

HOCKEY GROUPS MEET INSIDE

Rain Forces W. A. A. Classes Indoors for Discussions

As long as wet weather continues, the W. A. A. hockey groups will meet in room 101 of the Army, instead of on the women's athletic field. Miss Wagner, women's coach, will devote the hour to a discussion of tactics. Attendance at these discussions will be given the same amount of credit as actual practice on the field.

It is not yet too late to go out for hockey, as only ten practice hours including the lectures are necessary for eligibility to tournament competition. Twenty-five points toward membership in the Women's Athletic association will be awarded to every participant who completes ten practices. Additional points are awarded upon the basis of technical mastery of the game.

AT THE THEATERS

The Pierre Watkin Players opened their season in Lincoln last night at the Liberty theater in "The Butter and Egg Man." Six of last season's players are in the cast.

"The Butter and Egg Man," is a comedy by George S. Kaufman, which concerns stage life. In common parlance it means a "sucker" and the story is about a meek young lad from Chillicothe, Ohio, who comes to New York with a small legacy of his father's. He falls in with a couple of play sharks who grab both him and his money. In the complications that ensue an appealing love theme is developed and finally a happy ending is worked out in a clever manner.

John Holden, new leading man, is seen in the title role, which he played this summer in stock in Toronto Can., and previously with the National Players at Kansas City. Other new members of the cast are Jack Gilchrist, Marguerite Wolfe, George Ertell, Edwin Vail, and Augusta French. The Revellers are playing at all performances.
