waiting outside to take pictures and will direct the parade before the camera. The freshmen women will remain in the Coliseum for a separate convocation of their own and will later parade before the moving picture camera.

Graduates From Bizad College in Prominent Business Positions

Graduates of the Bizad school of the University of Nebraska are becoming more and more prominent in the business world as each succeeding class sends forth men and women to engage in commercial occupations. This is shown in the latest issue of the annual news letter to the graduates of the college of business administration.

Especially noticeable is the fact that men who were prominent in extra-curricular activities are more likely to be successful in business than are the students who took no part in campus activities during their college careers.

Bedell Prominent

One of the best known graduates of the Bizad school who is now prominent locally in business circles is Dwight F. Bedell, '22, who is now assistant to the secretary of the Lincoln chamber of commerce. Mr. Bedell held other responsible positions before becoming associated with the chamber of commerce. For some time he was secretary of the Cherryville, Kan., chamber of commerce, which position he resigned to become secretary and treasurer of the national organization of Alpha Kappa Psi, an honorary fraternity of the college of business administration students.

Other Bizad graduates rising to the front in the business world are Perry Branch, president of the Wholesale's retail credit association; Richard Koupal, secretary-treasurer of the same organization, and Secretary Buckley of the local Rotary club.

Officers of the Nebraska engineering society for the coming year are: Ed M. Jolley, president; Richard Hansen, vice-president; Ho Trively, secretary-treasurer. Ralph E. Bates is editor of the Blue Print with Emerson E. Mead, last year's editor, as general manager.

12:15 SET AS WEEK-ENDS' NIGHT LIMIT

Change in Co-Ed Hours Comes Unexpectedly Although Long Considered

RULING IS COMPROMISE

Measure Designed to Balance Requirements Governing University Girls

Friday and Saturday will be 12:15 evenings according to the rules governing university women sent from the dean of women's office to all university organizations Monday. For the past few years these nights have been 12:30 nights for women living in sororities and in off-campus buildings while those women living in the campus dormitories were forced to abide by the rule governing university buildings which provides that all such must be closed at 12 o'clock on week-end evenings. The rule comes as a compromise between the interests of the dormitory women and the other university co-eds.

There is a municipal regulation governing city parties which makes it necessary that all social functions close at 11:30 o'clock. University groups have been subject to this rule. At the time when a large number of the sororities were located considerable distances from the campus it was necessary to allow the full hour's time after the closing of dances for co-eds to return to their respective houses. Thus an attempt has been made to make the week-end hours uniform for dormitories and off-campus women.

Matter Pending

The matter of changing the hour has been pending for some time. Three years ago the Women's Self-Governing association redrafting the rules governing university women asked for permission to change this hour. The matter was brought before the university committee in charge of campus buildings, their permission granted, to the faculty committee on student organizations where it met with favorable comment and was returned to the board but definite action was not taken at the time.

Under the new group of rules men call's may remain until 12:15 o'clock on Friday and Saturday evenings, in the sorority or rooming houses. Membership of house presidents on the Associated Women's Student Council is dissolved and the rule stating that there shall be no eating down town after 10:30 on mid-week nights and after 12 o'clock on social nights is abolished. Other rules remain unchanged.

Purpose of New Rule

"The purpose of the new 12:15 o'clock rule," Dean Heppner declared late Monday afternoon, when interviewed by a Nebraskan reporter, "is not restrictive but protective." "We are not trying to be unreasonable, the request comes from the women students themselves," she continued, the old rule the university women have complained hit one group and not another; this way the situation is compromised; there is no discrimination but one set of rules for all classes."

The rules go in effect at once. There has been some talk among campus leaders of petitioning the Committee on Student Organizations for special permission to make such evenings as that of the Military ball, Pan-Hellenic formal ball open later, however, no definite action has yet been taken and the matter will probably be taken to rest until a later date.

Hendricks Attends Detroit Meeting

Dr. B. C. Hendricks of the chemistry department was a representative at a meeting of the American Chemical society in Detroit September 5-6, where he read a paper, "The High School Chemistry Laboratory," before the division of chemical education. Green Bonnets Become New Vogue at Vermillion

VERMILLION, S. D., Sept. 19.—Green bonnets appeared on the campus at the University of South Dakota as the new fashion for freshmen girls. The newcomers wearing green paper sun bonnets and carrying pillows under their arms afforded amusement for the upper classes. Authority for the statement is not forthcoming but it is rumored that the carrying of pillows on the way following initiation is a gesture of sympathy from the upper class girls who officiated at their christening.
